BEATTIE TRIAL EVIDENCE ALL IN

Prisoner's Story Abruptly Closed and Judge May Charge Jury To-morrow.

HIS COUSIN CORROBORATED

Four Witnesses Saw Kinsmen Together on Night Paul Says Henry Asked Him to Buy a Gun.

BINFORD GIRL NOT CALLED

Prosecution Feared She Would Aid the Defense—To be Released from Jail Immediately.

CHESTERFIELD COURT HOUSE, Va., Sept. 5.—With an unexpected brevity both the Commonwealth and the defense in the trial of Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., indicted for the murder of his wife, closed the evidence in the case shortly after 6 o'clock to-night. Judge Watson stretched his arms wearily, yawned audibly, and with a sigh of relief announced that court would adjourn until Thursday morning, to-morrow to be devoted to argument of counsel with the court as to the instructions to be given to the jury before the argument is begun on Thursday.

When court adjourned to-night Beulah Binford, alleged by the prosecution to have been the motive for the murder by Beattie of his wife, still was in jail without having uttered a single word of testimony. Scarcely an hour had passed in the eleven days of testimony when her name was not on the lips of witnesses or counsel for either side. Admittedly fearing that she would scrupulously avoid injuring the case of her former companion at any cost, though statements and interviews galore had fortified the prosecution with what it regarded as all necessary information, the Commonwealth did not put her on the stand.

"We have proved that she was the motive for the crime," said Prosecutor Wendenburg to-night, "without hearing her testimony as our witness and the admissions of the prisoner himself have told the jury enough."

Another figure, Paul Beattie, cousin of the accused, whose confession concerning the purchase of a shotgun for Henry four days before the homicide led to the building of the case for the prosecution, likewise was kept in jail, but both he and the Binford girl are likely to be released to-morrow. Judge Watson explained his attitude toward the girl's continued imprisonment by saying in the courtroom yesterday that unless the girl was to be put on the witness stand he wished "to turn her loose."

Case Ended Suddenly.

The closing of the case was sudden. Attorneys Harry M. Smith and Hill Carter, for the defense, first announced that they had a few witnesses for the surrebuttal, but if the Commonwealth would agree to rest its case they would do likewise. The agreement was accepted and Judge Watson arranged to meet counsel for both sides in Richmond to-morrow in a conference concerning instructions to be given to the jury. The prisoner will be kept in the jail at Chesterfield, and the jury will also remain here.

The taking of evidence was along no well-connected line, the prosecution, after completing its short cross-examination of the prisoner, taking up scattered points in the evidence. From one feature of the case to the other the prosecution skimmed in its effort to corroborate certain points in the case it had built up previously, but most conspicuous was the direct attack on the testimony of the prisoner.

The single question of importance that the prosecution put to the accused in its brief cross-examination early to-day was the one on which the Commonwealth had been basing practically its whole case against him. The prosecution wanted to know how it happened that a gun admittedly purchased by a cousin of Henry C. Beattie, Jr., and said by witness for the defense as having been purchased on the Saturday before the murder, came to be in the hands of the very highwayman that killed Mrs. Beattie on the Midlothian Turnpike four days later.

The prisoner answered simply that he knew nothing of the purchase of any gun by Paul, and did not see the weapon till it was raised by the lone highwayman.

The prosecution here rested its examination, and thereupon called witnesses to discredit the testimony of the prisoner. The attack, it was evident, was conducted by the prosecution on the theory that if one or two important points in the story of the prisoner could be discredited, the case would be established.

The Commonwealth introduced several witnesses, including members of Paul Beattie's family, to prove that the two cousins, Henry and Paul, were together on Thursday night, as well as on Saturday night preceding the murder, which contention was denied by the prisoner on the stand.

Support Paul Beattie's Story.

It was on Thursday night that Paul declared that his cousin first asked him to buy a shotgun. Not only were witnesses brought to the stand who testified that Paul was called on the telephone by his cousin Henry that night and requested to meet him at a certain street corner, but witnesses who said they saw the pair on that corner as well as in a barroom later, corroborated the story of Paul Beattie as to his movements on the Thursday night in question.

Witnesses also were introduced with the purpose of discrediting the testimony of E. H. Neblitt, who declared that he saw Paul Beattie with a shotgun on the bridge where Neblitt worked a day after Paul Beattie alleges that he transferred the gun to Henry.

Two men said they were on the bridge while Neblitt was there, and they declared that Paul had no shotgun. Commonwealth Attorney Wendenburg attempted to cast some doubt, too, on the evidence of Charles H. Kestleberg, who said it was he who was motoring on Midlothian Turnpike on the night of the murder, and who stopped his machine while a woman stood on the running board. Roland Lassiter, one of the boys who saw the car with the woman on the running board an da man crouched before the hood, declared that he knew Kestelberg, as well as the make of the car, and that the man was not Kestelberg, nor was the car his.

Though various phases of the case were entered into, the prosecution in effect really concentrated its attention on corroborating the story of Paul Beattie not only as to the purchase of the gun but as to his presence on the veranda of the prisoner's home on the night following the murder, when Paul says Henry confessed to him that he committed the crime. Witnesses were brought forward to controvert the story of the accused on the stand yesterday that while Paul was on the veranda that night they were not alone, and that too many persons were present for any private conversation.

The principal witness in refuting this was Henry B. Owen, a brother of the dead woman, who testified that Paul and

Faurot Back from Europe with Details of Extended Bertillon System.

Capt. Joseph A. Faurot, head of the Bureau of Identification of the Police Department, who arrived from Europe on Tuesday by the steamship Minnetonka, after two months' study of criminology in Paris and London, gave some account yesterday morning at Police Headquarters of a school for detectives which Commissioner Waldo has determined to start. Capt. Faurot will teach detective pupils the latest means of identifying criminals. The new method is in a measure a continuation of the Bertillon system of criminal identification. Paris has had the whole system for three years, and London for two.

Capt. Faurot had letters of introduction to M. Bertillon, the inventor of the identification system which includes thumb mark measurements, and to M. Lepine, Prefect of the Paris police. M. Bertillon showed him the extension of the identification system which he has established among the Paris detectives. To be a detective there a man has to pass an examination. Physiognomy plays the greatest part in the added part of the system. The nose, eyes, forehead, chin, mouth, throat, skin, all are closely studied. "Wrinkles on the forehead differ greatly," said Capt. Faurot. The lids of the eye, with their lashes, the color, and manner of using the eyes are minutely noted. M. Bertillon has established the fact that no two persons' ears are exactly alike, and does not believe that two noses are ever precisely alike. There are innumerable means of identifying a person by facial characteristics. M. Bertillon gave to Faurot a full set of the charts and means of taking measurements used in his bureau.

The nose is the best means of identifying a man before he is apprehended, and next to that, the ear. Peculiarities in personal habits, such as biting the finger nails, smoking, the manner of holding the cigar, the choice of a cigar, and so on, are all important.

Bertillon showed Capt. Faurot the thumbprints of a man taken in India in 1850. Thumbprints of the same man were taken two years ago in Paris. Faurot says they were identical even after more than half a century. He was also shown the thumbprints of a chimpanzee and an orang-outan, and he said it was difficult to tell them from those of a man.

It will take from twenty to twenty-five lessons, said Capt. Faurot, to teach a detective the new method by means of the charts and studies he procured in Paris and London.

By some misadventure the trunk in which Capt. Faurot had all the charts, measurements, and studies for his new system has been misplaced, and he has not seen it since it was aboard ship. He thinks the express people misplaced it, and that it will turn up, but he is worrying about it.

STANDARD OIL $340 A SHARE

Paid on Curb for Dissolved Jersey Company—With Subsidiaries $665.

For the first time since the books of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey closed, on Aug. 31, for recording the shareholders who are to receive on Dec. 1 or thereabout their pro rata shares of the stocks of the thirty-three subsidiaries of which the court compels the distribution Standard Oil stock was sold on the Curb yesterday. Both the New Jersey corporation shares and the shares of the subsidiaries alone, as they are to be distributed, brought the combined price of $665, which is 35 points above the last price made for "cash" on Aug. 31, when the New Jersey corporation's stock, with full rights to subsidiaries, sold between 620 and 638, closing at 630.

Five shares of the New Jersey corporation, which continues after the dissolution as a manufacturing company and the holding company for natural gas and foreign companies which did not come under the condemnation of the Sherman law, sold at $340 a share. This price represents, to some extent, the conviction among the brokers that the usual ten-dollar dividend for the last quarter of the year will be paid on the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey stock. The company's assets are admitted by the Standard Oil officials to be worth "fully" its capitalization of $100,000,000, not counting the properties from which the court has ordered it to disassociate itself.

In the belief that this dividend will be paid, with possibly a large distribution, the contract of sale gives to the buyer the right to whatever dividend may be paid on Standard Oil Company of New Jersey up to Dec. 31, except the distribution of the subsidiary stocks.

Five shares of the rights to the pro rata distribution of the thirty-three subsidiaries sold at $325.

NEWBERRY AUTO KILLS CHILD

Ex-Secretary of Navy, Who Was Driving, Surrenders and Gives Bail.

Special to The New York Times.

NARRAGANSETT PIER, R. I., Sept. 5.—Helen Ellis, the eight-year-old daughter of George W. Ellis of Milford, Mass., was killed on Ocean Road here to-night by a motor car owned and driven by Truman H. Newberry, formerly Secretary of the Navy, who is spending the Summer at Watch Hill.

The child, a member of a motor party stopping at the Mathewson, was crossing the road. Some one called out to her a warning of the approaching machine and she stepped back, it is said, into the way of the automobile, which was running at a moderate speed.

Mr. Newberry, who was accompanied by his chauffeur, Francis Wooster, immediately stopped the car and endeavored to procure medical assistance. Later Mr. Newberry went to the police station, where he surrendered himself. He was charged with homicide, and bail, which was furnished by J. C. Joyce of Elm Cottage, fixed at $5,000. Mr. Newberry is to appear for trial in the District Court at Wakefield on Monday, Sept. 11. According to a statement given to the police officials by Mr. Newberry, his machine was running at between twelve and thirteen miles an hour at the time of the accident. Mr. Newberry left the Pier to-night for Watch Hill.

EX-SHAH'S FORCE ROUTED.

Eighty Killed and 400 Wounded—One of the Leaders Captured.

TEHERAN, Wednesday, Sept. 6.—The forces of the ex-Shah, Mohammed Ali Mirza, suffered a crushing defeat to-day at Imamzadeh-Jafar.

Arsch ed Dowleh, one of the leaders of the rebels, was wounded and taken prisoner.

The ex-Shah lost eighty men killed, 400 wounded, and eleven captured.

Atlantic and Pacific Transport Company Will Have Fleet of Fifteen Ready in 1913.

COAST-TO-COAST TRIPS

Company Sees Great Opportunity for Tourist as Well as Freight and Mail Business.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 5.—The Atlantic and Pacific Transport Company of New Jersey, organized to bid on contracts now being advertised by Postmaster General Hitchcock, which call for weekly ocean mail service between New York and Colon, New Orleans and Colon, and San Francisco and the City of Panama, (and for a fortnightly service between Seattle and the City of Panama,) was incorporated here to-day with a capital of $15,000,000. The incorporators are among the best-known steamship men in the United States, and of the five four are former officials of the Atlantic Transport Line, which line is now one of the services operated by the International Mercantile Marine. These men are Bernard N. Baker, former President; James S. Whiteley, former Vice President; C. G. Helm, former Treasurer, and T. B. Harrison, former Secretary of the Atlantic Transport Line, all of whom are residents of Baltimore, and Adrian H. Boole of Washington, at one time one of the managers of the Wilson Line offices in Boston.

The organization of this company is the first step in preparation for the commercial use of the Panama Canal, as the incorporators plan to maintain regular steamship service between the principal ports on the Pacific and Atlantic American seaboards. It has under way plans for the immediate construction of a fleet of fifteen modern liners of the speed and tonnage necessary to comply with all the requirements of the Ocean Mail act of 1891. Assurances have been given that all the steamships will be ready to enter the service when the canal is opened to world traffic in 1913.

The mail contracts for which the new company will bid require that steamers from New York to Colon must stop at Charleston, S. C., or Savannah, Ga., en route, while those departing from San Francisco for the City of Panama must call at San Pedro (the port of Los Angeles) or San Diego, Cal., en route, and those leaving Seattle must call at Astoria (port of Portland) on the southern voyages. It is the intention to extend all these mail routes through the Panama Canal and make complete trips from the ports of the Pacific to those of the Atlantic every week the year around. This will make possible the opportunity for full return cargoes without rehandling in transit.

In order that the trade advantages of the canal may be developed to the greatest benefit and profit of the people of the United States the Postmaster General has instructed the bidders for mail contracts that no contracts will be awarded "to any bidder who shall be engaged in any competitive transportation business by rail." The charter of the company incorporated here to-day conforms to this condition. It reads:

> No person shall be eligible as a Director who shall be a Director in or an officer or agent of any corporation or association engaged in any competitive transportation business by rail.

Three years ago the Government realized that unless a large fleet of American ships was built to compete for the canal traffic the country would in 1913 open the costliest canal in the world to a trade that would practically be monopolized by ships flying the flags of foreign nations. That was why, in 1908, Gen. Luke E. Wright, then Secretary of War, called in Mr. Baker and asked him to ascertain why the prospective trade benefits of the canal were not being taken advantage of in the United States. As a result of that conference Mr. Baker made a trip to the Isthmus and to the principal ports of the Pacific, and submitted his conclusions in a statement which was later transmitted to the Senate Committee on Interoceanic Canals. In his report Mr. Baker stated that the transcontinental railroad pool had been paying $1,000,000 a year to the Panama Railroad Company to suppress water competition by way of Panama, and that one of the ways the Panama Railroad accomplished this purpose was not to build its line to deep water. Other trips were made to the canal and the Pacific Coast, and as a result Mr. Baker, at the request of Gen. Wright, formulated plans for the commercial utilization of the great waterway as soon as it was opened to trade.

The extent of the traffic from coast to coast, two years ago, was estimated to be about 3,000,000 tons, and as that trade was then, and is still, increasing at the rate of 10 per cent. each year, this will mean 4,200,000 tons by the time the canal is ready for navigation by ocean-going vessels. Since water transportation costs so much less than transportation by rail, the natural advantage will be with the new route across the Isthmus, and the organizers of the Atlantic and Pacific Transport Company anticipate the enjoyment of a full share of the benefits that will be open to American commerce when the canal is completed.

It is stated that the new ships will be models of comfort and luxury, and will be the equal of the best products of the great European shipyards for vessels of their size and speed. Special apparatus will be installed to keep the temperature even throughout the ship in temperate and tropical climates, and it will be possible for the traveler to sail from New York or New Orleans, or intermediate ports, for San Francisco, Seattle, or Los Angeles, occupying throughout the voyage quarters in which the temperature will be at his command. All expenses considered, it is stated that the cost of such a trip will be about two-thirds of the present railroad rate. For this reason the company expects to do a large tourist business during the San Francisco Exposition that is to celebrate the opening of the Panama Canal to the world trade.

The company also expects to handle a great traffic at the Panama and Colon terminals of the canal, this trade to consist of, first, transshipments to and from the Central American markets, which are to be served by the company's barges; and, secondly, transshipments to and from

OSBORNE TO DIRECT ALBANY INQUIRY

Chosen by Legislative Committee as Attorney in Investigation of City and County Affairs.

AIMED AT REPUBLICAN RULE

Rumor That Gambling and Other City Vices Have Been Promised Immunity by a Democratic Leader.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Sept. 5.—Word came from New York to-day to the effect that former Assistant District Attorney James W. Osborne of New York, the man who brought Senator Jotham P. Allds to grief in last year's bribery investigation before the Senate, has been selected as counsel of the Senate committee which is to probe the city and county government of Albany.

Patrick E. McCabe, Senate Clerk and Democratic boss of Albany, returned from New York to-night. It is understood that the selection of Mr. Osborne is due to the importunities of Mr. McCabe, who has instigated the prospective investigation. William Barnes, Jr., Chairman of the Republican State Committee, is at the head of the local Republican organization. It was the idea of Mr. McCabe that Albany, which has been carried by the Republicans for several years, ought to return to the Democratic fold. It has not been a stronghold of Puritanism and blue laws have been honored more in the breach than in the observance under Boss Barnes, eve nthough the Capital City has not been notoriously "wide open" in the generally accepted sense of that term. Gambling, however, has been prevalent and Albany has its red light district.

It was stated here on what appeared to be good authority that if Tammany has its way there will be no prying into either form of vice. Both the gamblers and the "red light" resorts are said to have been promised immunity by a lawmaker who wields a powerful influence in the inner circles of Tammany Hall. It is no secret at the Capitol that neither the gambling houses nor the red light resorts would thrive as well as they do if it were not for the periodical sojourn of the lawmakers at the capitol.

Mayor McEwan of Albany, a Republican, does not give evidence of any concern regarding the coming investigation. He declares that if any official wrong-doing should be unearthed by the Senate committee it will result in the prompt exercise of what power of removal the Mayor possesses. Mayor McEwan, in common with William Barnes, Jr., points to the fact that Republican officials have been elected and re-elected for at least a dozen years as an evidence that the people of Albany like the sort of city government they have.

The Investigation Committee is composed of the following Senators: Howard R. Bayne of Richmond, William P. Fiero of Greene, Felix J. Sanner of Kings, George B. Burd of Erie, and J. Mayhew Wainwright of Westchester.

The committee is composed of exceptionally high-class members. Senator Bayne, who probably will be Chairman when the committee meets to organize this week, is classed as an independent. Senator Wainwright is the only Republican on the committee. He also is recognized as a man of independence in politics.

The resolution for the investigation of Albany was introduced by Senator James Frawley of New York. Senator Frawley is a Tammany machine man, and it is not denied here that the resolution was put in for political reasons—to aid McCabe to wrest victory from Barnes in city and county elections and get patronage enough with which to build up a good Democratic machine in this city and county by showing up dereliction in the administration of Albany, which is controlled by Mr. Barnes and his present lieutenants.

TOO MUCH GOLD PRODUCED.

This Said to be Cause of High Prices and Consequent Labor Unrest.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 5.—An interesting suggestion is made in regard to the increased cost of living, which, like an earth wave, has sent a tremor throughout Europe, causing food riots in France, an outcry against the butchers in Belgium, and protests against dearer meat and milk in Germany, while it is largely responsible for the labor unrest in England.

This suggestion is that the enormous output of gold in recent years has upset the balance of prices and that the world has not yet shaken itself down to a true adjustment.

Statistics show conclusively that in England, on the Continent, and in North America nearly all the commoner and most necessary articles of food have been steadily rising in price since the century opened. Meat, especially bacon, in England the poor man's favorite food; milk, bread, and sugar all cost more. It is calculated that there is a 10 per cent. increase in the weekly budget of household expenses in England.

Prof. Chapman at to-day's meeting of the British Association predicted that the next three years would be an era of strikes, due to the fact that, whereas up to 1896 the cost of living had been falling, it had since then been rising.

PICKS BULLET FROM MOUTH.

Klein Then Asks Man Who Wounded Him Why He Doesn't Shoot Again.

Special to The New York Times.

BEN BOW CITY, Ill., Sept. 5.—When H. Klein, a boilermaker, was shot by Tony Jennings yesterday, the injured man calmly picked the bullet and two broken teeth from his mouth and asked his assailant why he didn't shoot again. Jennings fled and was later captured in Granite City and returned to Ben Bow City for trial, charged with assault to kill.

Jennings says he shot Klein because Klein assisted in beating him several months ago. Klein went to the office of Dr. E. Barton, where his injury was dressed. He was able to return to his work this morning at the Standard Oil refinery.

MAROONED CAT IN THEATRE LAND

Fireman, Automobilists, Half a Theatre Audience, and a Lady in Blue to the Rescue.

ATHLETICS BY THE FIREMAN

Catfishing with String and Steak by the Lady in Blue—And the Cat at Midnight Was Unrescued Still.

Four automobiles, two licensed taxicabs, the male part of one theatre audience, a city fireman, a large lady in blue, two shelves out of a family bookcase, eight actors out of employment, and one small, gray, somewhat slender cat formed the dramatis personae of a little entr'acte farce at the Lyceum Theatre last night. Everything but the part of the audience and the actors "at liberty" stayed on the sidewalk and in the houses opposite the theatre, excepting of course the motor vehicles, which remained below the curb.

The cat was on the ledge of the third floor window at 146 West Forty-fifth Street. The window was closed, and the house seemed to be deserted. How the cat got on the ledge was the mystery of the plot. One actor suggested that it had fallen from an aeroplane. Less imaginative people thought it had crawled out of the window of the deserted house when the window had been opened for an airing. Anyhow, it was there, and lifted its voice and said so.

Next door, at 148, in the room with a window adjacent to the resting place of the cat, resided the lady in blue. She heard the cries and her heart was filled with pity. She tried to coax the cat to jump to her window, but the cat would not. She consulted with neighbors, who put their heads out of other windows, and with the drivers of automobiles and taxicabs. None of their suggestions seemed acceptable, but the vehicles all stopped to watch proceedings. One man persisted in blowing his siren, in the hope that the cat would be frightened into doing something, even falling off the ledge.

After a while the fireman at the Hudson Theatre came to the stage door, which is in Forty-fifth Street not far away, and his quick eyes took in the situation. Ringing the doorbell at 148 and being admitted, he hastened to the third floor. With the assistance of the lady in blue, who held on to his coat, he essayed the dangerous passage from one window to the other. It was only a very long step, and he would have succeeded in bridging the gap successfully had not the lady, on her side, objected to his taking such a risk, and the cat, on her side, objected in an unmistakable manner to being rescued in that way.

Then the fireman thought of something else. He would bridge the gap in another way. The lady in blue took a shelf out of the bookcase, and together they succeeded in laying it across from one window to the other. The cat backed into the furthest corner and once more lifted up its voice in lamentation. Seemingly it did not like bridges.

Then came another inspiration to the fireman. Cats like meat. Perhaps this cat was hungry enough to take a chance at some delicatessen ham. The lady in blue had the ham, and procuring a piece of string was but the work of a moment. Ham on string was tossed to the cat, and then dragged slowly across the board, which so recently had held a complete set of Victor Hugo in twenty-three volumes.

Across the street, and to the strained ears of the male part of the Lyceum audience, which had forgotten what it went out for and was keeping the bartenders waiting, came again the lamenting voice of the cat. Perhaps the cat did not like ham. Perhaps it had no faith in humanity. Perhaps it was not hungry. Anyhow, it did not budge.

Duty called the fireman and he departed to see that no one dared stand up in the Hudson Theatre; the second act of "Thy Neighbor's Wife" beckoned to the theatregoers, and they went within; a policeman warned the automobiles against blocking the street, and they chugged to Sixth Avenue; windows of neighboring houses lost their framed pictures of once interested people; the street took on its wonted aspect.

But did the lady in something blue desist from her efforts to entice the marooned cat? She did not. With the shelf from the bookcase still bridging the gap she patiently played the ham on the end of the string and patiently called "Kitty! Kitty!" until the drama across the street ended and the people went home. At midnight she was still trying, though there were signs of exhaustion in her gestures and weariness in her voice, and her hair had begun to come down at the back. The cat, as well as could be seen from across the street, had decided to make the best of things and had curled up and gone to sleep.

COUSINS RUN AWAY TO WED.

Fathers Pursue Charles Major and Miss Jessie Major in Vain.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 5.—Charles Major, son of Alfred Major, formerly high in the councils of the American Bridge Company, and Miss Jessie Major, daughter of Stephen T. Major, have been married after a stormy courtship of several years, during which time their families did everything in their power to keep the young people apart. The main objection, it is understood, was the close relationship of the two. They are first cousins.

The marriage took place a week ago. Just where only the irate fathers of the young couple, the bride and bridegroom themselves, and the officiating minister know, but that it did take place was vouched for to-day by Alfred Major, father of the bridegroom.

One night last week a telephone message was received at the home of Alfred Major, at Morristown, to the effect that the young people had gone out together, and had been seen in an automobile heading for Philadelphia. Telephoning to his brother, Stephen Major, the two fathers got in a high-powered machine and gave chase. Here they learned that no marriage license had been issued, and they continued to Wilmington. They found no trace of the couple there, and proceeded to New Jersey. Here again they were disappointed, and after being twelve hours on the road they returned home.

When asked over the telephone to-night about the marriage Alfred Major said:

"Yes, they are married all right. It's no person's business where they married. I don't know where they are and I don't care."

DRAWN BY 96 OXEN.

Farmer Drives Them to Cart Twenty Miles to Grange Fair.

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., Sept. 5.—John Cavanagh, a farmer, who lives in the Penfield Hill District of the Town of Portland, decided to take his family to the Grange Fair at Haddam Neck yesterday. There is no railroad running between the two towns.

Mr. Cavanagh owns ten yoke of oxen himself, and by borrowing from his neighbors managed to collect forty-eight yoke, or ninety-six oxen altogether. With these attached to a gayly decorated ox-cart he made the trip, covering the distance of about twenty miles in five hours. The services of twelve drivers were needed to guide the animals on the road.

The line of cattle stretched for more than a quarter of a mile along the road, and it took them five minutes to pass a given point. On his arrival at the fair grounds Cavanagh found that he and his cattle attracted more attention than any other exhibit on the grounds.

LOST ON MOUNT RAINIER.

Rescue Party Up 8,000 Feet in Search of Leigh Garrett.

TACOMA, Wash., Sept. 5.—The rescuing party which started up Mount Rainier (Mount Tacoma) in search of young Leigh Garrett, who tried on Saturday to reach the peak, is camping at the snow line about 8,000 feet high and is unable to proceed owing to storms.

Garrett comes from Boston and was a student in the University of Wisconsin. Mountain guides do not believe he can survive in the present weather.

BOSTON, Sept. 5.—Leigh Garrett, the Boston youth believed to be lost on Mount Rainier, is a son of the late L. O. Garrett of Fairhaven, Mass. The young man's mother, Mrs. A. P. Garrett, lives on Mount Vernon Street, Boston, and is the manager of a silk store in the Back Bay District.

Young Garrett, who is about 25 years of age, has attended Harvard College and the University of Wisconsin, but was never graduated from either institution.

HELD FOR AUTO DEATH.

Gill and Carr Under Bonds for Killing ex-Representative Whitcomb's Son.

Special to The New York Times.

QUINCY, Mass., Sept. 5.—Royal W. Gill of Baltimore and Edward Carr of Philadelphia, who were in the automobile which struck and killed 12-year-old Arthur Whitcomb, son of ex-Representative and Mrs. Fred W. Whitcomb of Holbrook on Saturday, were arraigned in the District Court here this morning.

Through counsel they waived the reading of the complaints and pleaded not guilty. Gill was charged with manslaughter and Carr with running a motor car without a license. Gill was held in $5,000 and Carr in $200.

The Holbrook police who made the arrests were not in court and no witnesses were present. The absence of the witnesses was due to the fact that the boy's funeral was held this morning.

Gill is said to be a brother of Howard Gill, the aviator, and a nephew of ex-Gov. Warfield of Maryland. Both young men were going from the aviation meet to Providence when the fatality occurred.

ARRESTS RUNAWAY HUSBAND

Ludlow W. Valentine of New Rochelle Caught in Atlantic City.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., Sept. 5.—Ludlow W. Valentine, formerly a wealthy resident of Rochelle Park, New Rochelle, was arrested in Atlantic City yesterday by Sheriff Henry Scherp of Westchester County. Valentine is under indictment at White Plains for abandonment. He has been away from New Rochelle for the past two years, and his wife says that she had to work to support herself. Mrs. Valentine has a prosperous real estate business in New York City.

Valentine is about 30 years old. At the time he and his wife lived in New Rochelle they were much in society, entertaining and being entertained in the social whirl there. They have one child, a boy, about 9 years old. Valentine, it is said, went into business with his father-in-law. The charge against him in Jersey is being a fugitive from justice, and he will be held there for thirty days so that papers of extradition can be obtained.

CANCEL McCORMICK DANCE.

Recalling of Invitations by J. D. Rockefeller's Daughter Surprises Chicago.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—Those who had been invited to the dinner dance which was to have been given this evening by Mr. and Mrs. Harold F. McCormick are wondering what is back of the hasty recalling of the invitations to the number of 120, and the hurried departure of Mrs. McCormick from the Italian villa at Lake Forest, where the affair was to have taken place, to her town house, on Lake Shore Drive.

Efforts to reach either Mr. or Mrs. McCormick proved unavailing. Friends of Mrs. McCormick said that no explanation was given for the recalling of the invitations beyond Mrs. McCormick's statement that she expected to leave on Friday for Cleveland to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, and for that reason had decided to postpone the entertainment indefinitely.

The dinner dance, which was eagerly looked forward to by those who are familiar with Mrs. McCormick's lavish ideas of entertaining, and her fondness for novelties and surprises, was to have been the crowning event of a season that has been filled with elaborate and interesting functions.

COST OF SENATE ELECTIONS.

Martin and Swanson of Virginia Each Spent $3,500.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—The first campaign publicity statements, those of Senators Martin and Swanson of Virginia, filed in accordance with the campaign publicity law passed at the recent session of Congress, were made public to-day by order of Secretary of the Senate Bennett. They had been kept secret because the act contained no requirement for publicity of individual statements filed by candidates for the Senate and House.

Both Senators Martin and Swanson showed that on the day their reports were filed, which was exactly the required ten days before next Thursday, when the Democratic Senatorial primary election will be held in Virginia, they were far below the maximum $10,000 which a Senatorial candidate may spend to obtain his election. Each had spent about $3,500. Of this $3,000 was required of each candidate to help defray expenses of the election.

Senator Martin spent $348 for newspaper space and Senator Swanson $332. In addition each said he expected to incur a further expense of "several hundred dollars for space and editorials." They declared that other small amounts doubtless will be spent by friends for publicity in other newspapers, and that they will meet any reasonable expense of this sort.

Senator Swanson engaged hotel headquarters at Richmond at $55 a week, and Senator Martin said his expense on this account would be "small."

$800,000 GEMS BY MISS GRIGSBY

Friend of Princess Mary's Governess Returns on Olympic with Remarkable Jewel Collection.

THEY COME IN DUTY FREE

Customs Inspectors Dazzled by the Display of Diamonds, Rubies, and Other Gems.

TWO SERVANTS WITH HER

One Stands Guard Over Her Door to Keep Out Interviewers—Grandfather Meets Her.

Miss Emilie Grigsby, the ward of the late Charles T. Yerkes, concerning whom so many stories were cabled from London early in June, one being to the effect that she was to have a conspicuous place at the coronation ceremonies in Westminster Abbey because the little Princess Mary's governess was a chum of the American woman, arrived here last night on the White Star liner Olympic. She was dressed entirely in black, except for a white lace collar, and was easily the most conspicuous of the Olympic's passengers.

After the landing Miss Grigsby drew all the limelight when she went into the customs office on the pier and displayed for Government inspection jewels valued after appraisement at more than $800,000.

Miss Grigsby brought over her fortune in diamonds, rubies, emeralds, pearls, and other precious stones in two large jewel cases, each fitted with half a dozen compartments, in every one of which the finest products of the jeweler's art were displayed. She had listed the contents of her jewel cases on half a dozen pages of blue writing paper, and as she removed the jewels one by one Acting Deputy Surveyor John P. O'Connor marked them off the list which had been turned over to him by her.

One of the most gorgeous pieces in the collection was a coronet set with big diamonds and bigger rubies. There were 100 diamonds in this piece, which Miss Grigsby held up in her white-gloved hand while O'Connor looked it over to convince himself that it was worth the many thousands of dollars Miss Grigsby said it was.

Another conspicuous piece was a pendant, the principal ornament in which was a big pearl of the purest lustre. There were several necklaces in which splendid diamonds glittered, set solitaire.

Examination Took an Hour.

The examination of the fortune in jewels was made in the customs room in plain view of hundreds of returning tourists and their friends. Miss Grigsby herself called out the pieces as she desired them, and a colored maid who accompanied her took them, piece by piece, out of the compartments in the jewel cases. The examination lasted nearly an hour, and the figuring up of the total value of the lot took ten minutes more.

Those who witnessed the examination to which the jewels were subjected wondered how much duty Miss Grigsby would be required to pay to get them into the country. She did not pay a cent, making an affidavit that every piece of jewelry had been previously in the country and that the law had been complied with when they were first brought in. As the law calls for payment of duty only once on any dutiable article, she was permitted therefore to bring in the entire $800,000 worth duty free.

Miss Grigsby occupied one of the finest suites on the Olympic, and was accompanied by a maid and a manservant, both colored. She also had three Chow dogs. When they left the ship the manservant carried the cases containing the jewelry, while the maid looked after the dogs.

Miss Grigsby was not seen much by the passengers during the voyage. As a rule she kept to her suite. When she did appear, however, she made friends. Her grandfather, Hamilton Busbee, a lawyer of this city, met her at the pier. He had his troubles getting to her, for when he got ready to go on the ship the 1,220 cabin passengers were coming off, and the jam was so great on the gangplanks that getting aboard was nearly out of the question.

At Quarantine the Olympic had been boarded by several reporters who went to the suite occupied by Miss Grigsby and sent in their cards. The manservant stood guard at the door and said that Miss Grigsby had instructed him to say she would not be seen.

"She just won't talk and that is all there is to it," said the servitor.

Miss Grigsby Well Guarded.

Not once on the way up from Quarantine did Miss Grigsby leave her room, and all that time the faithful servant stood at the door to see that no one got to her. Every now and then the colored maid came out to find out whether the reporters were still waiting, and then went back to report to her mistress. When the liner finally reached her pier and the passengers started to leave the ship the maid hurried off, and finding Mr. Busbee, told him that Miss Grigsby awaited him in her suite. Mr. Busbee thereupon went to the gangplank and told the customs Inspector on duty there that he wished to go on board.

"Well, you will have to wait until the passengers are landed," the Inspector told him.

"But I can't wait; I wish to see Miss Grigsby, she is being besieged and needs me," Mr. Busbee said.

"Who's besieging her? What are you talking about?" the Inspector asked.

"The reporters," answered Mr. Busbee.

The Inspector pointed to the crush on the gangplanks and Mr. Busbee made no further effort to get on board until most of the passengers had landed. Then, guided by the maid, he hurried to Miss Grigsby's suite.

Soon Mr. Busbee appeared with Miss Grigsby on his arm. She is a small woman and smiled somewhat sadly when the reporters began asking questions.

"My granddaughter," Mr. Busbee answered for her, "will not be interviewed without my consent, and I will not give that."

Newspaper clippings about her life in London and the alleged friendship of the Princess Mary's governess for her were shown to her, and another that the Queen had invited her to witness the coronation. She looked wearily at the clippings, but said not a word.

Then she hurried from the ship and went to the customs office to look after the jewel appraisal. That inspection ended, she supervised the examination of her baggage, and about midnight left the pier.

OLYMPIC'S CABINS ALL FULL.

Many Well-Known New Yorkers Among the Returning Host.

The White Star liner Olympic, biggest of all transatlantic liners, arrived from Southampton last night with a great throng of passengers, among them Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Gould, William R. Willcox, President of the Public Service Commission; William Church Osborn, Gov. Dix's legal adviser; Controller William A. Prendergast, who said he had hurried home to fight the proposed Charter; Mr. and Mrs. Paul D. Cravath, the Marchioness of Donegal, Lady Idina Sackville, Mr. and Mrs. James A. Roosevelt; the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Randolph H. McKim of Washington, D. C.; George F. Baer, President of the Reading Railroad, and Mrs. Baer; the Right Hon. P. C. Carlisle, Chairman of the Board of Directors of Harland & Wolff, the company that built the Olympic; Mr. and Mrs. Hugh J. Chisholm, Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. de Forest, W. H. Newman, former President of the New York Central, and Mrs. Newman, and Major and Mrs. Duncan C. Phillips.

Every cabin, both first and second, on the great liner was occupied for the voyage, and the only reason more didn't come was because there was no more room.

The voyage was splendid. The liner made fine speed, her average being 21.81 knots, while her time for the voyage of 2,871 miles from Daunt's Rock to the Ambrose Channel Lightship was five days seven hours and twenty-nine minutes. This was not quite as good a record as her maiden voyage, but it was considered a fine showing when it is taken into account that rough weather was encountered on several days. The total number of passengers on the liner was 1,931, of whom 718 were in the saloon.

Edwin Gould, who was accompanied by Mrs. Gould and their two sons, was one of the few who had little to say. Mr. Gould explained that he did not know anything of interest to the public at this particular time. Mr. Baer, however, who was with Mr. Gould much of the time on the way over, was not so reticent.

"I have been having a good time, and when I left my instructions were that I was not to be disturbed by cable or otherwise," said Mr. Baer. "I do not know what is going on here in America. In Europe, though, I noted a spirit of unrest, which seemed to be a mixture of labor, politics, and war. I have no predictions to make as to the outcome."

Mr. Cravath said he had talked with Whitney Warren in Paris and that Mr. Warren then had with him what were practically the approved plans for the New Theatre. He was asked if he could indicate who the new Directors of the theatre were to be, but replied that on that subject he had nothing to say at this time.

Prendergast to Fight Charter.

Chairman Willcox said he was barren of news. He had made it a point to run every time he saw a street car while he was in Europe. He was optimistic about the subway outlook, however, and said he would get to work right away. Mr. Prendergast said his vacation had not been a complete success because he had found it necessary to cut it short in order to come home and join in the fight on the proposed new City Charter.

"I cut my vacation short and left my family in Europe in order to come back and do my part as a public official in opposing what I consider to be wrong in the proposed Charter," said Mr. Prendergast, "and I wish to say that my opposition will not be personal, but will have to do with every provision I consider wrong, no matter whose department it affects. I have been in daily communication with my office by cable, and the information I received was such that I considered it my duty as a public official to return and take my place on the firing line."

"What do you think of the proposed Charter anyway?" Mr. Prendergast was asked.

"What do I think of hell?" was his emphatic answer.

Mr. Osborn said he was still Gov. Dix's legal adviser, and when asked if he contemplated resigning replied that he hoped to be relieved of that duty some day. He, too, was asked what he thought of the Charter.

"I read a copy on the way over," he replied, "and I—well, I guess I won't talk about the Charter just now."

Mr. Osborn said that he did not wish it to be understood that he had any immediate intention of resigning as the Governor's legal adviser.

Mr. Carlisle of the shipbuilding firm said that the Titanic, a sister of the Olympic, would be ready next March to enter the Atlantic trade. He is accompanied by his young son, and will return to England on the Olympic next week.

"I will attend to a little business, see some friends, and take my boy to Coney Island," said Mr. Carlisle.

Other passengers were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Scribner, Mr. George N. Armstrong, G. T. Blackstock, Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Conkling, Mr. and Mrs. H. Blanchard Dominick, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Everett, Maurice Burke Roche, Austin B. Fletcher, Owen Hitchens, Mr. and Mrs. Spalding Lowe Jenkins, Mrs. Jay Cooke, Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton F. Kean, and Gen. Edward C. O'Brien.

DRIVE PASTOR FROM TOWN.

Serious Charge Made Against the Rev. C. F. McKoy of Bar Harbor.

Special to The New York Times.

BAR HARBOR, Me., Sept. 5.—With the alternative of leaving town at once or standing trial on a serious charge the Rev. Charles F. McKoy, pastor of the Bar Harbor Baptist Church, and one of the best known clergymen in Maine, left for unknown parts last night after a visit from County Attorney Graham and Deputy Sheriff Puffer. They had a warrant for his arrest.

Mr. McKoy, who is a graduate of Colby College, Waterville, Me., and Bangor Theological Seminary, has several times been mentioned in connection with vacancies in the larger Baptist churches in the State, and was an eloquent preacher and energetic worker.

McKoy is reported to have confessed to the charges which were brought by the parents of a young girl.

The news came as a bombshell to the community, for, while some stories had been told about the clergyman during his five years' pastorate here, he was the idol of his parish, and had been most successful in his church work, doubling the membership, freeing the church from debt, building a new parsonage, remodeling the church, and raising funds to buy a fine pipe organ.

Indignation is at a high pitch in the community, and threats of personal violence against the minister if he ever returned were frequently heard to-day.

MINISTER DISAPPEARS.

"God Knows My Sin," Is the Rev. Dr. Johnson's Only Explanation.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Sept. 5.—Members of the Missouri Methodist Conference departed for their homes to-day stunned and saddened by the sudden disappearance of the Rev. H. H. Johnson of Clarence, Mo., Secretary of the Board of Church Extension and one of the leading Methodist ministers in Missouri.

Dr. Johnson left here Saturday and later a message was received from him in Mexico, Mo. The minister resigned from the board, from the Conference, and from the ministry. He ended his message with the sentence:

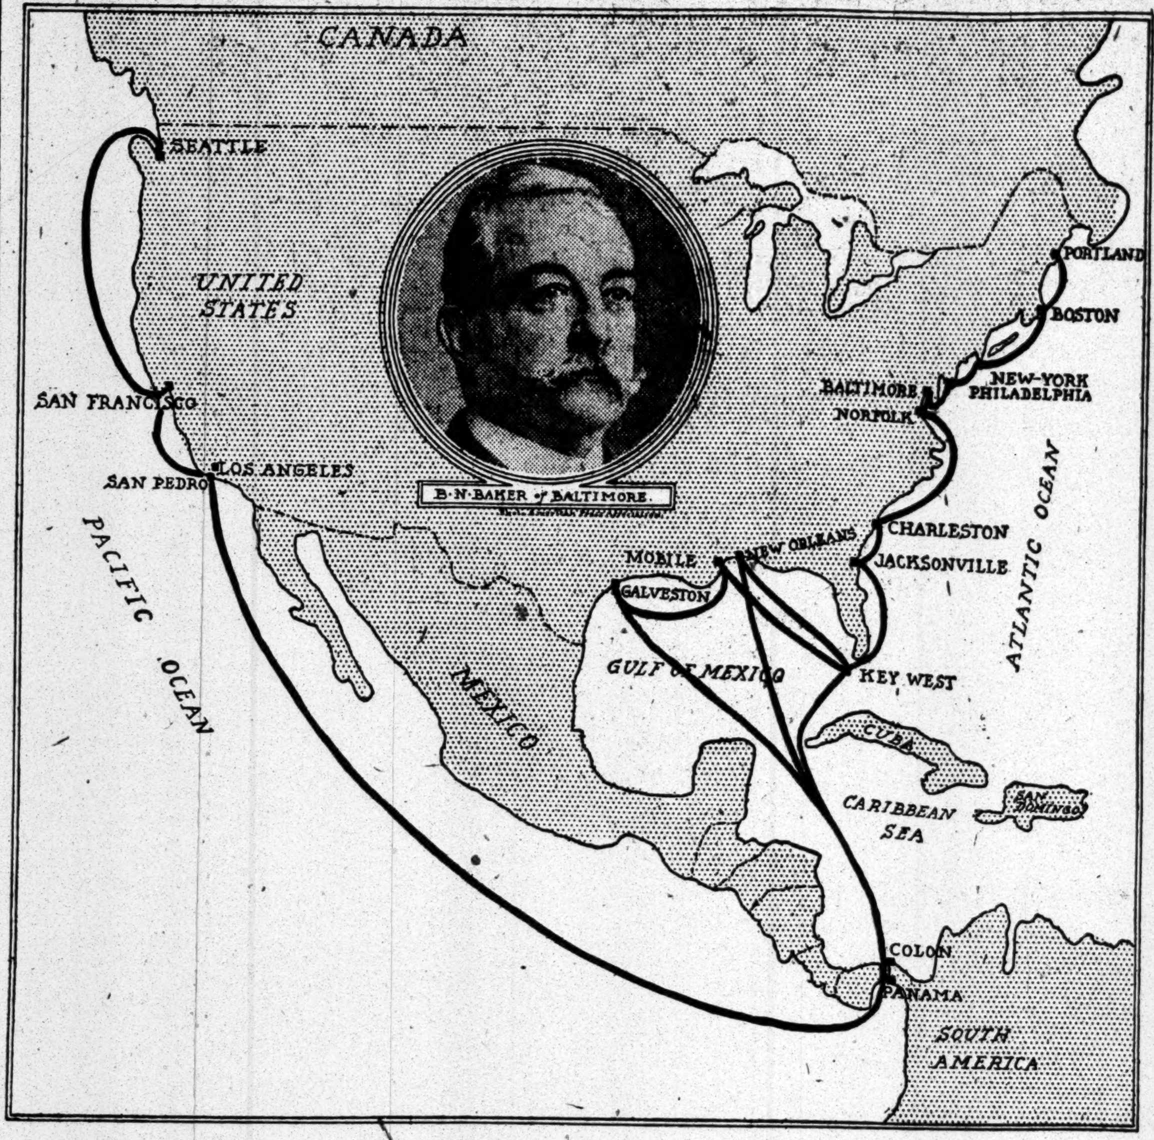
"God knows my sin."

Dr. Johnson built a fine church in Clarence, where he has a family.

MEXICO, Mo., Sept. 5.—The Rev. H. H. Johnson of Clarence, Mo., arrived here on Saturday and departed that night. The Rev. H. L. Davis, presiding elder of the district, said to-day that the Rev. Mr. Johnson received a letter on Saturday morning at Columbia which greatly agitated him. At the conference in Columbia none of the preachers knew what the "sin" was that caused Dr. Johnson's hurried action.

CLARENCE, Mo., Sept. 5.—Further than to say that she believed her husband to be now in Iowa and that she would make no statement until she heard from him, Mrs. H. H. Johnson, wife of the Southern Methodist minister whose resignation from all offices connected with the Church was made known in Columbia, Mo., to-day, would not comment on the case.

Panama Canal Routes of New American Steamships.



B. N. BAKER of BALTIMORE

the canal in connection with foreign ships from all parts of the world. The Government has already made provision for the handling of such traffic and large piers and warehouses, the plans for which were suggested by Mr. Baker, have been ratified by the Isthmian Canal Commission, of which Col. George W. Goethals, Corps of Engineers, U. S. A., is the President.

It is pointed out that within easy reach of Colon and Balboa there are 14,000,000 people whose trade represents the sum of about $135,000,000, and that of this huge sum less than $9,000,000 was brought from and less than $18,000,000 shipped to, the United States last year. In other words the situation is one where a neighboring people buy 64 cents per capita in the United States, while spending $3.58 per capita in foreign countries more remote from them than the United States.

It is in order to meet this situation that the Atlantic and Pacific Transport Company intends to inaugurate a system of sea-going barges to operate up and down the coasts of these countries, connecting with the main line services at the canal terminals. The barges will be of light draught and will be able to penetrate the numerous shoal bays, rivers, and roadsteads in which the traffic referred to originates.

Under the navigation and ocean mail laws the company expects to extend its operations and have steamers sailing from other ports. These additional services will operate from Portland, Me.; Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Norfolk, Jacksonville, Key West, Mobile, and Galveston, through the canal to the Pacific Coast ports, and vice versa.

"In short," to us the words of the company, "it is the purpose of this line to develop the entire domestic commerce of the country via the Panama Canal as fully as it may be done by modern water transportation. In this it believes it has one of the greatest opportunities of the century."

GEIDEL IS SENTENCED.

Must Serve at Least Twenty Years and Maybe for Life.

Paul Geidel, the seventeen-year-old bellboy who was recently convicted of the murder of William H. Jackson, the aged broker in the Hotel Iroquois, was sentenced yesterday to not less than twenty years in Sing Sing or life by Judge Crain in General Sessions. He remained perfectly calm during the whole proceeding. In passing sentence Judge Crain said:

"Under Section 1,048 of the penal law I sentence you to State prison at hard labor for a term of years the minimum of which shall be twenty years." Here the Judge paused to turn over some papers and Geidel's face took on a brighter look, which passed away, however, when the court added, "And the maximum of which shall be the rest of your natural life."

Judge Crain then dismissed court for the rest of the term, and Geidel was taken away by two court attendants. He hesitated when about half way to the pen, but one of the court attendants gave him a shove that nearly knocked him down. He will be taken to Sing Sing this morning.

The boy's mother was absent, but Mrs. Mary Geiger of Hartford, his mother's friend, was in court and saw him in the Tombs in the afternoon.

DEATH CAUSED ERIE WRECK.

Officials Believe Engineer Had Died in His Cab Before Crash.

ERIE, Penn., Sept. 5.—Investigation of the wreck of Erie & Pittsburgh Passenger Train 201 when it crashed into a freight at Dock Junction last night leads the officials and the Coroner to believe that the engineer had been some time dead when the accident occurred.

According to the story told by Fireman James Firman, who is in a hospital fatally injured, Engineer John S. Jones, who had been in the service forty-five years, ran for five miles past all signals that were set against him, and, contrary to rules, ran past Dock Junction with a full head of steam. The train crashed into the freight with the throttle wide open, and it is the dying fireman's belief, in which officials coincide, that the engineer died in his cab some time before the crash came.

No more bodies have been found in the wreck, and it is now believed that the death list will not exceed the three reported early to-day. Coroner D. S. Hanley returned to the city to-night, having spent the day at the wreck. He said an inquest would be held, but that no time had yet been set.

LESS LONELY LEAGUERS MEET

Open New Quarters for the Second Season of Dispelling Gloom.

The Less Lonely League began its second season last night in new quarters, at 46 East Twenty-ninth Street, with about fifty women and ten men present. A bright room, with a polished floor and some good paintings on the walls, was the scene of the meeting. The members listened to several songs and recitations, and after that the chairs were taken out and the young folks had a dance, while the others talked.

"The league has the name of being a kind of matrimonial bureau," said Mrs. E. R. Taylor, the Secretary. "Well, it is nothing of the sort. Loneliness is the cause of a great deal of the unhappiness, to say nothing of the crime, in this city, and our only aim is to combat loneliness. We have a room which is open during the day, and we shall hold these meetings once a week, where refined and educated people who are alone and want company can come in. We demand two references for every person admitted to membership, and when we find any undesirable persons in the club we dismiss them."

The association has about a hundred members, of many nationalities and tongues.

ANNOYED BY HIS NAME

So O. H. Hell of Brooklyn Will Have It Changed to Hill.

Otto H. Hell, a confectioner of 1,483 Broadway, Brooklyn, after living thirty-six years with a name like that, appeared before Judge Grant in the County Court, that borough, yesterday with an application to have it changed. He wants it changed to Hill.

The new name will sound better than the old one, he told the court, and will look better in an electric light sign he proposes to put in front of his store.

Hell has been annoyed by persons who have appeared to get a great deal of fun out of his name. He wants to put a stop to that particular kind of humor.

As soon as the legal papers can be arranged Hell will be changed to Hill.

PRIMARIES IN OHIO CITIES.

Toledo Seems to Have Nominated a "Dry" Mayor—Cleveland Candidates.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Sept. 5.—Cleveland held its municipal primary election to-day with 517 candidates in the field for 162 nominations. Interest centred chiefly in the Mayoralty contest and the nomination of candidates for the new Municipal Court.

There are six candidates for Mayor—two Democratic, two Republican, one Labor, and one Socialistic.

Newton D. Baker, political successor of the late Tom L. Johnson, and Charles P. Salen, Johnson's bitterest political enemy in the party, were the Democratic candidates; Frank G. Hogen and Miner G. Norton the Republicans, Laurin W. Tilden the Labor, and Carl Ruthenburg, the Socialistic candidate.

TOLEDO, Ohio, Sept. 6.—With half the precincts reported at 8:30 to-night it looks as if Alvin C. Jones, "Dry" candidate for Mayor at the Republican primaries to-day is nominated over State Senator Carl H. Keller, the "Wet" candidate. A light vote is reported.

SAVED $2,000 FROM ASH HEAP

Then He Gave the Man Who Found It Seventy-five Cents.

Isadore Greenberg of 123 West Twenty-second Street, Bayonne, left $2,000 in a paper bag in his kitchen. His servant, thinking the bag empty, threw it into a garbage can. The ashmen dumped the can into their wagon and dumped the load at the foot of Twenty-third Street.

Greenberg missed his money and learned what the servant had done. Then he ran all the way to the dump and recovered bag and money after half an hour's search. He gave the driver of the cart, Michael Sharano, 75 cents.

TO SAVE CHESTNUT TREES

Forester Destroys Certain Infected Trees in Delaware County.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 5.—Forester George L. Barrus has reported to the Conservation Commission that he has destroyed a number of chestnut trees in the vicinity of Masonville, and also at Deposit, Delaware County.

This is the only case of infection by the chestnut bark disease west of the Catskill Mountains in this State yet discovered by the Inspectors of the Conservation Commission or the Department of Agriculture, who are working in co-operation in order to determine the location and extent of the disease and to control it.

MARTIN VAN BUREN KILLED.

Kinsman of President Van Buren Lay Unidentified in Jersey City.

The man who was killed by an eastbound New Jersey Central passenger train near the Danforth Avenue station, Jersey City, at 8:20 o'clock Sunday evening, was identified at Hughes's morgue yesterday afternoon as Martin Van Buren, 48 years old, of 203 Belvidere Avenue, Jersey City. The identification was made by his wife.

Mr. Van Buren was a great-grandson of Nicholas Van Buren, a brother of President Martin Van Buren. He disappeared from home Saturday morning and the fact was reported to the police yesterday. Relatives thought he had shown signs of insanity. The name "M. J. Van Buren" and a picture of the Goddess of Liberty were tattooed on his right arm.

TOADSTOOLS KILL 3 AND POISON MORE

Mother and Son Die in New Rochelle and Father in Grief Kills Himself.

DEATH IN HOSPITAL HERE

Family of Three Discharged as Cured Ate Toadstools Again and Are Dying—Took Them for Mushrooms.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., Sept. 5.—Toadstools were the direct and indirect cause of the death of an entire family in West New Rochelle. The mother died last night of vegetable ptomaine poison, the father shot himself for grief, and this morning their eight-year-old son died from the same cause as his mother. Michael Loprete, living at 64 Fourth Street, went into the wood Sunday morning with his son Michael, Jr., and gathered toadstools, thinking they were mushrooms. Mrs. Loprete cooked them and served them with the meat. She and her son ate them with relish, and toward evening all were attacked with pains, nausea and vomiting.

Mrs. Loprete died a few hours later, and then her husband tore his hair, and rushing into the room, where his dead wife lay, he hastily opened a bureau drawer, snatched a revolver, and before any one could prevent him, shot himself through his right ear. He fell dead across the bed his wife occupied, with a bullet through his brain. The son, who was lying ill from toadstools in the same room, tried to get up, not knowing his mother was dead, but he fell back and sank into a state of coma from which he could not be aroused.

One death occurred and three persons, who had apparently recovered, were again stricken yesterday from eating "mushrooms" in this city. The dead man, J. Vincent Miniacci, 402 East 115th St., it was learned by the police, had gathered the "mushrooms" on Saturday last. He was accompanied by his wife and his brother-in-law, Gaetano Costapile, all of whom were taken ill. Costapile said they went to the Bronx to gather the supposed delicacy. They picked a large bag, and it was arranged that they should be cooked at the dead man's home, Costapile and his wife going there to eat dinner.

Shortly after dinner Miniacci was taken with convulsions. He was removed to the Harlem Hospital, where he died. Mrs. Miniacci is still there and in a dangerous condition. The Costapiles are suffering from convulsions. Three patients who were taken to the hospital and discharged Monday night were taken back there yesterday. They are Providentin Albonse, 2,422 Arthur Avenue, the Bronx; her sister, Minnizzi Albonse, and their mother, Marie Albonse. They are now in a dangerous condition. It is believed that the family after returning home ate more of the toadstools which had first poisoned them.

MAYOR REYBURN SUED.

Action to Recover Notes Held by Wertzes of Newport, Penn.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., Sept. 5.—A suit against Mayor Reyburn to recover on notes alleged to be held against him by Harry W. and William Wertz of Newport, Penn., was begun in Common Pleas Court No. 1 yesterday. The attorney for the suitors in the case is Samuel B. Scott, a member of the Legislature, who was elected on an independent ticket and has been active in reform politics since 1905. He declined to discuss the suit further than to say that politics had no part whatever in it, and that the Wertzes were prominent business men and bankers of their section of the State.

No papers giving any particulars of the suit were filed, and Mr. Scott said it might be a long time, perhaps a year, before they would be filed. A summons was issued directing the Mayor to appear next Monday. But Mr. Reyburn may enter a technical appearance at that time, his presence in person not being required. The Wertzes refused all information about the suit when they were reached over the long-distance telephone to-night.

Thief Got His $500 in Pullman Car.

Martin T. Manton returned to his home in Brooklyn yesterday after a 5,000-mile tour of the country. During his trip he experienced the sensation of riding into a strange city without enough money to purchase a dinner. On the night before he arrived in Chicago he put his roll of bills, amounting to $500, under his pillow in a Pullman car and went to sleep. When he arrived in Chicago his money was gone.

CHILDS OFTEN REJECTED.

Proposed to Miss Van Wyck the Day He Killed Her and Himself.

Special to The New York Times.

QUOGUE, L. I., Sept. 5.—The murder here yesterday of Katharine Ladd Van Wyck and the subsequent suicide of William A. Childs, Jr., her slayer, were the subject of a Coroner's inquest to-day.

Coroner Peterson merely established the fact and cause of death of each young person and gave permission for the removal of the bodies. No good, he said, could be done by an attempt to inquire into the intimate facts of the case.

Mrs. Albert Van Wyck, mother of the dead girl, gave out a statement in order, she said, to clear the death of her daughter of any appearance of mystery.

"For two years," she said, "this young man has been attentive to my daughter. He fell behind in his studies at Princeton last Winter, I believe, because he so often came to Brooklyn to call on her. She did not care for his attentions. Indeed, his presence was one of the reasons that caused my daughter to end the Winter with a trip to Europe.

"We would not have come to Quogue this Summer if we could have foreseen that he was to be here. We came only after learning that he was not at his brother's cottage."

Childs, it was explained, had asked Miss Van Wyck more than once to marry him. In fact, according to Mrs. Van Wyck, he had met the girl on the Quogue beach yesterday morning and begged her to accept him. When she laughingly refused Childs left her angrily. Later in the day he had asked her to go sailing with him and she refused.

The funeral of Miss Van Wyck will be held at the Church of the Atonement in Quogue at 2 o'clock to-morrow afternoon, and the body will then be removed to Brooklyn, the home of her father, Albert Van Wyck.

The body of Childs, whose father and mother were at Lake George, N. Y., at the time of the tragedy, is at the undertaking rooms of William E. Outerbridge.

There was no statement to be obtained to-day at the cottage of Miss Alice W. Howells, not far from the Van Wycks home, where Alfred D. Childs, brother of William A. Childs, Jr., has been stopping. There were plenty of evidences, however, that preparations were being made to quit the cottage as soon as Mr. and Mrs. William A. Childs, Sr., arrive.

SLEEPER FLOODS BUILDING.

Fink Dozes in a Bathtub and Nearly Drowns.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWBURGH, N. Y., Sept. 5.—A customer in Silverstein's restaurant on Golden Street was enjoying ham and eggs and a cup of coffee last night, when he noticed a drop of water fall from the ceiling directly into his coffee. Soon the water came down in a stream, and in a few minutes the floor of the restaurant was covered and the customers ran into the street.

On the third floor some one found Fred Fink, a well-known Newburgh man, sitting in a bath tub. He had turned on the water to take a bath and then gone to sleep. The water on the floor was several feet deep, and it was necessary for Fink to wade through it up to his knees to escape. He was nearly overcome, for while he was sleeping his head was slowly becoming submerged, and in a few minutes he would have been drowned.

The three floors of the building were flooded and much damage was done to the furnishings.

A WORLD UNIVERSITY.

Suggestion Made by Chancellor of University of Christiania.

CHRISTIANIA, Sept. 5.—King Haakon and Queen Maud toook part to-day in the celebration of the centennial of the foundation of the University of Christiania. They were present this evening at a fête given in the National Theatre, as were also 150 representatives of foreign universities, including a score of American professors.

Dr. W. C. Broegger, Chancellor of the university, who presided, advocated the establishment of an international university, to be subsidized by all nations, as the logical evolution of the scheme for the interchange of university professors which originated in the United States.

The King gave a banquet at the castle in honor of the delegates.

MRS. READNOWER ACQUITTED

Alibi Established for Woman Accused of Murdering First Husband.

COVINGTON, Ky., Sept. 5.—Mrs. Anna May Readnower, who was arrested during the trial of her second husband on the charge of murdering her first husband, Arthur Anniss, was acquitted in the Kenton County Court here to-day. Mrs. Readnower had come from her home in Vincennes, Ind., to Covington to testify for her second husband.

Readnower at his trial last week established an alibi for himself and did the same for his wife to-day. They formerly lived in Covington and were married three months after the death of Anniss in June of this year.

MRS. SHONTS BACK TO TOWN.

Spent the Summer at Cape May with the Duchess—Mr. Shonts Elsewhere.

Mrs. Theodore Perry Shonts, the Duchess de Chaulnes, the little Duke de Chaulnes, and Miss Shonts returned yesterday to New York from Cape May, N. J., where they have passed the Summer. Although it was rumored at the time Mr. Shonts met his family upon their return from Europe that the Duchess had brought about a reconciliation between her parents, Mr. Shonts did not join his family at Cape May, even during the illness of his daughter, the Duchess. He passed his vacation at a villa in the Berkshires, near Manchester, Vt.

Henry Beattie not only were alone on one part of the veranda, but that he later observed them alone within the house.

When court opened Judge Watson announced that it seemed that the case along its main lines had been developed carefully and at great length, and that the case had reached the stage where the Court would be justified in placing some limit on counsel.

The prisoner thereupon took the witness stand again.

Beattie's Examination Ends.

Mr. Wendenburg said he intended to ask only one or two questions.

"Mr. Beattie," he began, "will you explain how the same gun which your cousin bought on Saturday night was in the woods on the Midlothian turnpike that night?"

"I didn't know anything about the gun. I didn't see it till the highwayman raised it."

"And will you admit that if your wife hadn't suggested the ride you wouldn't have been there—"

"No. My mind wasn't made up as to the ride when my wife suggested it."

"Well, how did the man with the gun know that you and your wife were going up the road that night?"

"We protest," said counsel for the defense, and the Judge sustained them.

Mr. Wendenburg here concluded his cross-examination.

Mr. Smith of counsel for Beattie said no redirect examination was intended, and the prisoner was excused at 9:37 o'clock, just seven minutes after he took the stand.

Only a meagre crowd was in the courtroom, on account of the early hour.

The prisoner walked back to the bar, surprised at the brevity of his examination, asking Judge Watson if there were not additional questions.

"That will be all," replied the Judge, who remarked that perhaps he had been overgenerous in his limitation upon counsel.

Harry Latham was the first witness called by the prosecution in rebuttal.

Tell of Telephone Talk.

Latham was alleged to have stated that while with the prisoner preceding the murder Beattie, immediately after leaving a telephone, said he was going to Short and Main Streets, in Richmond. Paul Beattie had testified that he met Henry on Thursday night at this intersection. The prosecution attempted to show that the telephone conversation concerned the alleged meeting.

In his testimony, however, Latham maintained that all he knew was that Beattie had mentioned going to Short and Main Streets. He knew nothing as to the previous telephone conversation or who the accused intended to meet at the corner.

W. R. Hart, who was with Latham, was called. He said he had been a friend of the accused for fifteen years. On the Thursday night preceding the murder, Hart said, he overheard Beattie say on the telephone, "Will be there in fifteen minutes," and that when he came from the telephone Beattie explained that he was going to take Paul Beattie and his wife out riding.

Mrs. A. B. Houchens, mother-in-law of Paul Beattie, next took the stand. Living in the same house with Paul, she was asked if she knew anything about the receipt of a telephone message from Henry C. Beattie, Jr., on Thursday night.

What Paul Beattie Said.

"It was Thursday night, July 13, about 9 o'clock," said Mrs. Houchens, "when I answered the telephone and, Henry C. Beattie, Jr., said he was on the way to the West End and asked for Paul. I called Paul, and I heard Paul say, 'You want me to meet you at Short and Main in fifteen minutes? All right. I'll meet you in a half hour.' Paul then called a Mrs. Fisher and said Henry would be up later."

Q.—Did you hear any one come by later that night? A.—I heard Paul say, "Good night, Henry," when the machine brought Paul home that night.

Q.—Did they seem to be doing anything about the machine? A.—Yes, they were both fixing the light or something.

Q.—Do you remember what time Henry brought Paul home Saturday night? A.—About 11 o'clock. It was the same car that was there Thursday night.

Q.—How could you tell it was the same machine? asked Mr. Smith for the defense. A.—It looked the same to me.

Q.—How can you tell one machine from another? A.—The machine of Thursday night and of Saturday night had a yellow top.

Q.—Didn't you all tell Paul he was in a bad fix and to tell all to the police? A.—Not until we knew he had bought the gun.

Q.—Then you all tried to edge Paul out of it? A.—I just told him to tell the truth.

Q.—Wasn't he worried to death and pretty nearly crazy? A.—No, sir. He didn't act crazy.

Q.—Did you ever see him have any fits? A.—He has had nervous breakdowns.

Q.—Did Paul tell you anything about the alleged confession on that Thursday night? A.—He told us only about the purchase of the gun.

Corroborate Paul Beattie.

John Joseph, a Syrian, who has a confectionery store at Short and Main Streets, testified that he saw Paul Beattie at his stand Thursday Night, July 13.

Q.—What did Paul do at your store? A.—He came in between 8 and 10 at night and sat down.

Q.—What did he do? A.—He had been there seven or eight minutes, and a machine came. Another young fellow was in it, and they went west.

Q.—When did you meet the prisoner? A.—In the jail.

Q.—Was it the same man who came for Paul? A.—I think so, but I wouldn't swear.

Frank Mason, who said he was in the Joseph store, at Short and Main Streets, testified that he saw Paul there on Thursday night and that a machine called for him.

William McEvoy, a bartender, testified that he saw Paul and Henry together about half past 8 o'clock in McEvoy's bar drinking beer "on either Wednesday, Thursday, or Friday night before the murder."

On cross-examination he was asked if it was not Saturday night, but he said he didn't work that night.

John Britton corroborated McEvoy's testimony, declaring he saw Paul and Henry at the bar on Thursday night before the murder. He said he thought they had a machine outside and came between 8 and 9 o'clock.

By previous agreement the defense was permitted to bring in the testimony of John D. Blair when it could be obtained, and the witness appeared after an interruption of ten minutes asked by the prosecution. Blair was one of the boys who came from a dance at Bon Air on the night of the murder. He corroborated Kestleberg's testimony that it was he whom the boys saw with a woman on the running board of a machine that had stopped on the road.

Saw Paul, But No Gun.

James Rafter, a night watchman on Mayo's Bridge, relieved by Paul Beattie at 7 o'clock every morning, testified that on the Sunday morning, when E. H. Neblitt said he saw Paul with a gun in the cement house he saw no gun there.

"If it was there I would have seen the gun," said Rafter.

"Did you see Paul when he came to work?"

"Yes."

"Did he have a shotgun or any other kind of gun?"

"No."

"The gun could have been hidden, however, in the cement house, couldn't it?" asked Mr. Smith on cross-examination.

"I suppose so."

E. J. Houchens, father-in-law of Paul Beattie, said he saw the latter going to work on the Sunday morning in question and that he carried no gun.

W. H. Lewis said he was at the bridge on Sunday morning, saw E. H. Neblitt come and go, and during the whole time did not see Paul with a gun.

Walter Nunnally said that while Neblitt was at the bridge Paul was not in the cement house where Neblitt alleged that he saw him handling a gun.

George D. Talley corroborated Nunnally's testimony.

H. H. Crowder also declared that he was at the bridge during the entire period while Neblitt stopped on the bridge, and that Paul neither visited the cement house near by nor carried a shotgun.

William Sharp testified that Neblitt did not know Paul Beattie when he saw him, because a few days ago in the Court House yard he had asked him to point out Paul to him.

Coroner's Story Blocked.

Coroner J. G. Loving was asked if he had a conversation on the Thursday after the murder with Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., in the presence of several detectives in which the prisoner denied that he sent Beulah Binford money for furniture. The defense objected. Prosecutor Wendenburg said his purpose was to impeach and discredit the veracity of the prisoner, as he yesterday denied having the conversation in question.

Judge Watson declared the question collateral and ruled it out.

Dr. Loving then was asked if it was possible for a dead body such as Mrs. Beattie's to be set up on a seat so that it would not fall down. Counsel for the defense objected and the jury was asked to retire, the court finally ruling that the question was one of common knowledge and could not be settled any better by expert testimony. Mr. Wendenburg said he had no further questions then to ask the Coroner.

Mrs. F. B. Nolan, who lives next door to Paul Beattie, testified that she saw Paul come home in a machine with another man on the Thursday night before the murder. The porches of their homes adjoin, she said, and Paul bade her "good evening" when he entered the gate.

Court took a recess for luncheon at 1:10, just before Mr. Wendenburg announced that Mrs. Paul Beattie would be the next witness.

Wouldn't Call Binford Girl.

Prosecutor Wendenburg, during the recess, said that the prosecution would not call Beulah Binford as a witness.

"We are well aware that Beulah and Henry have been in communication with each other while she has been in jail," he said, "and we hesitate to put her on the stand because we know she will try to help the prisoner, and if she denies the various things as to which we would want her to testify she would no longer be our witness and we would not be able to cross-examine her.

"On the other hand, the defense, on its direct examination of her in such event, would be able practically to fashion her testimony to suit their own case."

Before calling Mrs. Paul Beattie the prosecution questioned C. S. Oliver, who said he was familiar with the construction of automobiles. He contradicted testimony of automobile experts that the Beattie car by its construction was impervious to the dripping of blood through it to the ground except in two places where blood was not visible.

R. B. Alport, an automobile expert, who examined the Beattie car, corroborated Oliver's statement. Alport also declared that the steering gear of the Beattie car was such that it could not be driven with one hand at forty or fifty miles an hour, as the accused testified yesterday.

Mrs. Paul Beattie's Story.

Mrs. Paul Beattie then took the stand.

Q.—Do you remember Paul being brought home in an automobile at any time during the week preceding the murder? A.—Yes, about 9:30 on Thursday night.

Q.—Who was with him? A.—As near as I can tell, a young man.

Q.—Do you know who he was? A.—No.

Q.—Where was he when you saw him? A.—He got out of the machine and fixed the front lights. It looked like Henry Beattie to me.

Q.—Did you know Henry Beattie before? A.—Yes.

Q.—Where were you? A.—In the front window of my room.

Q.—How long had Paul been out that night? A.—About twenty or twenty-five minutes.

Q.—Tell about it? A.—A telephone message came and some one wanted to speak to Paul, asking him to meet him at Short and Main Streets.

Q.—When did you see this machine again? A.—Saturday night.

Q.—Same machine? A.—Yes.

W. T. Lindsay, R. V. Johnson, H. R. Blunt, R. P. Dillard, Gregory Fisher, and I. J. Kay testified to Paul Beattie's good reputation.

Roland Lassiter, who came from a dance at Bon Air with other boys on the Midlothian turnpike, declared on the witness stand that the car he saw in the road with the man in front and the woman on the running board was not the car of Charles H. Kestleberg. He said he was familiar with Kestleberg's machine and knew Kestleberg also, but he saw neither on the road that night.

D. A. Dunlap, timekeeper at the bridge, testified that Paul Beattie was at work ten hours, from 7 o'clock on the morning of Saturday, July 15. A witness for the defense had declared that Paul bought the gun at a pawnshop in the morning, whereas his own story was that he purchased it in the evening.

Says Cousin Was Hysterical.

Dr. H. P. Mann described the condition of Paul Beattie at the Coroner's inquest as a hysterical spell or nervous breakdown. This was intended to refute the charge of the defense that Paul was "faking" at the time.

Henry B. Owen, a brother of the dead woman, was the next witness.

"Mr. Henry C. Beattie, Jr., has testified," said Prosecutor Wendenburg, "that he had no gauntlets. Do you remember his having any?"

"On Wednesday after the murder Douglas Beattie, Henry, and I were together and something was hot on the car when Henry looked into it. He was asked by Douglas where his gauntlets were and he said in the garage."

"Did you see Henry C. Beattie on the night of July 18, when he left the garage?"

"Yes. He left about 7:45 o'clock."

"Did you see Paul and Henry at the latter's home on Wednesday night after the murder?"

"Yes. They were alone on the porch. Later I saw them in the dining room alone."

It was at this meeting that Paul had testified as to the alleged confession by Henry Beattie, while the accused testified yesterday that he was not alone with Paul that night on the veranda.

"After the baby was born do you remember any occasion when the prisoner kissed his wife?"

"Yes. On one occasion."

"When was that?"

"Two weeks before her death."

This closed the testimony, the commonwealth at 6:10 P. M. resting its evidence in rebuttal, and the defense likewise announcing it had closed. The court then adjourned.

WALSH WILL FIGHT FOR REINSTATEMENT

Inspector Puzzled by Friendly Way He Was Shoved Out of Police Department.

FEELS FIT FOR THE WORK

Only 52 and Laughs at Locomotor Ataxia Story—Insists Waldo Is Friendly, but Can't Explain His Action.

Richard Walsh, who on Aug. 29 was retired from the police force after twenty-six years in its service, will fight for reinstatement. In the mild language of "Smiling Dick," he will appeal his case, and although he says he is completely puzzled by the circumstances surrounding his speedy dismissal, he protested last evening that he is a warm friend and believer in Commissioner Waldo, and that he looks upon Waldo as a friend of his.

It was not until yesterday that a persistent rumor took definite form to the effect that Inspector Walsh had not left the department as willingly as was suggested by the official atmosphere cloaking his exit. From the announcements made at Headquarters one might have gathered that Walsh was quite reconciled to his going. There was much talk of the pleasures of having a pension, some little talk of locomotor ataxia, and no talk at all of the bewildered indignation which Walsh felt when the blow fell. And it was a blow—the worst, he said last night, of a life not at all free from hard knocks. But all week the inner gossip of police circles would have it that the axe had fallen abruptly, and that Walsh would fight. Last night Walsh confirmed that gossip.

The reason given for Walsh's being "relieved and dismissed" was physical disability, and the retirement on half pay was recommended on the Police Surgeon's certificate. Meanwhile it was unofficially said that he had a spinal trouble that would never get better. It was said in Commissioner Waldo's office yesterday that the trouble was locomotor ataxia. The same authority scouted the idea that Walsh would resist, on the grounds that he had personally thanked Waldo for the concluding arrangements.

Walsh Tells of His Surprise.

But here is Walsh's own story of what happened. Until Tuesday of last week, he said, he had not the faintest suspicion that anything was coming. On that morning he was summoned to Headquarters and received there graciously by Commissioner Waldo, who said:

"Walsh, you're looking run down. Why don't you retire?"

Whereupon Walsh said that he was feeling a little tired, but that retirement was neither necessary nor within his means. He is only 52. The law has it that a man who has been twenty-five years in the department and is 55 years old may retire on half pay upon his own application. The only way he can be retired sooner is on a certificate of disability. Should Gov. Dix, as he is expected to, sign a bill now awaiting his approval, it will be possible for a police officer to retire on half pay any time he sees fit after his quarter century of service, regardless of his age. But, even so, Walsh doesn't want to worry along on $1,750 a year. And he told Waldo as much. The Commissioner seemed surprised to learn that the gray-haired Inspector was only 52. Dr. Marvin Palmer, Chief Surgeon, was summoned to the conference.

Walsh, so his account of the closing scenes runs, was ready to suggest a few months' vacation, which he offered to take without pay. That would help, said the doctor, but once back at work, Walsh would run down again at once.

"I know all about your case," Walsh quoted the doctor as saying, and, by way of commentary last evening, he added, "Do you know, up to that moment, that man never examined me in his life."

But an examination was held later that afternoon, before Dr. Palmer, Dr. Murray, and Dr. Hubbard. It lasted nearly two hours. Walsh was stripped and put through a lively exhibition in calisthenics. Afterward he asked the verdict, and Dr. Palmer was willing to admit that they had discovered a "spinal condition, chronic and progressive."

Not Blaming Waldo.

Then Walsh went up to his home at 3 East 128th Street. About 5 o'clock there came a messenger, bearing the notice of dismissal, which had gone into effect at 4 o'clock. With it came a note from Waldo.

"My Dear Inspector," wrote the Commissioner, "I regret your health does not permit of your remaining longer in the Police Department. You retire after over twenty-six years' service with an absolutely clean record, of which you may well be proud. I avail myself of this opportunity to wish you every success and assure you of my highest regard."

So, though he hadn't dreamed of it when he came in off his district that morning at 4 o'clock, twelve hours later "Smiling Dick" was no longer a member of the force.

The note from the Commissioner, he explained last night, was only in keeping with the spirit with which he and the Commissioner parted in the office downtown.

"I was very deeply affected, all filled up with it," he said, "and I believe Waldo was affected, too. He seemed so, and we parted good friends. Make no mistake about that. He has done everything to show me he thought well of me. My liking for him goes back to the days when he was Deputy Commissioner, and when he was Fire Commissioner I often met him at fires and found him always friendly, always kind and cordial. I tell you I don't understand it."

It was because of his desire to keep his feelings for the Commissioner unaltered that Inspector Walsh declined last night to go into surmise and speculation. He held his tongue at first and did not speak until the story became so audible it would not down. But he thought very hard, and as a first step paid a call on an expert neurologist.

To Start Mandamus Proceedings.

He came out from that visit a much encouraged man, and felt still better when he had seen his lawyer. The plan now is that mandamus proceedings shall be started in the course of a month or so.

Walsh, from his layman's viewpoint, doesn't know upon what the doctors based their opinion, unless it is a stiffness in the right leg that becomes pronounced when he is tired and has been with him four years. But, he pointed out last evening, that has never prevented the fulfillment of his duties. He heard the locomotor ataxia talk, and last night went enthusiastically through a number of exercises which tradition says are beyond the powers of a person afflicted with that malady. He added that during the eight years he was at the head of the Fourth Inspection District he did not take any time off on account of illness.

He is confident of success in his appeal, and believes that his chances are better than were those of "Big Bill" Hodgins, who was retired, but restored upon showing that he was in good physical condition. Walsh does not claim to be able to go out and patrol as he could in his young days, but it is his contention that such ruggedness is not required of a commanding officer.

SEIZED WITH A BOMB AS BLACK HAND CHIEF

Costabile Made Blackmail and Explosions a Paying Business, the Police Believe.

HELD UNDER NEW GUN LAW

Often Suspected, but Never Enough Evidence to Convict Him—Known as a Bullying Grafter.

In Giuseppe Costabile, a shrewd, narrow-eyed Italian of whom they have been keeping track for the last six years, and whom they arrested at midday yesterday in the most crowded section of the Italian quarter, with a large yellow bomb concealed under his coat, the police believe they have caught the chief and master-mind of a gang of blackmailers who have set most of the thirteen bomb explosions reported in the last month, who have levied steady and heavy blackmail on more than 100 merchants, and who have terrified tradesmen of the Italian section for years past. Costabile himself they have suspected for years as the manufacturer of bombs for the Black Hand operations.

Detective Lieutenant Corrao, who with the late Lieut. Petrosino had followed Costabile's trail for many years, and Detectives Castane and Dondero of the Italian squad, who had shadowed him steadily for the last two weeks in connection with a more recent Black Hand case, were walking east on Prince Street, between Mott and Elizabeth Streets, at 11:30 o'clock yesterday morning when they saw Costabile coming toward them. Costabile caught a glimpse of Corrao, whom he knows from previous police experience almost as well as the detective knows him. In a moment he turned on his heel and began to walk hurriedly away. Corrao quickened his own pace, however, and overtook Costabile about 20 feet from Elizabeth Street.

"Where are you going, Costabile?" asked Corrao.

"Home," replied the Italian sullenly.

"You were not going home a moment ago," said the detective. He noticed a bulge under the left side of Costabile's coat.

"What have you got there?" he asked.

"Fruits," Costabile replied.

Corrao made a grab under Costabile's coat and drew forth a round package wrapped in an Italian newspaper. The paper pictured the dynamite explosion on the Communipaw pier of the Central Railroad of New Jersey several months ago. Opening it, Corrao found a bomb, five inches in diameter, wrapped tightly in twine and tape, and with a covering of yellow shellac.

"That's the sort of fruit you've been dealing in all the time," cried Corrao, as he snapped the handcuffs on his prisoner. "Come along."

On the way to Police Headquarters, Corrao says, Costabile pleaded to be released, but presently he grew surly and refused to speak. He maintained his silence, too, when he was confronted by Inspector Hughes, merely saying that he was 29 years old, a native of Calabria, and that he lived at 136 Chrystie Street. He said he was a salesman, but refused to specify in what line.

Lists of His Gang and of Victims.

On his person was found an Italian newspaper, the front page of which bore glaring illustrations of the havoc wrought early yesterday morning by a bomb explosion at 144 First Avenue. The police found also in his possession a list of names, some of which they say are familiar to them as those of persons who have served sentences in Sing Sing, and all of which are thought to be the names of members of Costabile's gang.

The police found also another list, which they believe contains the names of victims from whom blackmail had been demanded or who, perhaps, had already paid sums to the blackmailers. Inspector Hughes refused last night to make any statement concerning the names thus ascertained by the police, other than that he considered them very important to the police in tracking Black Hand criminals. He implied that further arrests might be expected soon.

Inspector Hughes declared that Costabile had been known to the police practically ever since his first arrival in this country from Calabria, "in the heel of the Boot," ten years ago. He remained here only two and a half years, thereafter returning to Italy, because, according to the Inspector, he had come under police surveillance in connection with a Black Hand case. He returned again to this country about four years ago.

"At that time," said Inspector Hughes, "he formed and became the master-mind of a bomb-throwing gang that straightway began threatening Italian tradesmen, setting bombs, and collecting blackmail. One of the men threatened at the time was Francesco Spinella of 314 and 316 East Eleventh Street, who owned several tenements and passed as wealthy in the Italian quarter."

On June 14, 1908, according to the police, two bombs were exploded in Spinella's tenement, following his refusal to pay blackmail. Both bombs, the police say, were set under Costabile's guidance.

The late Lieut. Petrosino and Lieut. Carrao, then side partners, were assigned to the case, and watched Spinella's home for further explosions. On the night of July 14, 1908, they rushed into the tenement, to find in the hallway, stooping over a newly lighted bomb, an Italian 21 years old, whom they recognized as Pinzolo Buonaventura, of the "Three Deuces," then a notorious hangout for the gang, at 222 Chrystie Street. While Carrao grabbed the lighted bomb and extinguished it, Petrosino, revolver in hand, according to the police, rushed at Buonaventura, and such was the impetus of his rush that the revolver he held leveled before him went clear through the young Italian's cheek. Spinella, however, always insisted that it was he and his son who lay in wait for the blackmailers, and that he, impatient of longer concealment, rushed out and jabbed his revolver through Buonaventura's cheek.

From Buonaventura, the police say, they learned that Costabile had played the leading part in engineering the bomb-setting, and had given the younger man the destructive missile to set off. Buonaventura was tried and convicted and sentenced on Oct. 16, 1908, by Judge Mulqueen, to serve five years in Sing Sing. He is there now.

After his conviction, Carrao says, Buonaventura confessed to the detectives that Costabile had given him the bomb together with a five-dollar bill and a letter to Spinella, on the very day of Buonaventura's arrival here from Naples, but he still refused to make his confession openly in court.

"What's the use, even if you do send him away," Carrao says Buonaventura insisted. "Even if he should not be free when I am released, there are fourteen or fifteen others in the gang, and they will kill me the day after I leave prison.

"I have told you who the man is. If you watch him, you'll get him by and by."

Costabile Got Clear That Time.

Costabile was arrested as a suspicious person and his photograph put in the Rogues' Gallery as No. 18,445. The police were unable to prove the case against him, however, and he was discharged on July 18, 1908. But, following the suggestion of Buonaventura, Corrao watched his man practically ever since that time.

He says he has gathered a mass of damaging evidence against Costabile from among the Italians of Prince and Elizabeth Streets, whom he has been terrorizing, and from whom he has exacted blackmail.

"I have spoken to more than 100 persons who could appear against him as complainants, but they are kept out of court by fear of what Costabile's gang will do to them if they 'squeal.' Only in the last few weeks I have spoken to half a dozen storekeepers on Prince and Elizabeth Streets, as well as several push-cart peddlers, who have been paying him money regularly to avoid being blown to pieces. He carries on his business with a high hand, knowing that the fear of his gang is ever present among his victims, and he clears from each of these from $20 to $50 a month.

"He pretends to sell olive oil, but whenever he goes around with a can of oil he is either going to threaten tradesmen or to collect money on former threats. If a detective follows him into the victim's store, Costabile shakes his oil can and says: 'Well, then, you don't want any oil.' If no detective is present, he simply threatens to blow up the dealer's home unless the blackmail is paid. He is a sort of village bully.

"Only the other day, for example, in one of the Italian saloons he took a man's watch and chain in a half joking sort of way, and when the other asked him to return it replied carelessly, with a knowing look:

"'Oh, you'll hear from me in a day or two.'

"The watch was never returned, but the victim, like all the others, is afraid to make a complaint against Costabile. About five weeks ago Costabile walked into the store of an Italian chicken dealer, and, announcing that he was going to have a little meeting at his home, ordered $85 worth of poultry. The meeting was held and the poultry eaten, but when the dealer asked for his money Costabile laughed in his face and said:

"'We don't pay anybody.'

"The chicken dealer pocketed his loss, afraid to complain."

How They Got to Costabile.

Both Corrao and Inspector Hughes declared yesterday that they considered Costabile "a big catch." The present arrest was accomplished after two weeks' surveillance of Costabile by the detectives. In connection with an earlier blackmail game worked by one Rosolino, said by the police to have been a chum of Costabile. Threatening letters demanding blackmail had been received by Calandro Brothers, who have a store at 331 East Eleventh Street. An appointment was made with the blackmailers to deliver the money at a certain hour in the night. When Rosolino walked into the store to collect the money some one blew off the top of his head with a shotgun. He was killed instantly.

The Calandro Brothers had not solicited police help. It was given out that the shooting in their store had been an ordinary Italian gang fight, but Inspector Hughes said yesterday that it was a case of self-defense against blackmail.

The police knew that Costabile was a side partner of Rosolino. They recalled that, in the days of Lieut. Petrosino, Rosolino and Costabile had started in business as saloon keepers, buying a saloon at 244 Elizabeth Street. They paid $50 as a deposit, with the understanding that the balance was to be paid in thirty days. When that time came, however, and the former owner of the place demanded his money, the two men, according to the police, threw him out of the saloon. The place was for a while the hangout for a gang of suspected blackmailers. Recalling this incident, Corrao and the two other detectives kept Costabile in sight each day for the last two weeks, until he was arrested yesterday with the bomb concealed under his coat.

Costabile was taken before Magistrate O'Connor, in the Tombs Court, yesterday afternoon, charged with violation of the new Sullivan anti-weapon law. One provision of that law makes it a felony for a person of foreign birth even to carry a dangerous weapon, and it is under this provision that the police hope to send to Sing Sing for seven years the man whom they had been tracking for six years without getting sufficient evidence to connect him in court directly with any case of blackmailing.

In court yesterday Costabile asked that the case be adjourned for forty-eight hours to allow him to provide himself with counsel.

"God is my witness that I have done no wrong!" he cried, adding piously, in pleasant Italian, according to Corrao, at whom he looked the while, "and when I get out I'll kill you and the other two!"

Magistrate O'Connor held him in $10,000 bail.

Immediately after learning of the arrest of Costabile District Attorney Whitman assigned Assistant District Attorney Wasservogel, who has been handling the prosecution of violations of the Sullivan law, to make a rigid investigation of the case and to prosecute it at once.

An expert of the Bureau of Combustibles was sent to Police Headquarters to look at the bomb and remove it to the bureau for further examination as to its contents. He will report to-day to the District Attorney. Inspector Hughes declared yesterday, however, that the expert, even at the first glance, had pronounced the bomb to be dangerous.

The missile is about 5 inches in diameter, and resembles a five-pound shot. It is light in weight, however, and is believed to contain no slugs or iron, but merely high explosives. Even if it were merely a bomb used for fireworks, however, Inspector Hughes said, it contains enough explosives to make it come easily under the category of dangerous weapons forbidden by the new law.

A Valuable Capture.

It was said last night by a person familiar with all the phases of Black Hand activity in this city as well as in Italy, that in Costabile the police had made a valuable capture. In the Spring of 1909, this man said, Costabile set up in business in the basement of 108 Mulberry Street, the same house where, a few years earlier, Erricone Alfano, the head of the Camorra, had established a gambling house. Alfano and Costabile, he said, were friends.

The police learned that Costabile had bought large quantities of sulphur at various Italian groceries, and potassium chloride at various drug stores, and that he mixed these two ingredients to produce a very high explosive, which he used in the manufacture of bombs. He used no iron or slugs. His activities as a bomb maker for blackmailers were reported as very extensive, and the police finally made a raid on his headquarters. When they broke into the place Costabile was gone, but the police found and seized large quantities of the material of which the bombs were thought to be made. Later Costabile was also reported to the police as manufacturing bombs in a house in Elizabeth Street, but they could not get sufficient evidence against him to warrant an arrest.

Costabile, the police say, has not been working for the last six years, yet always seems to be well supplied with money. He lives with his wife and two children in two rooms at the front of 136 Chrystie Street. He is an intelligent and even good-looking Italian 29 years old, with black hair and shrewd blue eyes, and a dark brown mustache. He is 5 feet 4 inches in height and weighs 118 pounds.

Inspector Hughes was not ready yesterday to give out a statement of the precise cases of bomb-setting or blackmail with which he hopes to connect Costabile, or to say whether or not he could be connected with any of the recent cases of kidnapping. The Inspector pointed out, however, that Costabile was arrested yesterday in the neighborhood where on July 31 7-year-old Vincenzo Sabella of 360 Broome Street disappeared after his father had received six Black Hand letters. On Aug. 21 4-year-old Pietro Quartrano of 119 Elizabeth Street, just around the corner from where the Sabella boy lived, likewise disappeared, following the receipt of threatening letters by his father.

SECRET COST HIM HIS LIFE.

Bernard Goennewich Dead of Fumes from Guarded Stained Glass Process.

Bernard Goennewich, senior member of the firm of Goennewich & Carr, stained glass manufacturers, died yesterday afternoon in St. John's Hospital, Long Island City. With Mr. Goennewich is believed to have perished several of his secret processes for staining glass, which he guarded jealously.

Mr. Goennewich died as a result of the solicitude with which he guarded his secret processes. It was his custom to mix certain of the colors himself, not allowing any of his employes to learn them. He had an inclosure in the rear of his factory, 534 Palmetto Street, Ridgewood, where he mixed the chemicals.

He got a rush order one day during the recent rainy period, and after waiting till Tuesday of last week decided to mix his colors indoors. He began work in the cellar, but the powerful fumes, which did no harm in the open air, rendered him unconscious indoors and he was taken to his home near the factory. He failed to regain consciousness and was taken to the hospital on Tuesday, where he failed to rally.

BLAME FOR COASTER DEATHS

Building Superintendent Finds That Brakeman Let Car Run Too Fast.

The accident on the giant racer roller coaster at Coney Island on Sunday night which caused the death of two women and the injury of three other persons was due to carelessness on the part of the brakeman, according to the report submitted to Borough President Steers yesterday by John Thatcher, Superintendent of the Bureau of Buildings.

Mr. Thatcher and his inspectors examined the structure carefully and found that the car left the track on the second level, and that too rapid speed was the cause. The structure, they found, complied with the requirements of the law in all respects.

GERMAN AND FRENCH NERVOUSNESS GROWS

Causes Wild Rumors in Both Countries — Deposits Withdrawn from Savings Banks.

FRANCE'S WORD DISTRUSTED

Apparently Inspired Article in Berlin Paper Says Most Substantial Guarantees Must Be Given.

BERLIN, Sept. 5.—The nervousness due to the protracted Franco-German negotiations over Morocco seems to have increased, rather than decreased, with the resumption at the German Foreign Office yesterday of the conversations between the French Ambassador, M. Cambon, and the German Foreign Minister, Herr von Kiderlen-Wächter.

The French proposals to Germany, according to an apparently inspired article printed to-day in The Lokalanzeiger, were sumbitted in the form of an elaborate draft of a treaty.

France, the paper says, is not haggling over the question of territorial compensation if she obtains a free hand in Morocco. Germany is willing to grant her full political freedom of action, provided that France takes over corresponding political obligations, including the protection of the lives and property of German subjects, and ends the abnormal status under which the French authorities have sheltered themselves behind the native régime when German rights were infringed.

No difficulties are apprehended over the question of the employment of black troops in a future European war, since Morocco probably could not be pacified in many years, and troops raised elsewhere in Africa have not proved particularly reliable.

Economic arrangements offer the chief difficulty in the way of a settlement. Germany, according to the Lokal Anzeiger, must insist upon the most minute guarantees for her economic and commercial interests, as unfortunately the French Government, under the pressure of concession hunters, has a constant tendency to violate and evade obligations of this kind. Mineral deposits must be opened unrestrictedly to all Nations without taxes, export duties, or other devices which would shut out competition.

The tone of the article indicates entire lack of confidence in France's good faith unless it is backed up by the most substantial guarantees.

Wild rumors are being circulated in the German provincial towns. At Stettin large sums of money have been withdrawn from the savings banks, this action on the part of the depositors being influenced by rumors that war was impending. The banks are enforcing the rule that notice of the intention of depositors to withdraw funds must be given in advance, and the officials have published communications showing the baselessness of the alarmist reports.

Other rumors, circulating on the Alsatian frontier, to the effect that the German Ambassador to France, Herr von Schön, had been murdered in Paris and that Germany would immediately declare war, were strengthened by the return of a Dragoon regiment to Colmar, the capital of Upper Alsace, from the scene of the army manoeuvres. An outbreak of dysentery among the troops, however, was the reason for their return to barracks.

There was no meeting to-day between M. Cambon and Herr von Kiderlen-Wächter, but it is possible that another conference will be held to-morrow.

A committee of the German non-Socialist workingmen's organizations, which have 1,250,000 members, has issued a proclamation against the political and general strike in the event of an outbreak of hostilities between Germany and France which the extreme Socialists propose. The proclamation appeals to the patriotism of the workingmen and urges them to protest against such treachery toward the fatherland.

PARIS, Sept. 5.—Although Germany has made no reply as yet to France's proposal of yesterday relative to the Moroccan dispute, and while none is expected by the French Foreign Office officials for some days, many rumors, doubtless due to uncertainty as to the outcome of the negotiations, are current.

La Patrie, in headlines running across its entire front page, announces a considerable movement of French troops toward the frontier. Inquiries made at the Ministry of War elicited the information that this movement is connected with the manoeuvres of the French Army, which, beginning to-day, will last until Sept. 13.

In addition to the garrisons stationed in the district, 30,000 troops are now moving toward the eastern boundary for concentration at Belfort, the almost impregnable frontier fort.

Nineteen civilian aviators, including MM. Vedrines, Latham, Tabuteau, Gibart, and most of the other best-known airmen in France, have been assigned to duty in connection with the manoeuvres. This contingent, added to the military aeronauts, will bring up the number participating in the army exercises to forty experienced airmen.

Taking cognizance of the alarming rumors current of preparations to rush the Paris garrison toward the eastern frontier, the Ministry of War this afternoon announced that only some of the battalions of Chasseurs stationed in Paris were going to take part in the manoeuvres.

BRUSSELS, Sept. 5.—The military precautions now being taken by the Belgian Government for the purpose of preserving the neutrality of this country in the event of war between France and German continue to be the absorbing topic of discussion here.

Thirty fieldpieces arrived to-day at the fortified town of Namur, thirty-six miles from Brussels, from the national arsenal at Antwerp. Last week two special trains arrived at Namur carrying sixty fieldpieces, twelve Hotchkiss guns, and five carloads of ammunition.

The rearrangement of the frontier garrisons is nearly completed, so that the 40,000 men of the army on a peace footing can be disposed of effectively.

It probably will take another fortnight to complete the preliminaries necessary to mobilize the army on a war footing, when it is calculated that Belgium will be able to call under arms 135,000 men, including the reserves.

All the political parties are supporting the Government in these anticipatory measures, and the national feeling is responding unanimously.

KAISER REVIEWS HIS FLEET.

Experts Believe Germany Is Now World's Second Naval Power.

KIEL, Sept. 5.—The great German naval fleet was reviewed by Emperor William in the harbor here this morning. Contrary to expectation, the three newest battleships, of the Ostfriesland type, did not join the fleet for the review, as technically they are still undergoing trials and have not yet been enrolled in the navy. Though fully completed, these three 20,000-ton vessels remained at anchor in the harbor.

The magnitude of Germany's naval resources was strikingly shown by the review. Ninety-nine fighting ships participated in it, not including the large number of torpedo boats, torpedo-boat destroyers, mine planters, and submarines.

All the German ships flew the Austrian as well as the German colors in honor of the Austrian heir presumptive, Archduke Franz Ferdinand, who was on board the imperial yacht Hohenzollern as a guest of the Emperor.

The fleet that assembled here to-day is believed by German experts to give Germany for the first time the rank of the second naval power of the world, the three great Dreadnoughts of the Ostfriesland class and the two Dreadnought cruisers Von der Tann and Blücher, commissioned this year, ousting the United States from the position which it held by a slender margin last year.

While the three battleships, the first German ships armed with twelve-inch guns did not take part in the review, they attracted much attention as they lay at anchor in the harbor. Their designs and dimensions had been a closely guarded secret until very recently.

The total displacement of the fleet gathered to-day amounted to about 500,000 tons. Its engines are capable of developing 1,400,000-horse power, while it is manned by 1,200 officers and 30,000 men. The armament consists of 188 big guns, 488 of medium calibre, and 670 smaller cannon, without counting machine guns, while the vessels are fitted with 400 torpedo tubes.

The city was filled to overflowing with visitors who came to witness this imposing aggregate of Germany's naval strength. Thousands of members of the Navy League were present from all parts of Germany.

GET BIG PRICES FOR HOPS.

Planters in Bohemia Sell Out Old Stocks—This Year's Crop Small.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

VIENNA, Sept. 5, (by telegraph to Clifden, Ireland; thence by wireless.)—There is considerable excitement in the hop districts of Saaszand, Bohemia, from which hops worth several million kronen are annually exported to the United States.

Prices to-day are 300 per cent. higher than last year, and the difference between the prices now and those of some former years is as much as 600 per cent.

One of the leading hop planters in the district of Saaszand says that up to the end of June the condition of the hops was excellent, but then came the hot weather, which soon caused prices to rise, and last year's hops were bought from the happy farmers at 200 per cent. above last year's prices. The hot weather caused a greater consumption of beer than in any previous year, and this again raised the price of hops. Old stocks which had been lying in storage for ten years and more have all been sold. Finally, this year's harvest in the Saaszand district is less than half last year's.

CARIBS KILL MISSIONARY.

The Rev. O. E. Davis Was Indians' Guest in British Guiana.

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana, Sept. 5.—The Rev. O. E. Davis, Superintendent of the British Guiana Mission of the Seventh Day Adventist denomination, the headquarters of which are at Washington, D. C., has been murdered in the interior while proselytizing among the natives.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—The wife of the Rev. O. E. Davis, killed in Guiana, is now in Georgetown, where she was awaiting the return of her husband from the interior post before returning with him to the United States on furlough. Several weeks ago a letter was received at headquarters from Mr. Davis saying that he had been invited by certain Indian tribes to visit them. This, he said, he intended to do, and then to press on two days' journey beyond the region explored by whites into the land of the Caribs. It is supposed that it was on this last stage of his journey that he was killed by the savages.

Mr. Davis's term of service had almost expired when he set out on this expedition. He had planned on returning to the United States to study medicine to fit himself for service as a medical missionary in the foreign field.

ARGUES FOR RECIPROCITY.

C. E. Mallet Says Canada Is in No Danger of Being Swallowed Up by Us.

PORTSMOUTH, England, Sept. 5.—The feature of to-day's meeting of the British Association was a paper on the subject of reciprocity between the United States and Canada, read by Charles E. Mallet, ex-Financial Secretary to the War Office and formerly Member of Parliament for Plymouth.

Mr. Mallet strongly approved the Canadian-American agreement and derided the suggestion that it would lead to annexation.

"The Canadian nationality is far too great a living force to-day," he said, "to be swallowed up in the United States."

Mr. Mallet maintained that if Great Britain attempted to interfere with the Canadian-American arrangement the Government would not only be violating one of the first maxims of the British Empire—namely, fiscal freedom for the self-governing dominions—but it would "be asking the greatest British colony to turn her back on the greatest market in the world."

The speaker argued that anything which increased the national development of Canada would be a source of Imperial strength.

BIG NEW WIRELESS STATION.

Marconi at St. John's Plans to Build Powerful Plant There.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Sept. 5.—Plans for the erection of a wireless station of sufficient power to allow steamers plying between Europe and America to keep in constant and direct communication with land, have been formulated by Mr. Marconi, who has been conducting experiments for the past few days.

The erection of the station will, it is expected, be begun in a few weeks, and its completion will make St. John's the main distributing point for wireless messages between England and America. Mr. Marconi will leave here for England to-morrow to make final arrangements.

To-day a lengthy message, addressed to Premier Morris, was received from the wireless station at Clifden, Ireland, by means of a temporary station on the proposed site of the new power station here.

STEAMER LOST; 81 DROWNED.

The Tucapel Wrecked on the West Coast of South America.

LIMA, Peru, Sept. 5.—The Chilean steamer Tucapel has been wrecked and is a total loss.

Eighty-one persons were drowned.

The Tucapel was engaged in trading on the west coast of South America. She was of 1,912 tons net and was commanded by Capt. Marrow.

KEENE'S CONDITION GOOD.

Attending Surgeon Says It Gives Entire Satisfaction.

LONDON, Sept. 5.—The surgeon attending James R. Keene, who on Sunday underwent an operation for stomach trouble, reported to-day that the condition of the patient was favorable, and that there had been no complications.

At 10 o'clock to-night the attending surgeon reported that Mr. Keene continued to improve, and that his condition gave entire satisfaction.

Baby Dies After Swallowing a Coin.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., Sept. 5.—After swallowing a five-cent coin on Sunday, Thomas B. Mulligan, the 18-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Mulligan of Woodside Avenue, became ill and died of ptomaine posioning late last night.

Notes of Foreign Affairs.

SANTO DOMINGO, Sept. 5.—William W. Russell to-day presented his credentials as United States Minister to President Caceres. The President received the Minister most cordially, and the event was made the occasion of a military display. The appointment of Mr. Russell is most satisfactory to the American colony here.

LONDON, Sept. 5.—The Italian steamer Fert, from New York, Aug. 14, and Newport News, Aug. 19, for Genoa, was wrecked to-day off Cape St. Vincent, the southwest extremity of Portugal. The members of the crew were rescued and landed at Sagres, near the Cape.

GIBRALTAR, Sept. 5.—The United States gunboat Ranger arrived here to-day from Queenstown. She is bound for the United States by way of the Azores and Bermuda.

FLOODS, FAMINES, REVOLTS IN CHINA

Liao River, as Well as the Yang-tse, Overflows Its Banks —Famines Will Result.

TROOPS DEFEATED IN TIBET

Reported Loss of 600 Men—Mohammedans in Kan-Su Rebelling—Mongols Oppose Development Schemes.

PEKING, Sept. 5.—The great flood which is devastating a part of the Chinese Empire extends from I-Chang, in the Province of Hu-Peh, to Shanghai on the coast, a distance of about 700 miles.

The banks of the Yang-tse Kiang have been obliterated, except in the highlands and around the walled cities and towns.

So far the loss of life can only be estimated, but it is believed that thousands of persons have been drowned. Farmhouses and brush huts have been submerged throughout the entire district or are floating down the river. The loss to foreign property is extensive.

The trade of Shanghai has been seriously affected, and the cotton and rice crops in the Yang-tse Valley have been completely destroyed. The consequent famine will doubtless be more severe even than that of last year.

The Liao River in Manchuria is also flooded. Many persons have been drowned and a serious famine in that section is certain.

The Chinese Government has other important matters confronting it at the present time. Rebellions have arisen in not fewer than five different quarters.

Reports received here say that in the Province of Kan-Su the Mohammedans, 20,000 strong, are threatening Si-ning Foo.

The Canton authorities are worried by terrorists, whom they are endeavoring to ferret out.

Reports have been received that Chinese troops in Tibet have been defeated with a loss of 600 men and have retired into Lhasa.

Furthermore, the Mongolian Princes and religious heads are uniting against the Chinese development and colonization schemes, and are reported to have appealed to Russia for protection.

The people of the Province of Sze-Chuen have risen against the railway projects, chiefly the Sze-Chuen—Han-Kow plan. At present the troops are maintaining order, but the situation hinges on their remaining loyal. The success of the Sze-Chuenites would practically mean the end of railroad development throughout the country. The Government, however, has informed the legations that it is confident of holding the upper hand.

STABBING AFTER A WEDDING.

Trouble Started When Uninvited Guests Smashed Violin.

A death will probably occur, it was said last night at Bradford Street Hospital, Brooklyn, as the result of the uninvited presence at a marriage celebration in Brownsville of three men, who started trouble when they got inside by making objection to the kind of music that was being played. One of them snatched the leader's violin bow, snapped it in two, and grasping the fiddle smashed it over the musician's head.

The disturbance occurred at the home of Joseph Kabelews, 153 Christopher Avenue. His daughter had just become the bride of John Boreskine of 172 Avenue B, Manhattan. The male guests sided with the musician, and the intruders saved themselves from a worse beating than that which they received by paying $15 damages for the violin and bow.

Then they went away. But they lay in wait for the violinist, John Lipin of 284 Thatford Avenue, and attacked him when he was going home with the other musicians. His wife was with him and threw herself between him and his assailants. This probably saved his life. His friends fought for him, and one of them, Dimitry Cyanowitz, 551 Graham Avenue, Brooklyn, was stabbed three times in the left breast. He was taken in a dying condition to the hospital. Detectives Donelon and Grico after a chase in which they fired several shots arrested Morris Kotler of 651 Stone Avenue.

KINGS CONVENTION DATES.

Ely in a Fair Way to Beat Col. Dady at the Primaries.

The Executive Committee of the Kings County Republican organization met yesterday at its headquarters in the Temple Bar Building, 44 Court Street, Brooklyn, and announced these dates for the local conventions:

Assembly District Judiciary Conventions, Sept. 28; Assembly District Conventions, Oct. 3; Aldermanic District Conventions, Oct. 4; convention for naming the candidate for Judge of the Sixth Municipal Court District, Oct. 6.

The forces of Morris U. Ely and Col. Michael J. Dady are preparing for a struggle at the primaries in the First Assembly District.

$30,000 LOSS IN BARN FIRE.

Building on the J. W. Waterbury Estate Burned, with Stock and Poultry.

Fire destroyed the large barn of the James W. Waterbury estate, at Middletown Road, Throgs Neck, Westchester, yesterday morning. The loss, as estimated by John Toote, Superintendent of the estate, was $30,000. Three cows, 1 horse, 50 chickens, and 100 pigeons were missing after the fire and are believed to have been burned.

There were 25 blooded dairy cows and 15 horses, several of them trained polo ponies, in the barn when the fire started, but most of them were taken out by Firemen Regan and Cropsey of Engine 65, which came from Pelham Bay Park. The barn roof fell in as the firemen were getting the last of the animals from the structure.

PLAN A FINE CITY BUILDING.

Cost of Brooklyn's Proposed Structure Estimated at $3,000,000.

Borough President Steers of Brooklyn announced yesterday that McKensie, Voorhees & Gmelin, architects, at 1,123 Broadway, Manhattan, had been chosen for the new Municipal Building in Brooklyn. According to the plans the building will cost $3,000,000 and will occupy a site about 200 feet square. The site is now occupied by the old Municipal Building in Joralemon Street, Murphy Park, and a row of stores in Court Street.

The first appropriation for the work, $500,000 was granted a month ago. With this money condemnation proceedings have been begun to get the property in Court Street. The architects expect to have their plans completed by the first of the year, and the work of construction can then be started. It will take about two years to complete the work.

Customs Men Find Hidden Articles.

Customs officials made three seizures of undeclared articles from passengers of the Hamburg-American liner Cleveland, which arrived on Sunday. Inspector Kennedy discovered linens and other dutiable articles under a false bottom in the trunk of August Schmidt, a musical director, of 843 Taylor Street, Philadelphia. They were valued at $150. Two necklaces, a ring, a cigar holder, and several knives were found in the overcoat pocket of George Kern of Peru, Ill., who had declared nothing but a $3 watch. Frederick C. Drenckhahm of Riverside, Conn., lost two earrings, a brooch, and some linen, of the total value of $225, which he had failed to declare.

CHOLERA HAS KILLED OVER 30,000 IN ITALY

People Oppose Health Measures, Believing Government Wants to Kill Off the Poor.

TERROR LEADS TO VIOLENCE

Epidemic Now Raging in Turkey Crosses Border of Servia—Twelve Cases Reported at Rashka.

CHIASSO, Switzerland, Sept. 5.—Since the beginning of the present year the total number of deaths from cholera in Italy has been more than 30,000.

Terror and superstition are causing outbreaks of violence among the inhabitants, who consider the authorities responsible for the scourge.

Health measures are opposed by the people, who think that these measures have been put into effect for the purpose of spreading the infection, it being the firm belief that it is the desire of the authorities to kill through poison a large number of the population, and in that way get rid of the poor.

The most energetic measures have been adopted by the Italian Government to maintain order.

BELGRADE, Sept. 5.—Cholera, which is now raging in Turkey, has crossed the Servian frontier.

Twelve cases of the disease were reported to-day at the Servian town of Rashka.

GOOD GRAND JUROR LOST.

Judge Foster Regrets That Man Once Falsely Indicted Was Dropped.

Swearing in the September Grand Juries in General Sessions yesterday, Judge Foster took occasion to remark upon the fact that one of the panel had had his name stricken from the list because he had been indicted. Judge Foster expressed the belief that this was a mistake, as the man was better fitted to be a Grand Juror because he had been falsely indicted, and therefore would not be hasty in the cases of others.

Walter S. Sullivan, a purchasing agent at 175 Second Avenue, is the foreman of the regular Grand Jury and Edward F. Whitney of the office of J. P. Morgan & Co. is the foreman of the additional Grand Jury.

IN NEW JERSEY.

BAYONNE.—In his will, which has just been admitted to probate in the Surrogate's office, the Rev. George Meyer, for many years pastor of St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church, who died in Germany two weeks ago, directs that $500 shall be spent in the celebration of masses for the repose of the souls of himself, his father and mother, and his sisters and brothers.

NEWARK.—James Savage, the Newark taxicab driver who confessed on Saturday to the police that he ran down William H. Stanford, the aged druggist, last week, causing his death, was charged with manslaughter in a complaint drawn yesterday by Capt. Brown of the Second Precinct. Savage is out on bail of $2,500.

NEWARK.—The police are looking for Joseph Ducks, who is wanted in connection with two fires in the frame dwelling in the rear of 94 Somerset Street, which Capt. C. Albert Gasser of the Bureau of Combustibles and Fire Risks declares were incendiary. Capt. Vogel of the Fourth Precinct detailed Policeman George Kaas on the case. Aaron and Abraham Galinkin, joint owners of the building, told the police that they were forced to put Ducks out of the house because he and his family had made trouble for their neighbors. Oil-soaked rags were found in the house by the firemen.

NEWARK.—Following the discovery of fire in the hat factory of the Ferry-Weber Company, 327 to 341 North Fifth Street, late yesterday afternoon, five girls jumped from several windows. The distance was only 18 feet, and their injuries were not of a serious nature. Their names are Rose Kane, Anna Johnson, Kittie Brady, Margaret Berlia, and Mamie Amill. The building had fire escapes and most of the employes used them, but the girls who were injured became panic-stricken. The fire damage was about $5,000.

ENGLEWOOD.—A passenger train, which stood near the Englewood Avenue crossing about 5:40 last evening, received a hard jolt when a freight train, backing up on another track, crashed into the locomotive. The brakeman had neglected to close a switch. Many passengers, as well as the engineer and fireman, were badly shaken, but none was injured. Traffic was delayed fully an hour.

HACKENSACK.—The latest murder victim in Bergen County is in a hospital and the witnesses are detained in the Hackensack jail, but the probable murderer, Patsey Prato, is missing. This last Italian affray took place at Fort Lee yesterday. Michael Corida and Prato had words, and the latter, losing his temper, grabbed an axe and struck Corida on the head, fracturing his skull and making a ghastly wound. It is said at the Englewood Hospital that Corida cannot live. Michael Columbo, Rosso Luzzio, Dominick Beatino, and Giavanno Girello, eye-witnesses of the attack, were threatened by the murderer and made no effort to prevent his escape.

ORANGE.—Bernard Finneran, to support whom as candidate for Tax Assessor Alderman Patrick A. Smith said that he was offered $400 early in the year, made the positive assertion yesterday that he was not responsible for any such offer.

MONTCLAIR.—The Woodrow Wilson Club of Montclair was organized last night by the election of William L. Ludlow, President; William H. Senior, Vice President; Dr. Richard Cole Newton, Treasurer; Joseph L. Kennedy, Secretary; Dr. W. Noel, John L. Cox, Boardman Wright, Edward A. McDermott, and Thomas J. Hughes, Executive Committee. About sixty Democrats were present.

SOMERVILLE.—William Morrison, engineer of the Easton express on the Central Railroad of New Jersey, had a narrow escape from death yesterday when his locomotive side wiped a wrecking train, which had backed down a siding at this point into his path. He had barely time to shut off steam, clap on the brakes, and jump to the other side of his engine, when the part of the cab where he had stood a minute before was ripped off as if it were cardboard. Morrison and his fireman both escaped with slight bruises.

NEWTON.—A third effort is to be made by voters of Sussex County to get rid of their Board of Freeholders of sixteen members and substitute a commission of three members. A petition for a referendum on the question, bearing twice the number of names needed, was filed yesterday with the County Clerk.

TRENTON.—The State Public Utilities Commission granted the Pullman Company yesterday an extension of a week to answer the complaint against the rates which it charges between this city and shore points. The tariffs were increased Aug. 18, and are held to be exorbitant.

TRENTON.—Vice Chancellor Walker denied yesterday a preliminary injunction to force the old officers of the New Jersey Dental Society to turn over its books and funds to the recently elected officers. Edward Kenny, Speaker of the Assembly, appeared for the new officers.

PRESIDENT FINLEY TURNS PATHFINDER

Spent a Month Tracing the Route Taken to the Southwest by the French Explorers.

FOUND REMNANTS OF FORTS

Visited the Birthplace of Champlain and Traveled Over Paths Followed by La Salle.

President John H. Finley of City College has just completed a month's tour of exploration along forgotten bypaths of the great lakes and Mississippi River country. The tour was undertaken in an effort to pass over, so far as practicable, the route into America followed by the first French explorers of the continent.

It began in Acadia, Nova Scotia, followed on to the great lakes by way of the St. Lawrence River, went by the portages taken by La Salle to the Mississippi, and ended in the Gulf of Mexico, which President Finley reached by what was probably the same branch of the river's mouth through which La Salle and his main party made their way to the sea.

It was a course of lectures delivered by President Finley when he was Harvard's exchange professor at the University of Paris last Winter that inspired him to the undertaking. While delivering his lectures on the influence of the French explorers on American development President Finley visited the birthplace of Champlain, from whom one of the Great Lakes takes his name. From the doorway of the house in which Champlain was born President Finley took several stones which he brought back to this country.

He determined to use the stones as a beginning for a monument to Champlain, put up at some suitable place along the route of his travels in America. He decided while on his journey that the most fitting spot for the monument is probably north of the Canadian border, and will allow the matter of the monument to rest until it is possible to erect it there.

While President Finley set out to make a faithful retracing of the routes, he was forced by the necessities of modern travel to alter his plans at several points. While the Frenchmen went entirely by boat, or by short portages in which they carried their boats from river to river, President Finley was forced to go on foot at times, at other times to use a rowboat, and sometimes to take a train running along a river bank.

The most important incident of his trip occurred in its initial stage, when he was seeking the remnants of the old colony of Port Royal, near where Annapolis now stands. He carried with him a map of the river and basin near Annapolis, which had been made by Champlain to indicate the location of the colony as founded by himself and Du Guastt, Sieur de Monts. The map showed an island in the river and two large hills on the shore. By means of it President Finley was able to find his way directly to the ruined ramparts of the fort built by Champlain in 1604.

From Port Royal President Finley worked his way up the coast of the Gulf of St. Lawrence to the Bay of Chaleurs, from which point Jacques Cartier operated in his voyages of 1535 up the St. Lawrence as far as the rapids of St. Louis, above the present site of Montreal. He followed the Cartier route to the point at which Cartier turned back, examining in the meantime the site of historic Fort Frontenac.

From Kingston, which was built on Fort Frontenac's former site, President Finley crossed Lake Ontario to Niagara, and then went to Toronto and on up to the site of La Salle's encampment, where he built the first sailboat ever to be used on the Great Lakes. After reaching Point St. Ignace, where Father Marquette is said to have been buried, he crossed to the Sault Ste. Marie and thence along the east and west shores of Lake Michigan into Illinois.

From Chicago he found himself able to avoid the old portages by which the French explorers reached the Des Plaines, Fox, and Kankakee Rivers on their way to the Illinois and the Mississippi.

Instead of going overland by the modern rail routes or less modern wagon roads, President Finley took to the drainage canal and thus through the latest improvement in watercourses, was able to proceed by boat across the portion of the former explorations which had proved most difficult to the Frenchmen.

In the journey down the Mississippi President Finley stopped to examine the sites of the old French forts along the river route. He found that a part of the powder magazine was still intact at Fort Chartres below St. Louis. The river had washed away portions of the fort, and it was evident, he said, that the rest will soon be destroyed unless a movement is started looking to the old fort's preservation. There is some talk, he said, of making the site a National reservation and building a stone embankment along the river, which will prevent further devastation of the historic site.

The old fort at St. Louis was completely destroyed, although the bluff on which it stood was still looming large above the river bank. Of Fort Creve Coeur, opposite Peoria, there remained not the slightest trace, the fort having disappeared so completely in fact that factions were quarreling as to which of three different sites it occupied. The important French town of Cahokia had been completely washed away by the river, but there were a few traces of the nearby Fort Kaskaskia.

At New Orleans President Finley had trouble in finding the mouths of the Missisippi followed by La Salle to the sea, but he determined to go out to the dividing point of the water and follow the La Salle route as near as he could. Instead of going by boat he went along the levee by railway, picking up a mail boat at the terminus of the road, by which he proceeded to the jetties. There the description left by La Salle indicated that he had proceeded by the westerly channel.

As the channels run to-day this would seem to be equivalent to what is known as the Southwest Passage, and out this President Finley went on board a pilot boat until he was well into the Gulf. On his way back to New York he stopped in Pennsylvania, where he spent some time in visiting the old French Creek country and the route by which the explorers proceeded down it to the Allegheny, and thence to its junction with the Monongahela, where old Fort Duquesne, later Fort Pitt, was located.

CANNON PLAYS GOLF.

Guest of Congressman Weeks, the ex-Speaker Takes First Lesson.

NEWTON, Mass., Sept. 5.—Uncle Joe Cannon is the latest convert to golf. He is being initiated into the mysteries of the game at the Brae Burn Country Club here.

"It's a great game, a great game," he said, when he sat down on the steps of the clubhouse after completing his first game. The ex-Speaker of the House of Representatives was in his shirt sleeves, his hat tilted on the back of his head, and the perspiration pouring down his face.

The ex-Speaker came here as the guest of Congressman John W. Weeks. Mr. Weeks is an enthusiastic golfer and took his visitor to the links. After watching some of the players, Uncle Joe expressed the belief that he could play as good a game as some of the others.

With a long swing he drove his first ball 150 feet. The gallery applauded. Mr. Cannon was elated—for a moment only. It required just 26 more strokes to reach the first hole. The course average is 4.

After that Uncle Joe took off his coat and entered into the spirit of the game. He completed the course, but every one lost track of the score.

Cape May Rejects Commission Rule.

CAPE MAY, N. J., Sept. 5.—Cape May rejected commission government to-day by a vote of 176 to 304. The tide was turned against it by the request of Nelson Z. Graven of the Cape May Real Estate Company, who wants no change in the government. The politicians were also against the change. The negro vote went solid against the proposition.

BOY BURGLARS BOASTFUL.

Caught with the Stolen Goods, They Tell of Their Crime—Leader is 12.

Three boys, the oldest 12, were arrested last night for robbing the home of William Knoepke, a publisher, at 801 Lexington Avenue. Loot valued at $300 was recovered by the detectives in the home of one of the lads.

The prisoners are Joseph Miller, 12 years of age, 1,185 Second Avenue, known as "Cabbage," and the leader of the gang; Peter Dolan, also 12, 1,179 Second Avenue, known as "Sandwich," and Howard Kenney, 8 years old, 1,187 Second Avenue. The police are inclined to believe that these are the same boys who robbed the home of Martin F. Baldwin, President of the Otis Elevator Company, at 166 East Sixtieth Street, when $100 worth of booty was taken.

Patrolman McGovern was walking along Lexington Avenue last night, when he noticed the front door of the Knoepke residence ajar, though the house is boarded up and the family is at their country home in New Rochelle. McGovern went in and found everything from the basement to the fourth floor in confusion. Drawers were pulled out, and the contents scattered about.

Detectives De Gilo and Gallagher learned that three boys had been seen near the house about dusk with large burlap bags over their shoulders. After searching for several hours along Second Avenue the detectives finally entered the home of the Miller boy. They found the three boys seated around a table, on which was piled the stolen goods. The stuff was packed back into the bags and the boys were taken to the East Sixty-seventh Street Station.

There, according to the police, the boys boasted of their "feat." They entered over a rear fence in Sixty-second Street and pried open a window. They got into the house about 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon. They roamed through the house, packing up things, and then had something to eat from the kitchen. It was still light, and they decided to remain in the house until it got dark. Then they opened the front door and walked out.

Dates Set for Republican Conventions.

Dates for local Republican conventions were fixed at a meeting of the Republican County Committee last night. It was announced by President Samuel S. Koenig that the Aldermanic conventions would be held on Oct. 4, the Assembly conventions on Oct. 5, and the Bronx Municipal Judicial Convention on Oct. 9. On Oct. 3 the County Committee will meet and reorganize. The New York Republican County Convention will be held on Oct. 10. Nominations for three Supreme Court vacancies, a Sheriff, and a Surrogate will be made. The primaries will be held on Sept. 26.

ADRIFT THREE DAYS UNCONSCIOUS IN BOAT

Young Man and Girl Near Death When Rescued by Yacht Off Portsmouth, N. H.

ALMOST SWAMPED BY SQUALL

Elsie Henderson's Underskirt Used as Distress Signal as She and Thomas Dennison Pray for Help.

Special to The New York Times.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Sept. 5.—Three days adrift at sea, during every hour of which they were face to face with death, Miss Elsie Henderson, 21 years old, and Thomas Dennison, 22, of Dover, were picked up to-day six miles off the coast by the yacht Rob Roy of Lynn.

When rescued by Commodore Robert Strong of the Lynn Yacht Club in their helpless little catboat, which was being tossed about by the waves, Miss Henderson lay unconscious in the cockpit, while Dennison, exhausted, was raving in delirium. They are now in Portsmouth Hospital. The girl revived sufficiently to tell the story of their perilous adventure. The young man is still unconscious.

Dennison is a member of a wealthy family in Dover. Miss Henderson is a leader in the younger society set there. They started on Saturday morning in a small catboat for a cruise for Portsmouth Harbor and off the coast. The story of what happened to them was told this afternoon by Miss Henderson after she had been revived by the doctors.

"When we were going down the harbor a squall struck us," she said weakly, lapsing frequently into an unconscious state during her narrative." Almost at the first gust our sail was carried away. The boat tossed about helplessly, the waves always gaining in size until we feared that we would be swamped.

"Tom waved his hat when we sighted a vessel, but they evidently did not see us or could not do anything to help us. I waved my handkerchief but they could not see it. In desperation I took off my underskirt. Tom rigged up an oar and we put that up as a signal. The vessel we hoped to attract kept on its course.

"Then we prayed for help. That was our only hope. Somehow I thought our prayers would be answered, but it seemed in vain. We had some sandwiches and when we seemed nearly starved we ate those. But they were soon gone.

"Sunday dawned, and there we were far from the signs of land, driving into the seas and expecting every moment to be drowned. We were drenched. We were too weak even to talk."

Commodore Strong of the Rob Roy said that he sighted the catboat flying its distress signal at dawn to-day. It took the Rob Roy three-quarters of an hour to reach the little vessel.

The sea was rough and waves were splashing over the boat. It is believed that Dennison and Miss Henderson would have died soon had not the rescuers arrived when they did.

Mr. Strong poured brandy through Dennison's swollen lips, but could not revive him. He was unconscious when taken to the hospital. Miss Henderson revived sooner, but she, too, is in a dangerous condition.

CITY LIBRARY BOOKS STOLEN.

Repeated Thefts on East Side Lead to the Arrest of a Bookseller.

Kalem Cohen, a book dealer at 223 Madison Street, is a prisoner at the Madison Street Station charged with receiving $100 worth of stolen books. Edward D. Gaillard, an investigator employed by the New York Public Library, is the complainant against him.

Miss Ida Simpson, in charge of the branch library at East Broadway and Jefferson Street, said last night that for several months books had been missed from that branch. Among them were a great many Hebrew books, some of them rare and valuable. In the last two weeks the number of books lost became so great that the police were called in. Detectives Gleason and Murphey spent some time among the push cart book sellers, and the arrest of Cohen resulted.

The detectives say they found many of the missing books in Cohen's house and also several books belonging to the Board of Education and evidently taken from a public school in Brooklyn.

Policeman Shot on Duty.

Patrolman Patrick Hunt of the Rockaway Precinct was walking along Carlton Avenue, in the Arverne section, early yesterday morning, when he encountered a man who had a bundle under his right arm and was carrying a suit case in his left hand. When the stroller saw Hunt he started to run. Hunt pursued him, whereupon the man wheeled about and fired. The bullet struck Hunt in the right thigh. Hunt fell to the ground and fired twice at the fugitive, but apparently neither shot took effect. Hunt's wound is not serious.

No Special Sessions in New Jersey.

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 5.—Gov. Wilson said this afternoon that he would not call a special session of the Legislature to redistrict the State under the new census. The changing of the Congress district lines will therefore go over to the regular session regardless of the political result in the Fall elections.

SHOPMEN IN SESSION OVER STRIKE ISSUE

Labor Leaders Discuss the Markham Letter, but Fails to Reach Agreement.

CALL IN FEDERATION'S HEAD

President McCreery Still with Unions' Representatives at a Late Hour Last Night.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—International officers of the unions in the shops of the Illinois Central Railroad and the executives of the shop federation argued from 10 o'clock this morning until after midnight in an effort to avoid a strike call. They reached no agreement.

The international officers are said to have insisted that the federation leaders recede from their demands for immediate recognition. The reply of the federation, which has already taken a strike vote, was said to be a flat refusal.

Vice President Julius Kruttschnitt of the Harriman lines is hurrying to the city over the Santa Fé from the Pacific Coast, where he met international officers of the labor organizations on the Harriman lines. He is expected to arrive in Chicago to-morrow morning and go into conference with President Markham of the Illinois Central.

The union men have endeavored to keep the troubles on the Illinois Central lines and the other Harriman lines separate, but the apparent intent of President Markham, to pursue the same policy as Mr. Kruttschnitt, has complicated matters for them.

Two letters to President Markham of the Illinois Central were the net definite results of the fourteen hours' conference. They were sent to him by special delivery late last night. Neither anticipates a reply. Both attack him for making public his ultimatum of Monday before it had reached W. F. Kramer, Chairman of the International Officers' Committee.

The first letter is signed by President J. F. McCreery and Secretary W. H. Bowen of the shop system federation, and the second by Kramer.

The first letter flatly denies the charge that the seven crafts holding working contracts with the road have broken their agreements and quotes the contracts and a letter giving the road thirty-day notice that the contracts were expiring and that they would not be renewed except as a part of a shop system federation contract. President Markham of the Illinois Central is accused in so many words of seeking to distort the facts in the controversy in order to create public sentiment in the interest of the road.

It ends by quoting the letter which was sent to President Markham on June 10, giving notice that the crafts would seek a new contract under the shop system plan.

The second letter attacks Markham for his final statement of having the public interest at heart. It makes a final argument for "collective bargaining" as being the proper and most expeditious method of transacting business, and points out that the road itself uses that method.

While the long conference was on, detectives from the Illinois Central special agent department shadowed the Monon Building.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 5.—The Presidents of the International Railroad Shop Unions, who came to this city last week to meet Vice President Kruttschnitt of the Harriman lines, expect the Advisory Board of the Federation of Shop Employes of the Harriman system will be in the city by to-morrow. The meeting was called for Friday, but J. W. Kline, spokesman for the International Presidents, said to-day that there may be a meeting to-morrow afternoon.

The International Presidents were in conference to-day. Kline said there would be no decision in connection with the shopmen's demands until the Advisory Board arrived. Kline said he had every hope that the differences would be settled peaceably.

In regard to the report that the demands of the men may be arbitrated Kline said that no proposition for arbitration had been made by the railroad officials nor have any such propositions been made by the union. The fact is, he said, that the feeling of the men is against arbitration at this time. The other international officers concurred in Kline's statement.

KRUTTSCHNITT SEES NO CHANGE

Harriman Vice President Says San Francisco Conference Is Barren of Results.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 5.—"Bafren of Results" is the way Julius Kruttschnitt, Vice President and Director of Maintainance of the Harriman lines, described to-day the outcome of his conference with representatives of the Federation of Shop Employes in San Francisco last week. Mr. Kruttschnitt, on his way east from San Francisco, left for Chicago at 6 o'clock.

"I haven't heard anything from San Francisco since I left there Saturday," he said. "I know nothing about future plans of either the railroads or the labor representatives. I consider our conference in San Francisco barren of results—that is, it did not change the situation."

Mr. Kruttschnitt declined to discuss in detail the demands of the labor unions, except to say that he considered the demands the strongest ever made on the railroads.

"Railroad business all over the country is poor," he said. "I don't think drought conditions have anything to do with it. But when people don't buy goods and don't build, it means that the railroads suffer."

"What can you say in regard to general industrial conditions in the country—that is labor and capital?" he was asked.

"Oh," said Mr. Kruttschnitt. "They've got to get along together, that's all. Just like a man and his wife—they may have 'spats,' but they are obligated to get along."

Move for New Trial Fails.

Supreme Court Justice Page denied yesterday for the second time a certificate of reasonable doubt sought by Stephen A. Dutton, who was convicted before Judge Swann in General Sessions of grand larceny and sentenced to State Prison for ten years. Dutton was found guilty of having obtained $3,600 from the State Bank by giving as security stock of the Northern Pacific Railroad Company, worth between $3 and $4 a share, while causing the bank to believe that it was getting Northern Pacific Railway stock, then worth about $155 a share.

SAVED FROM SINKING HULK.

Captain and Crew of Schooner James Davidson Brought to This Port.

The skipper and four sailors of the American schooner James Davidson, wrecked by a hurricane that swept along the South Atlantic Coast, were brought to New York yesterday by the Ward liner Saratoga. The Davidson met her fate off Cape Hatteras. Her deck was awash, her masts and rigging were gone, her lifeboat smashed to pieces, and she was in danger of going down at any moment, when the oil-tank steamer Northwestern came along and effected the rescue.

It was on Sunday morning, Aug. 27, that the Davidson, laden with a cargo from Charleston, S. C., and working her way north, ran into the hurricane. The jibboom and the foremast were first carried away, and giant waves continually swept over the deck. On Aug. 28 the wind died down, and was succeeded by a heavy sea. So violently did the ship roll that great combers roared over the ship, carrying away the only lifeboat. The sailors clung to what remained of the rigging to keep from being swept off the waterlogged hulk.

On the morning of the 28th the Northwestern sighted the sinking schooner. A lifeboat was launched, but it was dashed to pieces against the side of the steamer before the rescuers could get aboard. The next attempt was successful, and the life crew took off Capt. Gilmore and his five men. They were landed at Havana, where one of the sailors was sent to a hospital for treatment. Capt. Gilmore and the other four came home as Consular passengers on the Saratoga.

MAGAZINE DENIES CHARGES.

Current Literature Publishing Company Replies to the Government's Suit.

The Current Literature Publishing Company replied yesterday to the charges brought against it and other defendants in the suit against the Periodical Clearing House and other members of the Magazine Trust for violating the Sherman Anti-Trust act. It denied that it was ever engaged in the unlawful acts complained of by the Government, or that it had knowledge as to the rates at which "subscription agencies" or "agents" were able to sell subscriptions.

It denied that at any time it conspired to destroy competition in the subscription prices of magazines, but admitted that in July, 1909, it made a contract with the Periodical Clearing House. However, it denied that it notified any subscription agencies that it would not do business with them unless they made a contract with the Periodical Clearing House.

It was likewise denied that the defendant had any knowledge of the so-called "official price list" of the Periodical Clearing House or that publishers of periodicals, not included in this price list, allow their publications to be sold at prices lower than their regular publication rates.

KILLED IN WRESTLING BOUT.

Joseph Wycoski Dead and Small Boy in Hospital in Philadelphia.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 5.—As a result of their attempts to imitate the Gotch-Hackenschmidt wrestling match of Labor Day one man is dead and a fifteen-year-old boy is suffering from injuries which may keep him many weeks in the Jewish Hospital. The dead man, Joseph Wycoski, wrestled Monday night with Alexander Relza, following a discussion of the Gotch-Hackenschmidt match.

Relza threw Wycoski to the floor three times, causing internal injuries which caused his death early yesterday morning at the Garrettson Hospital. Relza was arrested.

The injured boy is George Corkle. He and his brother James attempted to test the value of what is known as the "toe hold" in wrestling, when George was seized with a hemorrhage and fell to the floor. At the hospital it was found that a bloodvessel had been broken.

NEW DIRECTORY OUT.

It Seems to Indicate That We Gained 93,281 Population Last Year.

The new 1912 Directory for Manhattan and the Bronx, the one hundred and twenty-fifth volume of the series, was issued yesterday by the Trow Directory Printing and Book Company. The first Trow Directory contained 845 names. The present volume contains 525,995 names.

The population of the two boroughs last year, as given by the census report, was 2,736,572, and the number of names given in the Directory for 1910 was 513,472, which would indicate that each name in the Directory represented, approximately, 5.380 of the entire population. This ratio, applied to the number of names in the present volume, shows that the population has increased to 2,820,853, or a gain in one year of 93,281.

TAMMANY LOOSENS GRIP ON LEGISLATURE

Won't Be Able to Pass New City Charter as Framed or the Gittins Track Gambling Bill.

RENEW SESSION TO-DAY

Repealer for the Frawley Boxing Law Will Be Introduced—Trouble Over Direct Nominations Law.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 5.—Tammany Hall in all probability will not be able to dominate the deferred session of the Legislature which will open here to-morrow night as it did the regular session which came to a close late in July. The proposed New York City Charter may be passed or it may not, but it certainly will not go through with the provision giving the Mayor an insuperable veto in franchise matters.

The Congressional reapportionment probably will pass in any shape it may be framed by a committee friendly to Tammany Hall, and the six additional districts may go to New York City. But the Gittins bill designed to absolve Directors of race tracks from responsibility for gambling, which is dearer to the hearts of certain Tammany politicians than any measure that will come up before the Legislature at the deferred session, is doomed to defeat.

While Tammany Hall is not frantic about the proposed New York City Charter, and while some of the Tammany district leaders are actually lukewarm or opposed to its passage altogether, a decent showing is being made by the dominant element in the Legislature, composed entirely of Tammany men, to bring the up-State lawmakers of their party faith around to the support of Tammany's measures. Speaker Frisbie of the Assembly, in response to an urgent summons, went to New York to-day to confer with Assemblyman James A. Foley, who is Chairman of the Assembly committee which has the proposed City Charter in charge, and who represents Tammany Leader Murphy's district in the Assembly.

Mr. Murphy's Assemblyman seems to be the leading spirit in the making of the proposed charter. For all that, Mr. Foley and nearly all his confreres on the Charter Committee seem to be anxious to disclaim all responsibility for the charter and have it appear that Mayor Gaynor, not the organization, is the father of the proposed charter legislation.

It is difficult to predict the length of the deferred session. If the up-State Democrats have their way, it will close in a couple of weeks. The Republicans may do something to delay matters. It has been practically settled now that some Republican Senator will introduce a bill to repeal the Frawley boxing law. This will hit a number of Tammany politicians, including some lawmakers who have a financial interest in the revival of pugilistic bouts, very hard, and there is likely to be a spirited fight over it. The Direct Nominations bill, too, is likely to cause trouble, as the renomination of some independent Democratic Assemblymen depends on their support of such a law, while the orthodox members of both parties are opposed to it. There are some of the lawmakers who believe that the deferred session will last for six weeks or more.

Not a handful of lawmakers have reached the Capitol, and it is safe to predict that when the deferred session gets together to-morrow evening there will not be a quorum in either house of the Legislature. Gov. Dix has come to town and is prepared to send his message urging direct primaries legislation, which will have the support of all the up-State Democratic members, to the Legislature to-morrow evening.

CARMANIA SHORT OF COAL.

Cunarder Forced to Stop at Halifax for 200 Tons, Getting Here Late.

Wireless news was received at the offices of the Cunard Line yesterday from the Captain of the steamship Carmania, bound to this port from Plymouth, that the ship will stop at Halifax for coal, afterward proceeding and probably reaching here on Friday night or Saturday morning.

Because of the strike in England the Carmania was poorly coaled, and left Plymouth 200 tons short of the amount required by the steamship as a surplus. The coal was of poor quality and the vessel did not make her best speed. She will be in Halifax about to-day, and will take on 200 tons of selected coal. Any passenger who wishes may disembark at Halifax, but it is not known that any will take advantage of this opportunity. The Carmania met with much rough weather.

INTERBORO AGAINST THIRD-TRACK PLAN

Offer Made by Service Board Brings No Reply Within the Time Limit Set.

DIRECTORS HAVE NOT ACTED

But Their Attitude Is Not in Doubt, the Financial Part of the Proposal Being Especially Objectionable.

There appears little prospect at present of the third tracking of the Second, Third, and Ninth Avenue elevated lines or the building of the elevated extensions along Webster and Jerome Avenues and across the Queensboro Bridge. On Aug. 2 the Public Service Commission sent to the Interborough Rapid Transit Company certificates authorizing the undertaking of these works under certain conditions. The company had thirty days in which to make its reply. This period elapsed on Friday, and no answer has come.

It was learned yesterday, however, that if there had been a reply it would have been a refusal of the commission's offer. The financial clauses, particularly those dealing with the matter of depreciation, are considered unsatisfactory by the Interborough.

One of the certificates sent by the Public Service Commission provided for a third track on the Second Avenue elevated line from Chatham Square to the Harlem River, with additional third and fourth tracks between Fifty-third and Sixtieth Streets to provide a connection with the Queensboro Bridge, additional tracks on the Third Avenue line between Pearl and 145th Streets, and on the Ninth Avenue line a third track from the Battery to the Harlem River, rising twenty feet above the Fifty-third Street crossing of the Sixth Avenue line. It allowed for the alteration of certain stations and the establishing of express stations, and it authorised the construction of what was to be known as the West Farms Subway connection, a two-track elevated railway running from the present Third Avenue line at about 143d Street, through Willis and Bergen Avenues to a point near the intersection of Brook and Westchester Avenues, where a connection could be made with the West Farms Division of the Subway.

The other certificate dealt with the Webster Avenue, the Jerome Avenue, and the Queensboro Bridge line. The Queensboro Bridge line was to have formed a connection between the Second Avenue elevated and the tracks of the companies operating in Queens.

These certificates contained stringent provisions regarding the amount to be paid by the Interborough to the city not only for the use of the new third tracks and the new extension, but also all the elevated railroads at present operated. It is these provisions that have prevented the commission and the company coming to an agreement.

Schultze to Appeal in Heinze Case.

Max H. Schultze, who was a partner in the firm of Otto Heinze & Co., bankers and brokers, formerly at 42 Broadway, has decided to appeal from the decision of Judge Holt, which denied him a discharge from the firm debts in his voluntary bankruptcy proceedings. Hays, Hershfield & Wolf, attorneys for Mr. Schultze, applied yesterday to Judge Hough of the United States District Court for leave to appeal to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, and the Judge allowed the application. Mr. Schultze was granted a discharge from his individual debts only.

Crowded Court Room Pleased by Little Girl's Piano Playing

Startling Demonstration of Success of Learning at Home Without a Teacher.

This little girl affirmed under oath she did not know one note from another when she received the first lesson from the U. S. School of Music, and since had received no other instruction than that of the U. S. School of Music. Her playing won the applause of a crowded court room.

It was testified that these lessons were ABSOLUTELY FREE and that her only expense had been for music, which amounted to only about two cents a day.

Among other truths disclosed was the remarkable fact that thousands, all over the country, had learned to play their favorite instrument—PIANO, ORGAN, VIOLIN, GUITAR, MANDOLIN, BANJO, CORNET, 'CELLO, or SIGHT SINGING—without the aid of a teacher.

They had all received a free course of lessons from the famous U. S. School of Music and included people in every walk of life.

Testimonials are printed in the explanatory booklet from clergymen, doctors, bankers and business men stating that either they or their children had found the lessons so simple that they learned without effort.

No one should say they cannot learn music until they have read all the particulars about the FREE TUITION OFFER of the U. S. SCHOOL OF MUSIC. All you have to do is to write and say what instrument you would like to play.

TWENTY VOLUMES OF SPEECHES BY TAFT

Another to be Added When He Finishes His 13,000-Mile Tour on Nov. 1.

TWO HUNDRED TALKS COMING

Five Principal Topics to be Discussed—Special Train of Five or Six Cars.

Special to The New York Times.

BEVERLY, Mass., Sept. 5.—Plans for President Taft's Western trip, which starts on Friday evening, Sept. 15, on his fifty-fourth birthday anniversary, and takes him to the Pacific Coast and then back to Washington, where he is due to arrive on the morning of Nov. 1, were announced at the Executive offices this afternoon.

This is the first step in arranging the 12,000-mile trip, which will help to fill another volume devoted to the President's speeches, now in the twentieth volume.

The President will make approximately 200 speeches, and before he leaves Beverly he hopes to have the most important addresses well in shape. Five principal subjects will be discussed on the trip—reciprocity, tariff, currency, the peace treaties, and conservation. These, with subjects which may develop from time to time, will give the President plenty of material.

Figured approximately, the trip will carry the President over 13,000 miles and will be over twenty-five different railroad lines, including the Boston & Albany, Lake Shore, Michigan Southern, Michigan Central, Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie, Grand Rapids & Indiana, Chicago & Alton, Missouri Pacific, Santa Fé, Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific, Chicago, Burlington & Quincy, Illinois Central, Chicago Great Western, Wabash, Missouri, Kansas & Texas, Union Pacific, Oregon Short Line, Oregon Railroad & Navigation Company, Chicago, Minneapolis & St. Paul, Northern Pacific, Southern Pacific, San Pedro, Los Angeles & Salt Lake Railroad, Chicago & Northwestern, Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, and the Pennsylvania line.

The itinerary is as follows:

Pittsburgh, Penn., Oct. 31.
Washington, D. C., Nov. 1.

The special will be made up of five or six cars, the President's private car, a baggage car, a dining car, two sleepers, and probably a coach which will be used by local committees.

Leaving Boston at 7:35 o'clock on the evening of Friday, Sept. 15, the President makes the 349-mile run to Syracuse by the morning of the 16th and stays until late in the afternoon, going from there to Erie, Penn., where he arrives in the morning after a run of 237 miles. He spends Sunday at Erie, and on Monday he leaves after midnight for Detroit, where he is due before breakfast. He will take the trolley line to Pontiac and, returning, will leave Detroit late in the afternoon with stops at Saginaw and Bay City, where he will spend the evening, leaving after midnight for Sault Ste. Marie, where he spends the afternoon, and leaves there for Marquette, where he arrives late at night and spends Wednesday, Sept. 20.

The President spends Sept. 21 in Michigan, and on Friday morning arrives at Peoria, Ill., where he spends the day. From there he goes to St. Louis, spending Saturday in that city, and most of Sunday at Baldwin, Kan. He makes a number of stops in Missouri and Kansas on Monday, Sept. 25, and speaks at the National Conservation Congress on the evening of Sept. 25 at Kansas City.

From Kansas the President goes through Iowa, then goes back into Missouri, and from there goes through Nebraska, Colorado, Wyoming, Utah, Idaho, Washington to the Pacific Coast, arriving at Tacoma on the morning of Oct. 8. He spends four days in Washington, a day in Oregon, and arrives at San Francisco on Friday, Oct. 13, spending Saturday and Sunday there, and Monday in Los Angeles.

The President leaves Los Angeles on Oct. 17 and begins his trip home, passing through Utah, Montana, Wyoming, South Dakota, Minnesota, and Wisconsin, arriving at Chicago on Friday, Oct. 27, spending Saturday, Sunday, and part of Monday in that city. He leaves Chicago on Monday, Oct. 30, stopping at Pittsburg on Tuesday, and is due back in Washington on Wednesday morning, Nov. 1.

$700,000 FOR SCRAP METAL.

Government Is Selling French Panama Canal Company's Junk.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—Eleven bidders to-day competed for the scrap metal relics of the machinery used by the French Panama Canal Company in its attempt to dig a canal across the Isthmus, and which the United States Government wishes to clear away before the waterway is completed.

The highest bids came from the Chicago House Wrecking Company, ranging from $215,000 to $700,000, and the Phoenix Iron and Steel Company of Galveston, Texas, $66,250 to $246,250.

The scrap, scattered along the Canal line, consists of locomotives, dump cars, tanks, barges, and miscellaneous junk, weighing from 45,000 to 120,000 tons. The successful bidder must remove it within three years.

New Commands for Naval Officers.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—Capt. J. G. Quinby has been ordered to command the receiving ship Franklin at Norfolk, relieving Rear Admiral Reynolds, who is ordered to proceed to Philadelphia to take command of the Naval Home in that city. He will relieve Admiral Uriah Harris, who retires on Sept. 14. Commander Hillary P. Jones will enjoy the unique distinction of commanding two ships at the same time, the armored cruisers Tennessee and Montana. The ships are now in reserve at the Portsmouth (N. H.) Navy Yard.

750,000 PUPILS THIS YEAR.

Estimated Registration Shows an Increase of More Than 20,000.

Beginning this morning at 9 o'clock, the public school buildings will be opened for the next three days from 9 to 3 o'clock for the registration of pupils entering the schools for the first time. As nearly as it can be foretold, from 70,000 to 75,000 pupils will be forced to accept part-time attendance.

It is expected that more than 20,000 new pupils will be enrolled and that the total registration will approximate 750,000. Only 8,336 new sittings will be available owing to the fact that two years ago the Board of Estimate failed to appropriate any money for the erection of school buildings. City Supt. Maxwell has announced these rules governing the registration of pupils for the guidance of parents:

Children under six years of age will not be received except in kindergarten classes. Children under five years of age will not be admitted to kindergarten classes until all older children have been accommodated.

Children who have never attended a public school within the City of New York must furnish a satisfactory certificate of vaccination.

Children born in the City of New York must furnish a certificate of date of birth from the Department of Health.

The main office of the Department of Health is at Fifty-fifth Street and Sixth Avenue, Borough of Manhattan. The borough offices are located as follows:

Brooklyn—Flatbush Avenue, Willoughby and Fleet Streets.
Bronx—3,731 Third Avenue.
Queens—372 Fulton Street, Jamaica.
Richmond—514 Bay Street, Stapleton.

Children born elsewhere must furnish a passport or a baptismal certificate or other satisfactory evidence showing the date of birth.

Children who have been attending a public school must apply to that school for a transfer card before they are admitted to any other school.

Transfer cards will be furnished only upon the written or personal request of the parent or guardian, stating the reason for such request.

Parents are requested to attend to the transfer and registration of their children on Sept. 6, 7, or 8, from 9 A. M. to 12 M., and from 1 to 3 P. M.

For the next three days Principals and heads of departments will be on hand at the schools to attend to the admission of new pupils and the transfer of those who have moved into other school districts. On Friday, however, all teachers will be in attendance in preparation for the opening of the schools for the session on Monday morning.

SUFFRAGE AT STATE FAIR.

Speakers Going to Syracuse to Carry on a Campaign.

Speakers and delegates from this city to the State meeting of the New York State Woman Suffrage Association will go to Syracuse in a few days to prepare for the campaign to be carried on at the State Fair. A committee has just finished a tour of the State preaching the cause of suffrage in every hamlet. Next week they will take advantage of the State Fair to hold meetings and distrbute literature.

Suffrage headquarters will be in the Woman's Building at Syracuse, and a booth will be presided over on the days of the fair by different State clubs. From New York City Miss Harriet May Mills, President of the State Association, and Miss Portia Willis, daughter of the late Congressman Willis, will go to Syracuse to deliver talks on Thursday of next week. Other speakers will be Mrs. Jessie Hardy Stubbs, formerly a suffrage worker in Illinois, and the Rev. Anna Howard Shaw, the National President. The Thursday meeting will be the most important gathering of the State suffragists.

TEST OF BALLOT LAW PUT OFF

Under It No Candidate May Have His Name In Two Columns.

The test of the Levy law, which forbids the appearance of a candidate's name in more than one column of an election ballot, was postponed yesterday by Supreme Court Justice Gavegan. The case was adjourned until Friday, at the request of Assistant Corporation Counsel Nicholson, who asked for more time to prepare his case.

Justice Gavegan's court was crowded with lawyers and others interested in the test of the Levy law. The case was brought about by the application of Andrew F. Murray, Republican candidate for Assembly in the Nineteenth District, to have the Board of Elections ignore the new law and allow his name to be placed on the ballot under the Independence League emblem as well as that of the Republican Party.

PAID ON SAGE FOREIGN BONDS

Deputy State Controller Receives $6,230 Under the New Law.

Deputy State Controller Julius Harburger received $6,230 taxes yesterday from the Russell Sage estate. The money was in payment of the new tax of one-half of 1 per cent. payable on bonds and mortgages which must be registered outside the State.

The tax was on $288,000 worth of Wabash Railroad bonds, $283,000 of St. Louis Southwestern Railroad bonds, $200,000 of Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company bonds, and $475,000 of bonds of the New Brunswick Southern Railroad Company. The estate will be taxed further, but bond owners have until Oct. 1 to make payments.

Stern Brothers Open a New Building.

Stern Brothers opened their new twelve-story building in Twenty-third Street yesterday. The new structure is by the Thompson-Starrett Company from the designs of Maynicke & Francke, architects. The façade is in white stone. A new feature is a men's furnishings department, in which men's wants are exclusively catered to, and for their convenience a trying-on room has been provided. On the upper floors are departments for women's dresses, a special order section, Oriental and domestic rugs. The new building affords the firm larger facilities for offices and stock rooms.

CUMMINS ATTACKS PRESIDENT'S RECORD

Iowa Senator Wants Progressive Nominated and Classes Taft with Standpatters.

REVIEWS HIS LEGISLATION

Holds President Responsible for Defeat of Income Tax Law—Indictment Has Eight Counts.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Sept. 5.—Asserting that he entertains none but the most friendly personal feelings for President Taft, Senator Albert B. Cummins in a signed statement to-day sets out in a bill of particulars the reasons why he thinks Taft should not be returned to the Presidential chair. Among other things Mr. Cummins points to the Executive's position on Canadian reciprocity, which the Senator calls "the most unfortunate act of legislation passed within the period of the present Administration."

Senator Cummins continues:

"If the voters of the Republican Party believe that the old leadership should be perpetuated they can find no better nominee than Mr. Taft. I do not believe it ought to be continued, and, therefore, without any personal disparagement of the President, I am hoping that a progressive Republican will be nominated and elected next year.

"It will be conceded, I suppose, that President Taft's alignment must be defined chiefly:

1. By his position upon the Payne-Aldrich tariff law.
2. By his position upon the bill for the further regulation of inter-State common carriers, brought forward about the first of the year 1910.
3. By his position upon the change made in the postal savings law, just as it was being passed in the Senate.
4. By his position upon the proposed income tax law, which was sought to be incorporated into the Payne-Aldrich Tariff act.
5. By his attitude toward the control and disposition of our public domain.
6. By his position on the Canadian Tariff bill, passed at the extra session just closed.
7. By his work for the peace treaties.
8. By his vetoes of the woolen schedule, the free list, and the resolution admitting New Mexico and Arizona as States.

"It is manifest that space to analyze each of these measures and argue at length their merits or demerits is not available. I shall content myself, in the main, therefore, with merely recalling to the minds of the people the line-up on each of them.

"1. The Payne Aldrich tariff law, Mr. Taft's associates in the making of this law, which he declared to be the best ever passed upon the subject, were Mr. Aldrich and his followers in the Senate; Mr. Payne, Mr. Dalzell, Mr. Cannon, and their followers in the House. It seems to me I am justified in the conclusion that he did not take 'the progressive view' with respect to this measure.

"2. One of the notable laws passed during the present Administration is the act amending and enlarging what is commonly known as the inter-State commerce law.

"President Taft made legislation upon the subject the prominent feature of the first regular session after he was inaugurated. Through his Attorney General he presented to Congress a bill, which was introduced in the Senate, referred to the Committee on Inter-State Commerce, and reported back to the Senate precisely as the Attorney General wrote it and as President Taft apparently believed it ought to be enacted.

"If this bill had passed as insisted upon by the President the work of nearly a quarter of a century would have been swept away and we would have taken a long step backward in the regulation of our railways.

"The Committee bill was put through the committee under the coercion of Mr. Aldrich and with his declaration that not a letter or a line should be changed in it. It came to the Senate and was opened up for discussion. Many parts of it were so bad that they found no defenders, and such effort as was made to defend the Administration bill was led by Mr. Aldrich and Mr. Elkins.

"It was reconstructed upon the floor of the Senate by the progressives against the violent opposition of the reactionaries who were acting for the President. I believe that people generally will agree with me that with respect to this measure Mr. Taft did not take 'the progressive view' of the subject.

"3. Before the present Administration came in a Postals Savings Bank bill had been practically agreed upon in the Senate, and the fight which the progressives had made was to insure the deposit of the money put into the Post Offices in the banks of the local communities.

"We had won out, but just as we were on the point of passing the bill President Taft had sufficient influence to rewrite that part of the bill, and everybody recognizes that the law as it was finally adopted, in that respect, was a victory for the great city banks and a defeat for the small country banks. Again the President was found in the company of the reactionaries and not with the progressives.

"4. The progressives were exceedingly anxious to attach an income tax law to the Payne-Aldrich Tariff act. We had good reason to believe that the President was with us in this effort, but at the moment when it seemed likely to succeed, the President, under the leadership of Mr. Aldrich and his close associates, brought forward the so-called corporation tax law and defeated the proposal to levy a tax upon the great incomes of the country.

"He did this through the instrumentality of the most pronounced reactionaries of Congress. I think it must be conceded that whatever else may be said of his action, he did not take 'the progressive view.

"We were encouraged by the suggestion that we would be able to obtain an amendment to the Constitution, and we could then have an income tax law of unquestioned validity, but the Constitution has not yet been amended to remove the doubt, and it is exceedingly doubtful if it ever will be.

"5. All that I care to say is that he seems to be out of harmony with those who were recognized before his advent into office as the best exponents of the conservation policy, and so far as I know his appointment of Mr. Fisher as Secretary of the Interior was about the first act of his Administration which commanded the approval of the progressives throughout the country.

"6. With respect to the Canadian Tariff bill, there is, of course, the widest difference of opinion. It is a false pretense from beginning to end. It gives free pulp and free paper to publishers using print paper, and it gives free farm products, but it will not reduce the cost of living, and it will not, in my judgment, widen or enlarge our markets for manufactures in Canada.

"Its evil effects have been greatly exaggerated, and its beneficial effects are almost wholly imaginary.

7. "With regard to peace treaties, I am in hearty sympathy with the President in an endeavor to broaden the field of arbitration, but they can hardly be instanced as a great advance in the move for peace when they are construed as the President himself construes them in his public speeches, and as they must necessarily be construed if the Senate amends them as is proposed, for they are practically the same as the peace treaty we already have with Great Britain.

"8. With regard to the Woolen bill and the Free List bill, I have only to say that I haven't heard of any progressive rejoicing over the vetoes which killed them. They were both prepared with the greatest care and in the full light of abundant information and both amply justified by the standard of protection.

"With respect to the veto of the resolution admittting New Mexico and Arizona as States I have this to say: Some of the progressives were apposed to provisions in both constitutions. They were not all in favor of the form of initiative, referendum and recall found in the Arizona Constitution.

"I do not approve the recall of judges. All these things became immaterial in the presence of one progressive proposition, viz.: That Congress had no right to prescribe Constitutions for these incoming States."

The Man in the Tower Lifts His Autumn Hat

It has just arrived at the Tower of Style. Kindly look at the mark in it:

"KENILWORTH."

Remember it. It will be discreetly written in the crowns of many New York men before the curtain drops.

One buys a good hat in London, Paris and Berlin for $3—or less.

It is from a fashionable hatter. It passes current as the authenticated top-piece of a man of taste and judgment—a carefully dressed man.

It ISN'T from a non-descript store, careless of its sources of fashion.

Why not in New York? The materials to make the hat at that price have been here.

But it required the clearing house of fashion ideas—of the ACCEPTED STANDARDS of hat styles—to direct the making.

It has been done.

The Weber & Heilbroner

KENILWORTH is the result.

Either soft or stiff, it represents the utmost value that can be put in a hat for $3.

The Man in the Tower salutes you not with one hat, but many.

Imported hats, by Mossant, Vallon & Argod, $5.

Borsalino's famous lightweight hats, made in Italy and extensively worn in Europe, $4.

Scratchup heather hats and plaid cloth hats, $3 and $4—English colors.

Marlborough caps in roughs and heathers—made by London's fashionable capmaker. $1.50 and $2.

This Surely is a Piping Smoke!

YOU see a man layin' to on his old jimmy pipe, with smoke curlin' happy like and joy flags wavin'—or maybe puffin' gently on a self-made cigarette! Then you say: "There's another that's met up with the national joy smoke"

P. A. sure does bring 'em in line. To the old pipe-shy grouches it's just like a war horse sniffin' o' powder smoke. It's the tobacco they've been yearning for, the tobacco that can't bite tongues.

Pipe this fact, men! In two years Prince Albert has revolutionized pipe-smoking. It has started two men to smoking a pipe for every one before.

If you still think you can't get a smoke out of a pipe—try P. A. now. Give your jimmy pipe a chance with real tobacco. A dime is good for the tidy red tin at all tobacco-rigs. Go to the nearest one, NOW!

SLEEPING GIRL SHOT BY HER FOND FATHER

Second Bullet for Himself—His Mind Unhinged by Film Shows and Black Hand Threats.

SHE MAY LIVE, HE IS DEAD

He Had Told of Situations in Which He Feared He Might Have to Shoot Her—Was Dreaming, Son Says.

Rafaele Ricchetti, a prosperous carpenter of 601 Sixth Avenue, Brooklyn, shot his favorite daughter, Rosa, 20 years old, in the head yesterday morning, and then turned his revolver on himself. Both were rushed to Seney Hospital. The hospital physicians say that Rosa will recover, but her father, who was nearly 50, died last evening.

No motive is known for the shooting. Frank Ricchetti, the 17-year-old son of the carpenter, declared that his father shot his sister in a dream and tried to kill himself when he was awakened by the shot and saw what he had done. Mrs. Ricchetti, the mother of seven children, moaned that her husband had been driven crazy by Black Hand threats. Micolo Loicano, 20 years old, of 566 Seventeenth Street, who is engaged to marry Rosa, offered the most plausible theory. He declared that his prospective father-in-law was a moving-picture fiend and had been made bloodthirsty by seeing many film shows portraying violence.

Among the films recently seen by Ricchetti was one in which a man pursued by his enemies through a woods shoots at an intruder of his leafy hiding place, only to discover that it is his daughter, who has come to bring him food. The film-show father kills himself on learning what he has done. Ricchetti was much affected by this film, and discussed it at home more than many of the others he had seen. Rosa was his favorite daughter, and he is reported to have said that he would do as the film father does if he should ever be so unfortunate.

Ricchetti visited a moving-picture show on Monday evening with his daughter and young Loicano. They saw several films in which there was shooting, and young Loicano said that Ricchetti shuddered every time a shot was fired. It was his custom to go to picture shows three or four times each week, and each time he took Rosa. The shooting scenes made a great impression on him, and he discussed them at home with his family, often sitting up till midnight with his entire family in the apartment back of his carpenter's shop.

The father had bought a gun several weeks ago, after telling his family that he had received Black Hand threats. He is a contracting cabinetmaker in a small way and had a business, which would make him a mark for blackmailers. He spoke constantly of being killed, and often bemoaned the state of his family left without him. He was particularly solicitous of Rosa's future, and it is thought by the police that he did not wish her to survive him.

Rosa, who is a very comely girl of the Latin type, worked in a shirtwaist factory in Fifth Avenue. She earned good wages, which she spent largely on finery. She also received many gifts of clothing and trinkets from her father, whose partiality for her was so well known that the family laughed one day last week when Ricchetti said:

"Perhaps, Rosa, I'll have to kill you some day." This remark was made in connection with the discussion of a moving-picture scene.

Rosa was asleep when her father shot her, just after daybreak. The police version of the shooting says that she was lifted up in bed before she was shot. Her wound was beside the nose under the right eye.

ALLOW MRS. EDDY'S BEQUEST

By Agreement $72,000 Will Be Paid to New York Church.

CONCORD, N. H., Sept. 5.—The litigation over the estate of the late Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy, founder of the Christian Science Church, advanced another stage in the Superior Court here to-day.

Chief Justice Robert M. Wallace, who some time ago granted an injunction restraining the executor of the Eddy estate from removing any property from this State, to-day modified the injunction so as to permit of the payment of $72,000 to the Second Church of Christ, Scientist, of New York.

Mrs. Eddy's will provided for the payment to this church of a sum not to exceed $175,000, sufficient to pay off its indebtedness. The payment of this bequest was assented to by counsel in the will litigation.

After hearing arguments on the petition of attorneys for Executor Baker that the suit brought by Mrs. Eddy's son, George W. Glover of Lead, S. D., to have the residuary clause of the will declared illegal be transferred to the Supreme Court of New Hampshire for determination of the question of law, Chief Justice Wallace took the matter under advisement. He gave counsel for both sides until Monday next to file memoranda supplementing their arguments.

WOULD DIVERT A RIVER.

Coloradoans Plan to Tunnel Great Divide, but Find Opposition.

Special to The New York Times.

DENVER, Sept. 5.—A fight for a river, which has been opened in the State Court at Sulphur Springs, is likely to prove one of the liveliest legal engagements ever fought out in Colorado. The question is whether the waters of the Grand are to be permitted to flow as heretofore to the west of the Great Divide and water the valleys through which it has always flowed, or whether Nature's plain design is to be set at naught and most of its waters are to be diverted to the eastern slope through huge tunnels. In this fight are engaged big water companies, organizations of settlers, and the Government of the United States itself.

The discovery was recently made by Grand Valley irrigators that two companies which have irrigation schemes in northern counties of the State east of the Divide had filed claims on the headwaters of the Grand for a flow of 500 feet and 700 feet per second, and that they had gone so far as to put a ditch across a low divide in the mountains and had diverted 150 feet per second, pending their plan to drive a tunned through the range. It was also found that another big concern had prepared for even more extensive diversion.

Now, it happes that the residents of the Grand Valley have been planning to use all the water the Grand can properly supply to reclaim hundreds of thousands of acres of land that is now useless. One of the plans, in fact, is a Government affair, having been initiated under President Roosevelt and inspected and approved by Secretary Fisher on his recent visit here. The news of the building of a ditch across the divide almost caused a revolution in Grand Valley, which is ready to rise as one man against the invasion. The matter, however, has been taken to court, where the plea is made that the land naturally tributary to a river is entitled to the first consideration in the use of its water. In this case the Federal Government has intervened to protect its own project.

The plan of tunneling the Great Divide in this fashion undoubtedly arose out of the Gunnison River project, in which, through the aid of the Federal Government under Col. Roosevelt, the waters of a river flowing through a deep, precipitous cañon were turned by a great tunnel into a broad valley, where they could irrigate a great area.

GRAHAME-WHITE WINNER.

Englishman Leads in Flight to Boston Light and Back.

BOSTON, Sept. 5.—With a squally, 20-mile wind blowing Claude Grahame-White, the English airman, flew 15⅓ miles, out to Boston Light and return, at a speed of more than a mile a minute, and won the event at the Harvard-Boston Aero meet to-day. His official time in his Nieuport monoplane was 14 minutes 9 4-5 seconds. Thomas Sopwith, in a Blériot monoplane, was second in 15 minutes 10 1-5 seconds, while Earle L. Ovington, who yesterday won the 160-mile Tri-State flight, was third in his Blériot. His time was 16 minutes 15 2-5 seconds. Throughout the afternoon the wind was strong and gusty, and because of the adverse air conditions the course to the beacon in Boston Harbor was shortened from 33 to 15½ miles, one trip to the light being made instead of two, with two circles of the field.

The sun was setting when the flight to the light was called. Grahame-White, accompanied by his mechanician, Reginald Carr, was first away, followed at intervals of two minutes by Ovington and Sopwith. All the airmen went high into the air in the vain hope of finding better conditions, maintaining a height of 1,000 feet for the entire distance.

One of the most interested spectators on the field to-day was Charlie Taft, the President's son, who renewed his acquaintance with Mr. Grahame-White, whom he met last year, and was introduced to the other airmen.

The figure-eight speed contest of six laps went to Lieut. T. D. Milling, U. S. A., who won the 160-mile tri-State race for biplanes yesterday. His time was 11 minutes 55 2-5 seconds. Sopwith was second, his time being a minute slower. Sopwith took first place in the bomb-throwing event, with Lieut. Milling second. Sopwith, Lieut. Milling, and Harry N. Atwood entered the speed contest for biplanes of 4½ miles, the Englishman winning in 7 minutes 13 4-5 seconds. Quick starting was won by Sopwith in 10 seconds, with Milling and Atwood second and third respectively.

Up to to-night the bulk of the prize money had gone to Earle L. Ovington of Boston, his receipts being $11,532. The winnings of the other airmen are: Lieut. Milling, $5,452; Tom Sopwith, $4,510; Lincoln Beachey, $3,680; Claude Grahame-White, $3,060; Arthur D. Stone, $1,000; Howard Gill, $534; George W. Beatty, $472; Harry N. Atwood, $188; Eugene Ely, $150.

Falls Dying on a Ferryboat.

Capt. M. M. Brennan of 147 Passaic Avenue, one of the owners of the New York and Newark Transportation Company, died suddenly of heart disease yesterday afternoon on the New Jersey Central Railroad ferryboat Bound Brook en route to Jersey City from New York. He was sixty years old. Business letters and bank checks found in his pockets fixed his identity.

Killed by a Live Wire Shock.

Dino Pante, in the employ of City Electrician M. R. Sneden of Hackensack, was killed yesterday when a falling wire, one end of which he was rolling up, touched a live street lighting wire. As Pante fell smoke came from his hands. Charles Krause, who was in midair cutting the wire, hurried to his companion's assistance, but could do nothing but tear away the fire. Krause says that Italian boys who were trying to steal the wire were responsible for his assistant's death.

DULLER DAYS COMING, JAMES J. HILL THINKS

Expects More Men to be Out of Work Before Demand Catches Up to Manufactures.

TOO FEW TILLERS OF SOIL

And a Great Increase of Employes in Industrial Enterprises—Finds Agricultural Conditions Fairly Good.

James J. Hill, who caused some uneasiness about a year ago by predicting that this Summer would find many men out of employment, said yesterday that it was not yet time to look for an upturn in business, and that thousands more will be thrown out of work before the demand for manufactured articles overtakes the output.

"The right proportion between people who are producing and those who consume has not been maintained," said Mr. Hill. "While recent years have seen an increase of hundreds of thousands of employes engaged in industrial enterprises, there has been a decrease in the number of men tilling the soil."

The Great Northern Chairman was not disposed to lay the blame for present conditions at the door of Congress. He said that the country's consumptive power would have to catch up with its capacity for producing before business would feel an impetus. There is plenty of commercial money in the banks, he said, but no investment money.

Mr. Hill said that conditions in the agricultural sections of the country were fairly good. South Dakota had suffered losses through damage to small grains, and conditions throughout most of the Northwest were spotty, but the crops in the Great Northern's territory are better than those of last year. Mr. Hill said he looked for a heavier tonnage this year than last.

"There is no railroad building now," said Mr. Hill. "Maintenance work on the existing lines does not furnish enough business to keep the manufacturing companies going. In consequence there are many men idle. There was less than half what may be called a normal amount of construction work last year.

"There is no need for more railroad facilities, taking the country as a whole. Our lines, for instance, are capable of carrying a great deal more traffic."

Mr. Hill pointed out that, while few railroads have undertaken new construction lately, their current expenditures for improvements and betterments make up an enormous aggregate. The Great Northern alone has spent $6,400,000 on this account in the last year. At the same time the company reduced its operating expenses, as compared with those for 1910, through the large saving in maintenance expenditures. Mr. Hill says that the Great Northern has not been deprived of any money it needed, but that with the large amount of permanent improvements carried to completion the cost of keeping up the transportation plant diminishes. The company's forthcoming annual report will show about $3,000,000 earned over dividend requirements.

Some Very Unusual OVERCOATS and SUITS for Men at $11.75

Former Prices Were $18, $20, $22 and $25

Just before the arrival of the new Winter stocks comes this opportunity for economical men to select excellent clothing at a fraction of its real value. Included are:

438 Men's Light and Medium-weight Suits.
815 Men's Medium and Light-weight Overcoats, many of them Raglans.
220 Men's Raincoats.

All of these garments will give splendid service until the snow flies, and they will be useful to many men throughout the Winter. Also the men who buy them now will find them most useful next Spring and next Fall. Every garment in the collection costs more at wholesale than the price for which it can be bought today.

The Raglan Overcoats are quarter-lined with silk and hand-tailored.

The Men's Suits and Raincoats are in a very wide variety; although lots are broken, as a matter of course, there is excellent selection in sizes, from 33 to 48-inch chest measure.

These garments were previously priced at $18, $20, $22 and $25 in our own stock; today they are priced at $11.75 each.

GIMBELS

Store Closes at 6 P. M.

There Has Been a Shattering of Old Traditions Since These September Sales Were Unfolded

New Standards Have Been Set In the Selling of CHINA, GLASS And HOUSEWARES

The "Oceanic" was a marvelous boat in her day and is a fine sailor yet. The "Mauretania" was the world's wonder, until the "Olympic" came.

Commercial Progress Requires Record-breakers

The established store may rest on its laurels. To do the great thing that one has done before, is to stand still. There is always a new man to hurl the discus farther, or to sail the aeroplane higher—unless the record-holder himself continuously sets a better mark.

In planning this great Septembr movement we set our figures of accomplishment above all presentations of the past.

In CHINA we assembled wares such as had never been offered in an underprice sale. Magnificent sets and service plates from the celebrated English potteries. Sumptuous Dinner Sets of most distinguished French origin. And artistic China of most unusual character, at the very lowest prices, from Austria and America.

The offerings of CUT CRYSTAL have amazed the trade—for they have been startled to find that they are cuttings on pure lead crystal blanks.

Many stores are today selling Imitation Cut Glass, and omitting the word "imitation." It is true that "lime glass" does look much like crystal; but it is light in weight, and has no ring to it. But it deceives many people, and many good stores are selling it. We will not countenance it; although it makes a fine appearance. You can tell the pure lead crystal by its heavy weight and its true full ring. And nothing else is sold at Gimbels—yet here are some wonderfully low prices:

Housekeepers Are Delighted With These Splendid Kitchen Wares

They are so different from the kinds they are accustomed to seeing in under-price sales. People who come to Gimbels are looking for BEST THINGS, and high-class housewares have always before been the kind that dealers reserved to make their big profits on, after the catch-penny kinds brought in the crowds.

The Gimbel idea is to fill this September event with exceptional offerings of the FINEST KITCHEN WARES MADE. That is why housekeepers are so enthusiastic over this First September Housewares Sale at Gimbels. The economies are quite remarkable.

RE-ENTER THE LEGISLATURE.

Three matters of some importance will engage the attention of the Legislature which reassembles to-day—apportionment, appropriations, and the New York City Charter. Of these the last named is by far the most serious. There will no doubt be a lot of talk about "direct nominations," but it is unlikely that anything will come of it. Mr. MURPHY will see to it that there are no "teeth" in any measure that is passed. If by any chance his precautions fail, he and Mr. BARNES will proceed to adapt their methods to whatever plan may be evolved.

The real trouble in elections in New York is not in the mode of nomination, but in the fact that there is an intolerable number of officers to elect. The voters have little interest in most of them because they know and can know practically nothing about them. A short ballot would do more for good government than all the patented processes which the inventors have yet turned out.

The Charter will be introduced to-night. There have been many changes in it, some of them for the better. But after they are made the Charter will still contain evil things enough to make its enactment highly undesirable. The Legislature would be most wisely guided and would please the people best if after making necessary appropriations and passing a reapportionment bill it should adjourn without undertaking further business.

THE POWER OF REMOVAL.

The Cullen-Foley revision of the Charter strikes out the provision which gives to the Governor the power to remove the Mayor of the city. It is announced that, on the suggestion of Mayor GAYNOR, this provision is to be restored.

The present Charter, in Section 122, provides that "the Mayor may be removed from office by the Governor in the same manner as Sheriffs, except that the Governor may direct the inquiry provided by law to be conducted by the Attorney General." The authority to remove Sheriffs is conferred in Article X., Section 1, of the Constitution: "The Governor may remove any officer in this section mentioned [the officers mentioned in the section are Sheriffs, Clerks of Counties, District Attorneys, and County Registers] within the term for which he shall have been elected; giving such officer a copy of the charges against him, and an opportunity to be heard in his defense."

Mayor GAYNOR suggests that the provision of the present Charter be restored to the Cullen-Foley Charter, "with the restriction that removals should be only for some dereliction of duty." The Mayor is quoted as expressing his belief that "the growing disposition to remove because, in the opinion of the removing power, the accused official does not measure up to a standard of intelligence or of competency set up by such removing power should be checked." We had not observed any such "growing disposition." It is our recollection that removals which have been accomplished or sought have been invariably made for sufficient cause, actually for dereliction of duty. Sometimes officers elected by the people have been removed by the Governor for dishonest collusion with persons engaged in defrauding the people or getting hold of the taxpayers' money without rendering a just equivalent; sometimes because, while not actually guilty of wrongful practices themselves, they have indulgently permitted their friends or political associates to prey upon the public treasury. We recall no removal which was not justified by the character or the deeds of the incumbent of the office. It would require a good deal of hardihood on the part of the Governor to remove an elected officer for such reasons as the Mayor mentions.

But what would be the effect of inserting the words approved by the Mayor, that removals should be "only for some dereliction of duty"? At present the Governor may remove after giving the accused officer a copy of the charges against him and granting him a hearing. If the words suggested by the Mayor go into the Charter, it seems to us that the Governor's power of removal would be practically annulled. The accused officer would be able to take the matter into the courts for a judicial determination of the sufficiency of the charges and the proofs. It would be easy in that way to secure an almost indefinite delay. The incumbent of the office would, in many cases, be able to stay the Governor's hand until his term had expired. The present Charter provision in respect to the removal of the Mayor is a good one. Why not let it alone?

UNCLE JOE AS A GOLFER.

Uncle JOE in the minority, and not even the leader of that, is a pathetic figure, suggesting alike the havoc wrought by time and the storied ingratitude of republics. But Uncle JOE at the first tee, driver in hand, swinging with a good "follow through" and "swatting" the ball 150 yards the very first time, is an inspiriting object. He rises superior to circumstances. What if he did take twenty-six strokes on a hole, with a bogey of four? Many beginners of fewer years have done worse and been unashamed. What is more, Mr. CANNON counted his strokes and did not try to deceive himself, which shows the spirit of a true golfer.

One must learn to handle his mashie and his niblick, and a bunker is not to be "negotiated" on theory. Uncle JOE has done well to take to golf. He must have stored up a lot of energy by this time and be filled with unexpressed emotion. The golf field is a good place for him, and we are sure that, with careful practice, he will soon improve his game to Presidential quality.

THE REMSEN FOOD BOARD.

Dr. IRA REMSEN feels aggrieved. As the President of the eminent Board of Consulting Scientific Experts, employed by Secretary WILSON to protect the interests of food manufacturers, he complains in The Scientific American that "attempts have been made to discredit it in the eyes of the public," and that "violent attacks" have been made upon its findings. He therefore finds it necessary to say something in vindication of the character and scientific repute of its members. Incidentally, he declares that the board "has nothing whatever to do with the decisions of the Department of Agriculture, and is in no wise responsible for these decisions. The department makes use as it sees fit of the reports furnished by the board."

That disclaimer relieves the eminent gentlemen of all responsibility for the use which Secretary WILSON has seen fit to make of the answers to the specific questions which he has officially put to them. They are not responsible for his ruling that benzoate of soda may be used in unlimited quantities in the foodstuffs of the Nation. They are not to blame if the Secretary failed to ask them the questions he should have asked, upon replies to which, if favorable, he should have based his broad ruling. They never investigated the question whether this preservative was commonly used to make salable as food the offal and garbage of the fruit preservers, or whether persons in varying stages of ill-health would be likely to consume such cheap and sophisticated products, with cumulative ill-effect upon their systems. They never inquired whether every article of food which had been preserved by this method could not be kept and offered to consumers in perfect condition without the aid of any of the coal tar products. They were simply not asked to resolve these questions. Dr. REMSEN two years ago, in a speech before the experts at Denver, specifically said "that the Referee Board was to take up only such questions as were referred to it by the Secretary." Within the narrow range of the questions propounded to it, we are quite willing to believe Dr. REMSEN'S statement that there has never been any other desire among the members of the eminent board "than to learn the truth and nothing but the truth." Their reputations for honesty and for immunity to corrupting influences are, of course, unassailable.

But they have not, even within the narrow scope of their investigations, added to their reputations as chemists. Unfortunately Dr. REMSEN has not replied adequately to the charge made, not only by the "irresponsible press" but by a large body of his scientific brethren of the American Medical Association, that the directors of these important experiments upon foods failed to direct. True, Dr. HERTER, one of the board's members, suffered from poor health and died during the progress of the experiments, and Dr. REMSEN says that "another member of the board has undermined his health by too close application to the work." Dr. HERTER was incapacitated before the work began; he was not present to conduct the series of experiments upon which the benzoate decision was based, while no member of the board, as the exhaustive hearings of the Moss Committee have shown, personally engaged in the first of the Referee Board's undertakings. It has rendered a later decision, adverse to the use of saccharin in foodstuffs as a substitute for sugar, which was more carefully prepared. The member of whom Dr. REMSEN speaks as applying himself too closely to this work deserves the sympathy and praise of the public, which will be glad to learn that he is on the road to recovery.

But the subordinates, appointed to do the actual work in the first series of experiments with sodium benzoate, were not all of them able or even experienced men. Whether some of them were subject to venal influence is unknown. It is certain that many of these subordinates entered the investigation prejudiced against the previous series of experiments conducted by Chief Chemist WILEY, and anxious, if possible, to overthrow his conclusions. They selected as a chief vehicle of the small and large doses of the drug administered in the experiments, alkaline or non-acid foods which served as an antidote to its action. Yet sodium benzoate is used as a preservative, chiefly, of acidulous fruits and vegetables, which decompose its substance to free benzoic acid. This acid, as Dr. HERTER himself admitted, "is both more effective as a preservative and as an injurious agent to protoplasm than sodium benzoate."

The investigators frowned upon the experiments and suppressed the preliminary report submitted by Dr. DANIEL R. LUCAS of experiments on acidulous foods, which tended to vindicate Chief Chemist WILEY'S findings. They introduced, however, into the published report, as a "star exhibit," Dr. LUCAS'S experiments with benzoate in milk, but milk is one of the classic antidotes for acid poisons. Moreover, the official report, opposed as it was by the reports of eminent pharmacologists and physiological chemists in Europe and the United States, was based upon experiments with supplies of sodium benzoate which were not tested to determine their quality, purity, and strength. Agents of the commercial houses that purvey the chemical in large quantities to the manufacturers, and were financially interested in its vindication as a healthful preservative, also supplied the experimenting chemists. The entire report of the Remsen Board is vitiated because it failed to show by expert analysis that the drug used in the experiments was pure. Chemists who work with unstandardized substances, and obtain results astonishingly at variance with all previous reports of their effects, should not expect that their conclusions will win immediate and widespread approval.

A MILITIA MEASURE.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I will thank you to inform me whether Article II. of the amendments to the Federal Constitution, which reads:

> "A well-regulated militia being necessary to the security of a free State, the right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed."

refers to the maintaining of the militia? Or does it mean that this amendment gives every resident or citizen of the country the right to keep and bear arms? MATTHEW GOLDMAN.

New York, Sept. 3, 1911.

It confers no right. The amendment merely recognizes a pre-existing right, first formulated in the Bill of Rights, observed at common law, and later declared in the Constitutions of most of the States. The provision of the Bill of Rights reads:

> The right of every citizen to keep and bear arms in defense of his home or in aid of the civil power, when thereto legally summoned, shall not be called in question.

The second amendment to the Federal Constitution was drawn in behalf of the militia, and, in prescribing that the right to bear arms shall not be infringed, it restricts Congress only. The right may not be infringed by the States, either, but it has been judicially shown that the States may control, by an exercise of their police power, the manner in which the right may be exercised.

THE TOADSTOOL HABIT.

It is a pity that the edible mushroom of our fields, the most liked and the commonest of all fungi, should be forever under a ban because ignorant or careless people persist in cooking a few specimens of the Death Cup Amanita, the commonest of poisonous fungi, with their mess of mushrooms, and dying suddenly in consequence. The Death Cup Amanita is the only toadstool which could possibly be mistaken for the common edible mushroom of the fields, the Agaricus campestris, which is not generally known by its Latin name, and can get along very well without it. This field mushroom abounds in the pasture lots and moors. After a heavy rain it can be gathered by the basketful. It is a nutritious and palatable food, which can be cooked and served in many ways, all enticing and satisfying. In its wild state it is more delicious than any cultivated mushroom. One who becomes well acquainted with it never mistakes for it the poisonous fungi, which slightly resembles it in contour and color, but is easily recognized by one who has a fair acquaintance with the fungi of the fields.

There are, to be sure, thousands of edible fungi. Only a few varieties are poisonous. Any good household cyclopedia enumerates the best-known varieties, and has pictures of the poisonous kind. But the common field mushroom is the most popular. To know that, and know it well, is all that is required to be able to eat mushrooms without risk. Country-bred folks may not know it because of their preference for a limited diet. Many city-bred persons who spend their holidays in the country know the mushroom, however, have no difficulty in distinguishing it from the toadstool, and pick it without a sense of danger. The term toadstool, of course, does not necessarily signify poison, and it should apply as much to the edible mushroom as to the Death Cup. It is a survival of an easily comprehended rustic tradition. But in common parlance the toadstool is the poisonous fungus, the mushroom the edible one.

Good mushrooms go to waste in the fields in such seasons as this simply because so many persons are frightened by such reports as that of the Italian family poisoned on Monday by eating mushrooms. Perhaps the Italians were poisoned by something else they ate, but the simple mushroom gets the blame. Everybody who cares to may easily learn how to gather edible mushrooms. The Department of Agriculture publishes a pamphlet on the subject which is always accessible. The books of PECK, MARSHALL, MCILVAINE, and GIBSON may be consulted at the libraries. Perhaps it is as difficult for the average man to learn how to distinguish edible mushrooms from a book as it is to learn how to play bridge or golf in that way. It is obviously the wisest course, if you do not know an edible mushroom from a poisonous toadstool, to let others do the picking and cooking, and if you are not quite confident of their knowledge, to let them do the eating as well.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Suspicion Seems Baseless.

By raising from misdemeanor to felony the offense of carrying concealed weapons, prosecutions under the new Sullivan law are transferred from Special to General Sessions, and the verdict will be decided by a jury instead of a board of Judges. From these facts, and the well-known tendency of juries to deal gently with men guilty of doing a thing that is wrong only because the law prohibits it, an ingenious commentator on the much-discussed statute has deduced the theory, or rather the suspicion, that possibly it was drawn and pushed to passage with the intention of making things easier, not harder, for the weapon-carriers.

The promulgator of this suspicion is ingenious, but he is not plausible, and he is, we feel sure, unjust to Senator SULLIVAN. Good citizens have not infrequently had reasons for criticising the acts and the methods of that eminent statesman, but there seems to be none whatever for questioning the sincerity of his effort to suppress a habit the evil effects of which he has had many opportunities to observe, and as little for doubting that his law, in spite of its imperfections and the difficult problems it creates, will at least diminish the practice at which it is aimed.

The least important part of that law, as well as the hardest to enforce, is that dealing with the punishment of those violating it. The real and great advance is in the registration features and the section forbidding the sale of weapons to anybody not formally and officially licensed to possess them. This is the preventive, as distinguished from the punitive, side of the law, and it is the experience of other countries where the same system of regulation has long been in operation that the number of pistols carried can thus be considerably diminished.

Every gain in that direction is an advantage. Of course it is not to be hoped that criminals will cease to provide themselves with arms, but even they will be made more cautious about carrying them, and many a quarrel that now ends in murder will have a milder settlement when fewer people are habitually equipped with implements for prompt and easy killing. It is to be hoped that the exact meaning of the words "possess" and "possession" soon gets authoritative definition, for until that is done uncertainty in interpreting the law will remain.

Enterprising but Not Reputable.

An American college boy, when desirous of passing his vacation in Europe, is to be commended if, lacking money enough to make the trip in conventional fashion, he works his way across the ocean as the paid attendant of cattle or horses. That is good, honest work, clean in every sense except the one that counts only in terms of soap and water, and nobody need be ashamed to do it, as the doing will involve nothing of servility and the incidental hardships affect only the body. After the youth lands on the other side, he is justified, too, in making his few dollars go as far as possible by resort to any forms of economy except begging and stealing.

When it comes to getting home, however, his state must be really desperate to excuse his acceptance of a steamship job that reduces him to the status of a tip taker. A dozen or more of young fellows, undergraduates in well-known colleges, have just returned as saloon waiters, and according to report they did not hesitate any more than the striking stewards, whose places they took would have done, to accept the gratuities offered by the passengers they served. They only did, to be sure, what scores and hundreds of college boys, and almost as many college girls, can be found doing in Summer resorts all over the country.

Somehow or other these young people reconcile with their self-respect this miserable way of adding to their resources. Perhaps they quiet such sensitiveness of mind as they have by remembering always to what admirable use the money thus obtained is to be put—it is usually spent in paying college expenses—but the demoralization of the tip system is so great that he or she who is at first a blushing and reluctant tip taker sooner or later, and usually it is sooner, becomes a skilled and eager tip hunter. And that way lies, if not actual dishonor, at least an abandonment of what used to be—of what one likes to think still is—the American idea as to the proper relation between work and remuneration, between employer and employé.

The evil custom of paying for services in part or whole by tips has now penetrated even to our backwoods regions, where, to the credit of those regions and the discredit of cities, it had last toleration, but for collegians to fall under its influence is really too bad, not to say disgusting. Such a chance as these boys had to prove the elevation of their souls! And they neglected it to take some very malodorous money!

Stability Not for Aviators.

Judging from the opinions expressed by members of the British Association at their annual meeting, the scientists of that country doubt the feasibility of giving automatic stability to aeroplanes, and one of the speakers even questioned the desirability of doing it. Scores of inventors, however, are working on the difficult problem of making a machine which shall have a preference of its own for keeping right side up and more of a tendency to move in some directions than in others.

That is the only stability anybody expects or hopes the aeroplane of the future to have, but even so much would change the machine from one of three-dimensional movements to one of two-dimensional movements, as is every other means of transportation used by man. The change would enormously decrease both the difficulties and the dangers of mechanical flight. The birds, indeed, have been content with their instability, which is exactly that of the aeroplane, and none of them has developed an analogue of the fish's swimming bladder. So there may be truth in the surprising declaration that a stable aeroplane would be as inferior to an unstable one as a tricycle is to a bicycle. It is a rather significant fact, however, that the aviator propels himself, not like a bird, but as the fish does.

Perhaps there is in that circumstance an excuse for building a few more dirigibles, and certainly the builders of dirigibles are in desperate need of excuses.

THE ITALIAN NEWSPAPERS.

Testifies That Editor Pecorini's Criticisms of Them Are Just.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Mr. Pecorini's view of the Italian press I believe both true and just. I have always entertained the idea that the Italian newspapers give more space to news which tends either to obscure the mind of the newly arrived Italians, or to Italianize those already half Americanized. This you may find out for yourself by giving a glance at the news items of all the leading Italian newspapers. Their chief features are the cable dispatches, giving full accounts of all the sittings in the Chamber of Deputies and other news of Italy. Rarely have they anything to say about what's going on in the Congress at Washington or the Legislature at Albany. They never fail to solicit public subscriptions for the erection of monuments in this city to some great Italian, their conscious purpose being to show that they are superior to the "Americani."

Now, please, when discussing Italian topics and news, if you have somebody to blame, see that it concerns only the culprits. Do not blame all of them, because there are thousands of Italians who are fit to be good American citizens. A good majority read THE TIMES and find in it pleasure and education. This I have reason to say, because I have learned my English from it, and although I have not reached its standard yet, I realize THE TIMES will bring me nearer to it each day. I am not a leading authority among them, but simply

A HALF-NATURALIZED ITALIAN.

New York, Sept. 4, 1911.

DR. GLADDEN IS STILL PASTOR.

He Did Not Give Up His Pulpit to His Associate.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your yesterday's issue you printed a "special" from Columbus stating that Dr. Washington Gladden had "resigned the pastorate of the First Congregational Church because members of the congregation will not attend services," and in further emphasis of the statement your headline announces that "Dr. Gladden Quits Church." Will you permit a brief note of correction in justice to Dr. Gladden, who has no present thought of quitting either the Congregational Church or this particular Congregational church, and also in fairness to his congregation, who have no idea of permitting their pastor to leave them until the burden of his increasing years shall compel it.

The facts in brief are: About three years ago, at Dr. Gladden's desire, an associate (or junior) pastorate of the church was created in order that the heavy duties of the large parish might be in part shifted from Dr. Gladden's shoulders. Last Spring Dr. Carl S. Patton of Ann Arbor was chosen associate pastor, to assume his position Sept. 1, and last week Dr. Gladden in a letter to his parishioners (such as it has been his custom for a quarter of a century to send to us annually or oftener) stated among other things:

> The time has come when the chief responsibility of leadership should pass to other hands. Dr. Patton is ready to be leader, and I am ready to let him lead. I think that I have still some good work in me, and I mean to help most efficiently, but the initiative must be left mainly to the younger man.

All of the above was understood by his parishioners, as it was intended by Dr. Gladden, to mean simply that now that the venerable pastor has reached the age of 75 the laboring oar must be handled by the associate pastor. Dr. Gladden is and will continue to be pastor of the church and expects to do at least one-half of the preaching for the congregation which he has served and honored for nearly thirty years. G. W. KNIGHT.

Columbus, Ohio, Sept. 3, 1911.

The Geidel Verdict.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

No wonder there are so many murders in New York, and elsewhere for that matter. The gratitude and appreciation of the whole country is due you for the editorial article in Saturday's issue, "The Geidel Verdict." It is strong and wise, and has the timely severity which the case demanded.

Turning from the page which told of this lamentable miscarriage of justice, there was at least some encouragement in the editorial article that it might arouse public opinion to such an extent that something should be done now for the protection of the people. Take, for instance, the dastardly and uncalled-for and cowardly and brutal murder of that young engineer about a year ago near THE TIMES office by the murderous labor element, when the murderers went virtually unpunished. Then, too, the luring of the girl Ruth Wheeler into a room and there foully murdered when innocently seeking employment. The case of Wolter, we were told, was to have been disposed of in three weeks, and I am sure from conversation here that many have been watching the papers for the trial of that brutal young fiend. It appears to me this whole question of "trial by jury" should come up for discussion de novo, and the public should be considered instead of the murderers and their friends. The blood of the murdered cries out of the ground.

I am sure I only represent the gratitude of tens of thousands of your readers for that powerful presentment of the people's case.

R. R. PARKER.

The Cry for Butter.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

If Robert Bloomfield, whose letter appears in THE TIMES of to-day, will take the trouble to look into the causes of the uprisings that from time to time have stirred history he will find that, whatever may have been the slogan, at the basis was the old bread-and-butter question. "Butter at 30 Sous of Revolution" does not sound as inspiring as the "Liberty, Equality, Fraternity" of the Revolution of 1789, but let him not forget the "queues" that formed at the bakers' shops, and that it was the peasantry, taxed to the last point by the infamous farmers-general, which turned at last on its oppressors. Does he remember that, when Marie Antoinette was told that it was bread they were clamoring for, the distraught Queen demanded why, if there was no bread, they should not be satisfied with cake. And now, a century or so after, these insatiable creatures not only want bread but expect butter also. One may well in desperation ask, "What next"? THEROIGNE.

Signs for Refuse.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Why not have peddlers of eatables display a sign reminding the buyer that it is against the law to throw refuse on the street and asking him either to turn it over to the peddler, who, I am sure, will take care of it, or throw it in a near-by refuse tub.

In this way the careless will be constantly reminded of the wrong they inflict on their fellow-citizens. ARTHUR P.

REMOVAL POWER LIMITED.

Proposed Charter Would Let Courts Review the Governor's Edict.

No provision was made in the last Cullen-Foley draft of the Charter for the removal of the Mayor or the Borough President, which, under the present Charter, is a function of the Governor. The form of removal, as it now exists, is the same as is prescribed in Section 1 of Article X. of the State Constitution as to Sheriffs, County Clerks, and District Attorneys, which is as follows:

> The Governor may remove any officer in this section mentioned within the term for which he shall have been elected, giving to such officer a copy of the charges against him and an opportunity of being heard in his defense.

It was under these conditions that Gov. Hughes removed Borough Presidents Ahearn and Haffen, and Gov. Roosevelt removed District Attorney Asa Bird Gardiner and appointed Eugene A. Philbin in his place.

It is proposed to restore to the Charter this power of removal of the Mayor and Borough President in the Governor's hands, but subject to a new limitation "for dereliction of duty," and the purpose of that provision is to make the Governor's act subject to review by court, which it is not at the present time, his power being summary.

In the municipal election of 1901 C. A. Guden was the Fusion and H. Hesterberg was the Democratic candidate for Sheriff in Kings County. Guden was elected, but some time after he had taken office charges were made of a corrupt bargain, whereby he had pledged certain appointments for support. As a result of this charges of malfeasance were filed with Gov. Odell, and he had a hearing of these charges on Feb. 5, 1902. On March 7, under the power given by the Constitution, Guden was removed, and Norman S. Dike, now County Judge in Kings, was appointed by the Governor. The friends of Guden, alleging that the Governor had exceeded his authority, (as the friends of Col. Gardiner had alleged that Gov. Roosevelt had exceeded his authority,) advised Guden to refuse to surrender the office, and Dike, the Governor's appointee, was only able to get possession of Raymond Street Jail, which he held barricaded. On March 14 Dike ejected his predecessor from the Sheriff's office, and on March 22, the dispute having been brought by Guden into the Supreme Court, it was heard by Justice Gaynor, who ruled that Guden's removal was unconstitutional.

Previously all such removals were acquiesced in by the courts as summary on the Governor's part, and Mr. Dike appealed from Justice Gaynor's decision to the Appellate Division, which unanimously reversed Gaynor's opinion on April 17, 1902. Later, an appeal was taken to the Court of Appeals, which affirmed the ruling of the Appellate Division, and established as the law of the State that the power of removal vested in the Governor over Sheriffs, County Clerks, District Attorneys, and Registers is not subject to any review by the courts.

Should the Charter be so amended as to provide only for the removal of a Mayor and Borough President for dereliction of duty, the Governor's action will be subject to appeal to court, and the final determination of the tenure of these officials will not be in the hands of the State Executive, but of the courts. Did such a provision exist in the present Charter, Ahearn, Haffen, and Gardiner could have taken the matter of their removals to court, with the assurance of restoration to office if the Governor's conclusion as to "dereliction of duty" was not sustained.

UNDER THE NEW GUN LAW.

Showing How the Burglar Has the Advantage, at Last.

The nefarious burglar had entered a Harlem home at midnight with evil intent. Needless to say how he got in except that it was without knocking. He had already accumulated various articles of value, and was in the act of opening a bureau drawer where the family jewels were kept when he heard an ominous sound behind him, and, turning, he confronted a large and fierce Harlem man, fully prepared for such an occasion. Not a whit dismayed, the burglar faced the householder.

"What's that you've got in your hand?" he inquired, sternly.

"That's a revolver," replied the Harlem man, "and I guess you might as well throw up your hands."

"Come off," laughed the burglar, with confidence. "Have you got a permit to have that weapon in your possession?"

"Have I what?" exclaimed the amazed householder.

"I said," responded the burglar, slowly, "have you got a permit to have that weapon in your possession?"

The householder hesitated and wavered.

"Well, no, I can't say that I have," he admitted, as a law-abiding citizen ought to do.

"Very good, Sir," said the burglar, kindly; "you've got one on me and I've got one on you. I'm used to it and you are not. You let me get out of this and I won't say anything about your having the gun. But if you do not, then—"

"For heaven's sake, go!" cried the householder, dropping his threatening arm, "and go quick. I don't want to serve time for—"

And before he could finish his remarks the burglar had vanished.

The Billionth of a Meter.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Mr. H. Bayer in your issue of Sept. 5 seems to concede that the micron is never, or hardly ever, used in shop operations, while the ten-thousandth of an inch is so used. When Mr. Bayer told me that there is such a thing as a micron he did not tell me, and I have had to learn from other sources, that the metric system sports another unit, which is only a thousandth of a micron, a millionth of a centimeter, or a billionth of a meter. This attenuated unit might be used to measure the truth in the following quotation in Mr. Bayer's previous letter: "The ten-thousandths of an inch, said by Mr. Richards to be now the smallest unit in use in American shops." My note did not say or hint or imply any such thing.

THE MAID OF AUTUMN.

A maiden walks the hills to-day
In garb of pearl and silver gray;
She wears a veil of jeweled mist
That can the keenest sight resist;
Her feet are bright in shiny shoon,
She moves as to a wedding tune.
And everywhere she gently goes
Fades every leaf, dies every rose;
The grasses change their Summer hue,
The sky puts on a deeper blue;
The brook no more sings cheerily,
Its song grows dark with mystery.
When hills are gray with slant of rain
Some human hearts seek joy in vain;
The falling leaf, the fading rose
Each on their life a shadow throws.
They know of death, the long, deep sleep,
That partings come and hearts must weep.
But Autumn has no grief for me,
For I have solved the mystery:
The maid who walks the quiet hills
And charms the happy singing rills
She is—her secret I'll confess—
The Spring in just another dress!

THIRTEEN GOVERNORS AT TAX CONFERENCE

Address by Gov. Dix Against Discriminatory State Laws Read at Richmond Meeting.

BURDEN BUSINESS, HE SAYS

Harmon of Ohio and Bass of New Hampshire Among State Executives Assembled at Virginia Capital.

RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 5.—With forty States represented, thirteen of them by their Chief Executives, others by their Tax Commissioners or similar officials, the International Tax Conference opened here this afternoon. The Governors who attended were: A. W. Gilchrist of Florida, James H. Hawley of Idaho, A. L. Crothers of Maryland, E. F. Noel of Mississippi, Chester H. Aldrich of Nebraska, Tasker L. Oddie of Nevada, R. P. Bass of New Hampshire, Judson Harmon of Ohio, Lee Cruce of Oklahoma, J. K. Tener of Pennsylvania, Cole L. Blease of South Carolina, W. E. Glasscock of West Virginia, and William H. Mann of Virginia.

Gov. John A. Dix of New York, who was to have been one of the principal speakers, was prevented from attending by the assembling of the New York Legislature. His address was read by Lawson Purdy, President of the New York Tax Department.

Interesting exhibits from thirty-eight States and several Canadian provinces were on display, showing tables and diagrams illustrating the tax rolls of the different States and the kind of reports required by them from corporations and individuals.

Gov. Dix's address, as read by Mr. Purdy, began by saying:

"Sixty years ago if an inhabitant of this counutry had been asked as to his citizenship he would have replied: 'I am a Virginian, or a New Yorker, a citizen of Missouri or Massachusetts,' as the case might be. To-day his response would be, 'I am an American; I live in Virginia, or New York, or Missouri, or Massachusetts,' according to the fact. We are not the less Virginians or New Yorkers to-day, but we have a broader conception of the common tie between us as citizens of the whole country.

"I do not mean by this to intimate that our loyalty to our respective States has weakened. I do not believe it has. All I mean to intimate is that we are much more conscious of the existence, the power and the authority of our sister States than were our fathers and grandfathers sixty years ago, and that this recognition tends to emphasize the common bond of Federal citizenship. Then the clash of authority, when it arose, was usually between the State and the Nation. Now it is quite as likely to be between sister States.

"Modern industrial conditions tend to break down State lines. To have a map of our State is no longer sufficient. The map, to be useful, must take in the whole Nation. We may take a train and in a day or a night traverse several States. Business men have been quick to adapt these conditions and are no longer content with local trade.

"Taxes are an artificial hindrance to business, and the imposition of taxes is therefore to be scrutinized with the utmost care by the State levying the tax. Government must be supported and taxes must be paid.

"I have no sympathy with the theory of taxation which finds expression in retaliatory legislation. Because some sister State imposes unjust taxes upon our citizens doing business there is no reason, to my mind, why New York should impose unjust taxes on the citizens of that State doing business in New York. Taxation is an element in business cost. If taxes are increased unduly, unjustly, and unequally anywhere, all business, not only the business most intimately connected with the thing taxed, but all business, will be affected to some degree.

"Real estate, in the nature of things, must bear the chief burden of local government. But real estate does not bear all the taxes, either State or local. In addition to real estate taxes there are two great groups of taxes; that is, taxes on business and taxes on investments. Real estate cannot move. Land and buildings are fixed and their owners must face prosperity or misfortune as it comes to their locality, without the chance to move away and escape it. Business can move, and business is always watching for a chance to improve conditions and reduce cost. There are few establishments, the proprietors of which are not ready at any time to consider a change of location if it means an increased dividend.

"Natural advantages we cannot alter, and natural advantages will always attract business. But taxation, unless it be even, just, and equal, is an artificial hindrance to business, and business will do its best to escape. And since business no longer confines itself to one locality, but extends over many States, there surely is a call for State comity in taxation. The call for Federal interference in business is really a cry for relief from clashing State attempts at unfair and unjust taxation of business. That is why the effect of each tax measure outside of the State should be as carefully considered as its effect within the State.

"What has just been said concerning taxation of business applies with even greater force to taxation of invested capital. A slight increase of taxation on investments will stop further investment and frequently drive out investments already made. The States must come together on this subject and the line of common action must be the cessation of attempts to tax outside capital more heavily than home capital. To attempt to levy discriminatory taxes is unfair and unjust. It amounts to saying that we want our own State market for our own citizens, excluding the citizens of our sister States, and at the same time that we want the market of the other States for our citizens. When forty-six States attempt to enact tax legislation on these lines the burden on legitimate business becomes very great.

"New York has taken some important steps this year in the matter of State comity in taxation. In the report of your Committee on Inheritance Taxes last year New York was referred to as a conspicuous offender in the matter of double taxation. That happily is no longer true. We have made a radical change in our inheritance tax law, and will no longer tax the intangible property of residents of other States which may happen to be within our borders, or over which we may have technical jurisdiction.

"Another phase of State comity is involved, I believe, in the ratification by our Legislature of the income tax amendment to the Federal Constitution. One of the chief arguments advanced against such ratification in our State was that New York, having a large proportion of the wealth of the country, would pay a large share of any Federal income tax that might be levied. That argument is essentially selfish, and I am glad that it did not prevail. If our State has the wealth and the ability to pay, surely it should pay its proper share of a tax which is intended to fall on wealth and ability."

SCHOOL CHIEF RESIGNS.

District Supt. Chickering to Move to Boston.

Announcement was made yesterday of the resignation of John Jameson Chickering, District Superintendent in charge of the public schools of the Fourth and Fifth Districts of Manhattan, the lower east side. Mr. Chickering, for both family and business reasons, will reside in Boston, Mass.

Mr. Chickering was graduated at Amherst College in 1879 and afterward taught in Gallaudet College, Washington, D. C., where his father was for many years a member of the Faculty. He studied law at Washington University and received a degree of master. He taught in the preparatory department of Columbia University, and became Superintendent of Schools at Flushing. He was transferred to Manhattan in July, 1910.

THY NEIGHBOR'S WIFE IS LONG DRAWN OUT

With Constant Repetitions That Bring Reminder of the Famous Locust Story.

ACTING IS VERY CLEVER

Arthur Byron, Pamela Gaythorne, Frederick Tiden, Alice Johns Do All They Can in Parts That Reiterate.

THY NEIGHBOR'S WIFE, a comedietta in three acts, by Elmer Harris. Lyceum Theatre.

John Robbins	Arthur Byron
Gerty Robbins	Pamela Gaythorne
Harry Miller	Frederick Tiden
Alice Miller	Alice Johns

At first sight the cast of a play containing only four people may seem rather short. At the first hearing, however, such a play may seem much like the familiar story of the locusts—" and then another locust went in and brought out another grain of corn"—horribly long drawn out.

Such, indeed, is the case with "Thy Neighbor's Wife," a comedietta by Elmer Harris, which served for the opening of the Lyceum Theatre last evening.

The play tells the story of two young couples, who have been dissatisfied with each other's ways, and who, eventually, enter into a compact to try an exchange of partners, the experimental arrangement to last one week. One act is given over to an exposition of the causes for dissatisfaction, another to the making of the plan of exchange, and a third to the means by which disillusionment comes on the one hand and renewed affection on the other. For the wives persist in believing that deep down in their hearts their husbands really love them.

There is a little humor in the idea, in the situations, and in the lines. But on the whole "Thy Neighbor's Wife" is composed of an elaborate collection of familiar jokes on marriage and home-cooking revived in endless conversations.

The worst of it is that the author is not satisfied with doing what he has to do—and being done with it. He repeats ad infinitum. Anything that is said and done by the one husband must be repeated by the other; anything that is said and done by the one wife must be again rehearsed by the other.

It is iteration and reiteration from start to finish. And the general effect of tediousness is not much diminished by the fact that the principal figures themselves are supposedly differentiated characters. One wife is the careful housekeeper who neglects her looks and clothes in order to do good cooking and keep the place scrupulously neat; the other wife forgets her household duties and lets her husband starve while she is trimming hats and making herself look pretty. To balance these we have one husband who talks of "Home, Sweet Home" and mows the lawn, while the other husband "is a good mixer" and stops downtown as long as possible.

By the time these facts are before you it would seem that the paralellisms have been firmly enough established. You long for some real contrasts. But no. One husband finds the other husband making love to his, the first husband's wife. Then the other husband finds the first husband making love to his, the other husband's, wife. Then, they mutually agree that each one's wife is better suited to the other. The wives momentarily are of much the same opinion. But when the husbands come to them with a plan for exchange they take counsel, decide to teach their husbands a lesson, and agree to the proposition. Now the tidy wife becomes a sloven, and the slovenly wife becomes a fashion plate. The first wife has the other husband make love to her; then the other wife has the first husband make love to her. But, happily, all things must end. And eventually a cure is effected.

Incidentally, it may be mentioned that delicate points in the arrangement are entirely overlooked in this polite comedietta. Indeed, for the most part the play is of the sort one might expect to see at private theatricals, for which it is eminently suited. On Broadway there may be those who will try to see things in it which, fortunately, the author has not expressed. Such interest as it may arouse at the Lyceum will be entirely due to the excellence of the acting, which could hardly be bettered.

As far as actors could do it the characters are contrasted with Miss Alice Johns a most delightful little home body, softly sentimental where her husband is concerned, though disposed to find fault as wives will do at his inability to take her point of view. As different as possible from her is Pamela Gaythorne, who makes the other wife a natural type of care-free woman, thinking mostly of a good time and appearances to be kept up in public, while letting things drift at home. There is rich humor in Arthur Byron's performance of the house-keeping husband, and clean-cut fun in Frederick Tiden's opposing type. So if the net result is tiresome the players are certainly not to blame.

The moral is not quite clear. Obviously every one concerned is partly in the wrong. But the author apparently sides with the women. Or is it possible that he is merely thinking of the matinées?

A. J. TRUSSELL WEDS ACTRESS

Gould Railroad Secretary Married to Elaine Davis After Romance.

Special to The New York Times.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 5.—When the friends of Miss Elaine Davis to-day received the announcement from her mother, Mrs. John Bell Davis, of her marriage in this city recently to Arthur Jewett Trussell, they learned first of the romance which had led the California girl to the altar.

Mr. Trussell is Secretary of the Gould railroad system, Director of three banks, and Director in two railroads besides the Gould lines.

Six years ago, when Miss Davis was in her eighteenth year, she made a trip East, and there she met Mr. Trussell. Miss Davis returned to the West to prepare herself for the stage. She became the leading woman of a San Francisco stock company, and a year ago she came to Los Angeles to take up work with a motion-picture company. It was while engaged in this work that she again met Mr. Trussell. The railroad man found that he must visit the West on business, and decided to come by Los Angeles to seek the Western girl he had met six years before. He found her the first day he arrived at Los Angeles. He gave the heroine of the moving-picture scenarios three days in which to get ready to marry him and go East.

They were married immediately, and are still on their honeymoon, but will be at home after Nov. 15 at 1 Graham Court, 116th Street and Seventh Avenue, New York City.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

The Shuberts have accepted for production early this season Lucille LaVerne's dramatization of Will N. Harben's novel, "Ann Boyd."

Daniel Frohman has purchased from George Horace Lorimer the dramatic rights to his novel "Jack Spurlock, Collegian," which will be produced next Spring.

Mlle. Emma Trentini will sail to-day from Genoa, Italy, on the Hamburg, to arrive in America to begin her tour in "Naughty Marietta" in Brooklyn, on Oct. 2.

Claribel Campbell, who played Mytyl in The New Theatre production of "The Blue Bird," has been engaged by Liebler & Co. for the same role. John Sutherland will play Bread, Gwendolyn Valentine will again have the role of Water, and Alice Butler has been engaged for the part of Fairy Berylune.

J. A. E. Malone, manager of the Adelphi Theatre, London, who is here to stage "The Quaker Girl," has made an offer to Charles Frohman on behalf of George Edwardes to take Donald Brian and the entire company in "The Siren," as it is now being played at the Knickerbocker Theatre, to the Adelphi, London, to open on Easter Monday.

Guy Bates Post, last season star in "The Nigger," has been engaged by A. H. Woods to star in a new American drama called "The Great Desire," by Edward Childs Carpenter. The first performance will be given in Detroit on Oct. 30.

"The Outsiders" is the title given by Charles Klein to his new play that is to be produced by the Authors' Producing Company in November.

SOCIAL NOTES.

Mrs. John H. Coster is at Paul Smith's in the Adirondacks after a long motor trip through the White Mountains.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan Marquand and the Misses Marquand of Princeton arrived on the Adriatic and are at the Gotham for a few days.

Lord Camoys arrived yesterday on the Olympic and went on to Newport to visit Mr. and Mrs. W. Watts Sherman and his fiancée, Miss Sherman.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Scott Gerrish, who were abroad all Summer, also returned on the Olympic.

Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Ducat (Miss Louise Chalmers) are sailing from Cherbourg on Sept. 15 for this port. They went to England in June, immediately after their marriage, and spent two months there and in Scotland. They were in London for the coronation. Mr. Ducat took his M. A. degree from Cambridge, and they have been spending the last five weeks in France.

Among the motor parties coming into town the last day or so are those of Mrs. Stanley McCormick from Boston and Hugh Chisholm, the latter motoring in from the Berkshires to the Plaza.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley W. Dexter arrived yesterday on the Lusitania.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Hoyt and Miss Isabel Hoyt came in on the Kaiser Wilhelm yesterday.

Mrs. James H. Benedict and Mrs. Elijah W. Bliss, who are at the Profile House in the White Mountains, will return to town the end of this month.

The marriage of Miss Hester Ridion of Chicago and John L. Hempstead of Brooklyn will take place at the Newport home of the bride to-day.

Dr. Paoli De Vecchi and Mrs. De Vecchi and their two sons and daughter of San Francisco, who spent the Summer in travel abroad and at their villa in Asti, Italy, are at the Wolcott for a few days before going to San Francisco.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Jason Waters of Philadelphia will introduce their two daughters, the Misses Ruth and Dorothy Waters, at a large tea to be given early in November at their home, 1,823 Walnut Street, and soon after Christmas a ball will be given for them.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Watts Sherman will open their house in Fifth Avenue the end of September.

Mrs. Seth Barton French has left Newport for Manchester-by-the-Sea, Mass.

Lawrence Townsend and Miss Yvonne Townsend, who spent the Summer at Murray Bay, Canada, have returned to Washington, where Mrs. Townsend, who spent the Summer abroad, will soon join them.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Seligman, who sailed seven weeks ago for Europe, will not return to New York until November.

WEDDED IN LONDON.

George W. Seligman Married to Mrs. R. C. W. Wadsworth—Both New Yorkers.

LONDON, Sept. 5.—George W. Seligman, son of the late Joseph Seligman of New York, and Alice, widow of R. C. W. Wadsworth and daughter of James Benedict of New York, were married to-day at St. Mary Abbot's Church, at Kensington.

Mr. Seligman is a cousin of Henry Seligman and Prof. Edward Seligman of this city.

Mrs. Wadsworth is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Benedict (Miss Sarah Babcock) of Irving Place, and a sister of Clyde G. and Eliot G. Benedict. She married the late Mr. Wadsworth in 1904, and he died in 1906. She has a country place, Willowbrook, at Irvington. Her New York home is 27 East Seventy-second Street.

MISS LOOMIS'S ATTENDANTS.

Her Marriage to Landon K. Thorne to Take Place in Tuxedo on Sept. 16.

The plans for the wedding of Mis Julia A. Loomis and Landon Ketchum Thorne, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin K. Thorne, have been completed.

The ceremony will take place at 12:30 on Saturday, Sept. 16, in St. Marys Church at Tuxedo, and the bride's uncle, the Rev. Dr. Henry A. Stimson, and the Rev. Mr. Watson Fitz-Simon, rector of St. Mary's, will officiate.

The reception and breakfast will be at Wyndham, the Tuxedo villa of the bride's mother, Mrs. Henry P. Loomis, and a special train, leaving Jersey City at 11:30 A. M., and leaving Tuxedo on its return trip at 3 P. M., will convey the guests to and from the wedding.

Miss Loomis will have Mrs. John Hone Auerbach, who was Miss Toler, as her matron of honor, and the bridesmaids are to be the Misses Carol Harriman, Rosamund Burr, Rosina Otis, Anzonella Kane, Mary Sturgis, and Ellen Farnsworth of Boston. The little sister of the bridegroom, Miss Anna Augusta Thorne, is to be the flower girl.

Mr. Thorne, who was graduated from Yale more than a year ago, is a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Thorne. He will have his brother, Francis B. Thorne, as his best man, and the ushers are to be Frederic Fearing, Bayard Sturgis, Carl Shurmann of St. Paul, George Montgomery, Harry Van Sinderen, Howard Bonbright, and Harold Wright.

Miss Loomis is a granddaughter of Dr. Alfred L. Loomis and a cousin of Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of War.

Col. Astor and Party Return.

The Noma, Col. Astor's yacht, arrived late last evening from Rhinebeck and anchored off West Seventy-ninth Street. Col. Astor went to his town house and Mr. and Mrs. Force and the Misses Force to their Thirty-seventh Street home.

Miss Kellogg to Wed J. S. Hedges.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Kellogg of 329 West Seventy-fifth Street and Allenhurst, N. J., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Helen M. Kellogg, to James S. Hedges of New York.

Denies Divorce Because of Collusion.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 5.—Vice-Chancellor Walker set aside to-day recommendations made by the special Master in the case and denied a divorce to Lee R. Johns, proprietor of the Oxford Bowling Academy of Newark, because of collusion. It appeared that there had been some correspondence with a Kansas lawyer representing Mrs. Johns.

THE NARADA WINS RACE TO NEWPORT

Henry Walters's Steam Yacht Defeats Ogden Mills's Surf in Contest from New York.

PRAISE MINISTERS' COURSE

Many Summer Residents Indorse Circular Letter Denouncing Sunday Social Activities—Colony Events.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 5.—Henry Walters, owner of the steam yacht Narada, possesses a silver loving cup presented by Ogden Mills Monday, as the result of the Narada winning a race from New York to Newport, which began Friday evening last off the New York Yacht Club station in the East River, and ended in Newport Harbor Saturday morning. When the Narada and the Surf were leaving New York for Newport Mr. Mills challenged Mr. Walters for a race to Newport. Mr. Walters, whose Narada is one of the best-known yachts of the New York Yacht Club, accepted with pleasure.

On the Mills yacht besides others were F. W. Livermore and James H. Barney. Mr. Walters had on the Narada Mr. and Mrs. Pembroke Jones and Miss Sadie Jones. Just what happened as the two yachts proceeded along the Long Island Sound to Newport is a secret. The Narada dropped anchor fifteen minutes ahead of the Surf in Newport Harbor Saturday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Ogden Mills and Mrs. Maturin Livingston said good-bye to their friends in the Summer colony to-day as they are taking their leave of Newport to-morrow on board the steam yacht Surf for New York, sailing Saturday next for England and thence to France for the wedding of Ogden L. Mills and Miss Margaret Rutherfurd at Normandy on Sept. 20. Mrs. Livingston will stop with Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Phipps in Long Island until Mr. and Mrs. Mills return from Europe.

Episcopal clergymen of Newport and Middletown who asked their parishioners last Sunday to refrain from entertaining on the Sabbath Day have received many letters of approbation as a result of the ministerial circular indorsed by the Right Rev. Bishop Perry of Rhode Island.

Many of the Summer residents state it is not right to place all the blame upon Mr. and Mrs. Leonard M. Thomas, who gave the ball at the Newport Golf Club on a Saturday night recently, and which ran into Sunday morning, ending with a parade on the golf links Sunday morning, with the Fort Adams band leading and some of the guests playing drums. The presence of the band was a surprise to the guests. In this Mr. and Mrs. Thomas had no part, nor in the Sunday morning serenades by some of the male guests.

A. E. Thomas, Playwright, Ill.

Word was received at the Astor Theatre yesterday that A. E. Thomas, the playwright and author, is ill at Charlestown, R. I., where he has been spending the Summer. Mr. Thomas was in New York last week, attending rehearsals of his play, "What the Doctor Ordered," and returned to Charlestown on Saturday. He was taken ill on the train, and when he arrived home the doctors discovered that he was suffering from ptomaine poisoning. Wagenhals & Kemper, managers of his play, said last night that Mr. Thomas would be able to return to New York within a week.

Mrs. Leslie Carter Convalescent.

Mrs. Leslie Carter, who underwent an operation last Sunday afternoon at her home in New Rochelle, was reported as recovering yesterday. At first it was thought that she would be obliged to postpone her tour in "Two Women" for several months, but she rallied so rapidly from the operation that, according to her managers, the beginning of her season will be delayed only two weeks. She was to have begun rehearsals yesterday, and was to have opened in Asbury Park on Sept. 23. The exact nature of Mrs. Carter's illness could not be learned.

"The Pink Lady" for European Cities.

Klaw & Erlanger have entered into a contract with Felix Bloch Ebin of Berlin for the production of McLellan and Caryll's "The Pink Lady" in all of Europe outside of Great Britain. Shortly after Klaw & Erlanger's own production at the Globe Theatre, London, in January, the piece will be seen in Berlin, Paris, Vienna, and Budapest. The production in Paris will be at the Apollo Theatre, and in Berlin at the Theatre des Westens. Contracts have also been arranged with J. C. Williamson for "The Pink Lady's" appearance in Australia.

Gaby Deslys to Write for Paper.

Gaby Deslys, the French music hall performer, who is to be the feature of the next new entertainment at the Winter Garden, will sail for America on La Lorraine on Sept. 9. During her stay in America she will devote part of her time in writing brief articles about this country for publication in La Chio Parisienne, a Parisian weekly paper.

CONTEMPT CHARGE STANDS.

Judge Holt Denies Plea of Walter Newman, Who Disobeyed Subpoena.

Judge Holt in the United States District Court yesterday denied a motion to relieve Walter Newman of the consequences of his failure to appear as a witness in the bankruptcy proceedings begun some time ago before Commissioner Alexander against the brokerage firm of Sig. H. Rosenblatt & Co. Just before the bankruptcy petition was filed the firm had entered an action against Newman and James Phillips, Jr., for a large amount of money, alleging damages by fraud. Phillips appeared as a witness, but Newman went to Virginia, fearing that his testimony might be used in the civil suit.

In asking to be relieved of the consequences of his act, he alleged that he had not intended any contempt as he had not comprehended the meaning of the subpoena, and that he had suffered a paralytic stroke just before leaving the city.

The court, however, held that there was no reason alleged why the motion should be granted.

REJECTS GROUT'S OFFER.

District Attorney Clarke Still Favors Public Hearing in Bank Case.

District Attorney Clarke of Brooklyn will let the September Grand Jury decide whether Edward M. Grout shall appear before that body and testify on the Union Bank affairs. Mr. Clarke gave out a statement to that effect yesterday in reply to the former Controller's letter demanding a Grand Jury investigation and offering to go before the jury and tell all he knew of the administration of the institution while he was its President.

Mr. Clarke prefaced his statement with a copy of the letter he sent to Gov. Dix on June 23 last, in which he urged prompt action in the matter of investigating the bank, and favored a public hearing of its affairs before the Grand Jury started to probe the situation.

Elmer Booth Injured in Stage Fight.

Elmer Booth was the victim of a too-realistic fight in the first act of "A Gentleman of Leisure" at The Playhouse last night. In the first act of the comedy he and Douglas Fairbanks, the star of the play, have a disagreement, which concludes with a fight. Last night in the stage squabble Mr. Booth was cut, probably by a piece of the glass broken to make the scene seem real, and almost collapsed at the finish of the scene. A doctor was called, who bound up his injury and gave him a stimulant, so that he was able to continue in his part for the rest of the performance.

Frank de Rialp.

Frank de Rialp, for many years one of the best-known singing teachers in New York and once husband of Mathilde Bauermeister, who was for many years a singer of the Metropolitan Opera House, is dead at his home in Milford, Penn., where he retired from work to his farm several years ago. He was born in Barcelona, Spain, in 1840, and studied music with Berlioz. He was with the Spanish Army in the wars against Morocco, and was called to the attention of Col. James Henry Mapleson by the singer Tietjens, whose accompanist he had been. He filled various posts at the opera house in London, and later came to New York when this impresario was at the Academy of Music. Mr. de Rialp published a book on the teaching of music, and did much to restore Campanini's voice. He leaves a widow.

Leopold Flameng Dead.

PARIS, Sept. 5.—Leopold Flameng, a noted French engraver, died to-day.

M. Flameng was born in Brussels of French parents on Nov. 22, 1831, and went to Paris in 1853, where he worked at first in water colors. Later he became a pupil of the noted engraver, Calamatti, and soon attracted attention, especially by his refined rendering of Ingres's well-known painting "La Source." His works have been exhibited at the Paris Salon since 1859, and he received a gold medal at Brussels in 1869 and the medal of honor in 1866. He was also an officer of the Legion of Honor.

CAPT. JOHN N. MUNSON DEAD.

Veteran Yacht Skipper and Chowder Cook Won Many Trophies.

Capt. John Noble Munson, who was a well-known skipper of racing yachts in the seventies, died on Sunday morning at his home, 593 East 135th Street, the Bronx. Capt. Munson was 78 years old, and celebrated his golden wedding anniversary six years ago. He was one of the pioneers of the Oak Point development in the Bronx, and was known as the champion chowder cook of the Bronx. For many years he ran the Old Reliable Restaurant, 8 Ann Street, next door to Barnum's Museum.

Capt. Munson had a large collection of medals and trophies won by his yachting victories and several heroic exploits. He deeply prized a medal and certificate of appointment as keeper of the old wooden bridge over the Harlem River, presented to him in 1864 by Mayor Godfrey C. Gunther of New York. Mayor Gunther also gave him $1,000 in cash for rescuing his daughter Amelia from drowning in Long Island Sound when she had been knocked overboard by the boom of a pleasure yacht.

Twenty years of Capt. Munson's life was spent in the service of the New York Central Railroad, which pensioned him a few years ago. He was last in charge of the electrical station at Grand Central Station. The news of his death was kept from his wife, who was Cornelia J. Reynolds of Greenwich, Conn. Mrs. Munson is in a critical condition at St. Luke's Hospital. Capt. Munson was the son of Capt. Harry Munson, the well-known oysterman. He is survived by one son, David Munson; four brothers, Alexander, Samuel P., Harry, and William Munson, and one sister, Mrs. Josephine Williams.

Marriage and death notices intended for insertion in The New York Times may be telephoned to 1000 Bryant.

DIXIE IV. DEFENDS MOTOR BOAT TROPHY

America's Speediest Craft Wins Second Race for International Prize.

BRITISH BOAT BREAKS DOWN

Pioneer Develops Engine Trouble and is Unable to Finish Race in Huntington Bay Series.

Dixie IV., America's speediest motor boat, and by virtue of yesterday's victory over the best boat that England could produce in that line, the best in the world, clinched Uncle Sam's right to hold for another year at least the British international trophy, the Harmsworth Prize, in the final race of the series, held over a thirty-mile triangular course on Huntington Bay.

As if to make the downfall of the challengers more conclusive, still another Yankee craft defeated the Pioneer, the only challenger eligible after the first day's event. Viva was the sturdy little boat which kept up to her work and placed second honors to the credit of the defending contingent.

The mishap which followed in the wake of the Pioneer were in line with those encountered by her team mates on the opening day of the series, when they utterly failed to fill the bill in regard to continuity of action and many other phases akin to hydroplane racing.

America was not without her share of misfortune, as the Disturber II., the third of the defenders, ran afoul of probably the only piece of wreckage afloat in the harbor, which, coming in contact with her frail sides, tore such a gash in the boat that her owner, James A. Pugh, was compelled to beach her on the shore at Lloyd's Neck.

Pioneer Breaks Down.

The Pioneer was particularly unfortunate, as she was apparently going along in fine fashion just before being put out of commission through her engines becoming stalled at about the ten-mile mark, when about fifty yards behind the gallant Dixie.

After an almost interminable let-up, during which she drifted helplessly, Noel Robbins, her helmsman, managed to get up a spark, and she went off in the style expected of her. The "jinx" proved to be working, however, as after working her way into second place, she again broke down when half a mile from the goal, from which condition she never recovered, it being necessary to tow her off the course, which was done at almost the same moment that the Viva was placing second honors to the credit of the Yankee fleet.

The Dixe's time for the course was 53:47. In nautical miles her speed averaged 33:40, and in statute miles 38:47. The Viva's showing was 23:06 nautical miles or 27.5 statute miles.

This speed showing by the winner in no way gives an idea of the possible pace of the wonderful little machine, as, in her last mile, when she was really opened up for the final dash to the finish, in order to give the spectators a run for their money, as it were, she covered that distance faster than any boat has ever been timed under similar conditions.

Unless it was at the end of the initial heat, never was a speed boat and her crew more joyously greeted than was their portion at the finish of yesterday's event. All the way up the victorious home stretch Frederick K. Burnham, who guided Dixie, was compelled to acknowledge the salutes of the hundreds of craft of all sorts and conditions, whose commanders were glad to do him honor, with the result that he was salaaming like a prima donna, despite the terrific speed with which he drove his boat during the dash home.

Demonstration for the Boats.

When Dixie and Pioneer came by the anchored fleet of spectators at the end of the first lap both were accorded their full measure of plaudits and accompanying bedlam in the shape of steam whistles which almost drowned the explosions of the racing craft. That there was no disposition to deprive the English boat all of the favorable expressions possible were shown when she came by after her first mishap.

None of the boats was favored by the conditions. There was no sea to speak of, unless it was a bit rough on the Sound leg, and the wind proved an unimportant factor. Each of the quartet of contenders was, apparently, eager to be up and doing, with the result that when the warning gun was fired at 1:45 all were in readiness.

Just before the preliminary gun five minutes before the start, the crews of Dixie and Pioneer were fraternizing under the shadow of the committee boat Dalzolline. Burnham was nonchalant as ever, while Robbins, who presided over the whims of Pioneer, was almost as stolid in appearance as an Indian. With Disturber II. and Viva up the course, Pioneer went away under her own power, while the Dixie was towed to the readying-up point.

Two minutes before the time for the start, at 2 o'clock, the four speed marvels were seen a mile down the course coming through under full speed. Every one marveled at the sight of Viva crossing over in front of Dixie in what proved a successful endeavor to capture the inside position.

From the inside the positions were, when Viva had gained the place, Viva, Dixie, Pioneer, Disturber. Each had calculated the time excellently except the Dixie, which Mr. Burnham had opened up a bit too wide. When within twenty-five yards of the line he checked her perceptibly, and had no more than done so when the gun boomed, with the other trio away under full power, and almost at the signal.

Pioneer First Away at Start.

Pioneer went away in the van flying. Dixie was cut loose, however, and by the time a quarter mile had been covered was even with the leader. By the time the first turn—about a mile from the start—had been reached, Dixie was four lengths in front and going smoothly and fast. Pioneer was second, about fifteen lengths ahead of Disturber, which was a like distance in advance of Viva.

The leaders maintained the same relative positions in the run along the Sound leg, but Pioneer was apparently not weathering the sea as well as her Yankee opponent. There was no apparent change in regard to distance between the racers midway down the Lloyd's Neck leg, but the Disturber boat seemed to be gaining on the challenger.

At the end of this leg Dixie had increased her advantage to about seven lengths, with the other American boats nearly out of the racing. Dixie's engines could be heard reverberating against the hills of Lloyd's Neck, and they made merry music for her partisans. Around the Chateau des Beaux Arts turn Dixie held her own, although, because of a much shorter turn, Pioneer apparently picked up a couple of lengths.

Coming up the homestretch for the first time Dixie and Pioneer got a reception which must have made the crews tingle with gratification. The engines of both boats were being driven to their limit along the grand stand stretch, those of the Dixie humming merrily. As they sped by the judges, Pioneer was directly in the wake of Dixie, the latter being 4 seconds ahead at this stage, as against 24 in the first heat. Dixie's time at this point was 13.08, while that of Pioneer was 13:12.

When racing on the outer leg, and in relatively the same positions as in passing the committee boat, the English adherents were shocked to see the Pioneer stop, as though it had run aground. After a minute's delay she was off again, but with greatly diminished speed—probably one-quarter of her ability. Dixie was seen to reduce her pace through this part of the race, but not because of any disability.

Pioneer's Engine Disabled.

When the Pioneer had not shown from behind the fleet of excursion boats by the time Dixie was making the turn for home concern was again felt by the committeemen. She was finally seen floating broadside, with her crew working hard to eliminate engine trouble. For fully nineteen minutes she lay helpless, Viva passing her in the meanwhile and when Dixie was making the stretch run.

Dixie's elapsed time at this point, the second lap, was 26:23, showing that the chief of the defenders had taken 13:15 for the triangle. Dixie was at the top of the stretch when Viva, now second by a good margin, was in the middle of the back stretch.

At precisely the same time that Viva was passing the judges for the second time Dixie was lapping Pioneer, which was drifting all the while helplessly. Viva's time at this stage was 33:42 for the two laps. Her first had been done in 17:57, which she bettered in the second round by 2:12 by doing 15:45.

Pioneer was finally started again, and she passed the judges at 2:43:03, elapsed time, showing that 29:51 had been taken for the circuit. She was going at great speed and nine miles behind Dixie, which was five miles in front of Viva. Dixie covered the third lap in 13:57, with an aggregate time of 40:20.

The English boat went on her way around the third lap amid a great whistle salute just at the time when Dixie was making the first turn on the Sound leg. At about this time Disturber, which had been missing after the first ten minutes showed near the shore of Lloyd's Neck. Following this Viva had trouble and stopped for a minute and a half in the vicinity of the turn for home.

She managed to get going again, but in a gingerly fashion, causing her to take 22:20 for the lap. Just prior to this occurence Dixie lapped Viva, and passed on her way to the finish.

Dixie's Great Dash Homeward.

Dixie came home with a wonderful pace, throwing up spray on either side ten feet high, and leaving a path of churning water half a mile long. She pulled up half way up the course and found her way back toward the finish under the lee of the many boats on the inside. She beat Viva eight miles.

Passing on to her final lap Viva was seen to be in difficulties, her crew pumping oil so vigorously as to occasion comment. Pioneer caught and passed Viva at the top of the stretch, gaining half a mile in a little over twice that distance. There was no let-up to Pioneer's speed from this point on to within half a mile of the finish, when she again stopped as though scuttled, once more drifting broadside on the course.

Once more it was engine trouble, but this time there was no release from the mishap, with the result that Viva ultimately came along, passing her and corraling second place. At the time Viva was passing the finish Pioneer was being towed inshore. Viva's time for the race was 1:18:04.

The following table will show at a glance the time of each lap for each boat passing, and the elapsed time of each for the race:

	1 Lap.	2 Laps.	3 Laps.	4 Laps.	Elapsed Time.
Dixie IV.	2:13:08	2:26:23	2:40:20	2:53:47	0:53:47
Pioneer	2:13:12	2:43:03	2:56:30	Did not finish.
Viva ..	2:17:57	2:33:42	2:55:42	3:18:04	1:18:04

J. E. SULLIVAN QUITS BOXING COMMISSION

Chairman Sends Resignation to Gov. Dix Asserting Disabilities as the Cause.

O'NEIL TO FIGHT FOR REFORMS

Madison A. C.'s Lease and Methods of Conducting Fights Arouses Up-State Member of Commission.

James E. Sullivan, recently appointed a member of the New York State Athletic Commission and immediately named as Chairman of that body, which is to regulate boxing in this State, yesterday resigned as a member of the commission. In his letter of resignation, which was forwarded to Gov, Dix at Albany, Mr. Sullivan gives as his cause for retiring his recent injury sustained in a train wreck at Fort Wayne. This has confined him to his home in Huntington, L. I., and it will be some time before he will be able to be out again. Being unable to give the work the attention which it requires, he has decided to withdraw. His letter to Gov. Dix follows:

Sept. 5, 1911.

Hon. John A. Dix,
Executive Chamber, Albany, N. Y.:

It is with regret that I forward you my resignation as a member of the New York State Athletic Commission, to take effect at once. I am confined to my room from injuries received in the Fort Wayne wreck, and will be confined for some time. The work of the commission is at this moment of the kind that will require a member who can have his hand at the helm. I had hoped to be able to help the State regulate a sport that certainly requires regulation, and he who accepts the post should be able to work. At present I am not. JAMES E. SULLIVAN.

Mr. Sullivan's resignation further complicates the situation which sprung up last week as a result of the conditions surrounding the Wells-Brown bout at Madison Square Garden. It was the first big bout under the new law, and there were several features connected with it which did not serve to elevate the sport. Affairs were conducted in such a way that the commission felt obliged to call a hearing Saturday morning. It ended most abruptly and unsatisfactorily, and the commission, at least Commissioner Frank O'Neil of Binghamton, found out none of the things which he endeavored to learn from Patrick Powers, one of the promoters. Major John J. Dixon, the other Commissioner present, voted against his colleague and caused a deadlock. Mr. Sullivan, the other member and the Chairman of the commission, was unable to attend the hearing, and the dead-lock put the entire matter squarely up to him for a settlement at the next meeting.

It was announced yesterday by Secretary Charles J. Harvey of the commission that a meeting will be held Friday morning at 10 o'clock. The purpose of the meeting is not announced, but it is understood that some action may be taken on the Madison A. C. trouble. Such a thing is unlikely, however, unless Commissioner Dixon backs down from the stand he took in Friday's inquiry. As Mr. Sullivan is now out of office and a successor is hardly likely by Friday, the settlement of this case will most likely be put over until the new member of the commission is appointed.

It was rumored yesterday that Commissioner Frank O'Neil of Binghamton, who encountered so much opposition from his colleague, Commissioner Dixon, last Friday, would also tender his resignation. One report was that he had decided it was useless to try to buck against New York City politics and regarded himself as an outside member, unable to bring about any reforms if they affected New York City. But Mr. O'Neil has let it become known that he has no intention of resigning. He is a fighter, and he now has a fight on his hands with the Madison A. C. which is taking up all his time. Instead of resigning, it is understood that Mr. O'Neil plans to make a trip to Albany and hold a conference with Gov. Dix, explaining to the Executive some of the inside workings of the boxing game which he will endeavor to wipe out.

That the Frawley law was not lived up to by the commission in issuing boxing licenses has been brought out plainly by the recent trouble at Madison Square Garden, and has put the commission in anything but a favorable light. The bill distinctly states that a club to secure a license must have a lease of one year on the building where the bouts are conducted, but in some manner the Madison A. C. was licensed when such a lease was absolutely impossible. Contracts have already been let to a wrecking company to begin the demolition of the Garden next February, and this fact alone would prevent a year's lease. However, it is stated that the Madison A. C. has a paper giving them a lease on the building for one year for the consideration of $1. That such a paper could have been regarded by any one as a bona fide lease seems most unlikely, yet the Madison A. C. was among the first clubs to obtain a license.

The lease question at the Garden is one of the things that Commissioner O'Neil has set out to clear up, and in view of what has gone before it is likely that either a revocation of that license or Mr. O'Neil's resignation will be a matter of course, as soon as the commission is reorganized. The sale of tickets at advanced prices and the list of persons sharing the profits of the Madison A. C. are other problems on which Mr. O'Neil is working.

Mr. Sullivan was named as Commissioner after Bartow S. Weeks, who had been originally named, had found it impossible to serve. His long activity in sports made Mr. Sullivan the logical candidate for Chairman, and he was chosen at the first meeting held. It is expected that Gov. Dix will appoint a successor to Mr. Sullivan within the next few days.

WANTS SULLIVAN TO STAY.

Gov. Dix Will Ask Commission's Chairman to Reconsider His Action.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 5.—Before accepting the resignation of James E. Sullivan as Chairman of the new State Athletic Commission, Gov. Dix proposes to ask Mr. Sullivan to reconsider his action. Until Mr. Sullivan recovers from the injuries he recently sustained and is in a position to have a personal talk with him, the Governor does not intend to act on the resignation. If Mr. Sullivan declines to continue to serve, the Governor plans to appoint as head of the commission a man well qualified for the place.

The Governor expressed the opinion today that the Frawley law, providing for State regulation of boxing matches, will work out satisfactorily and elevate the sport after it has had a fair and thorough test.

St. James Stud to be Sold.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Sept. 5.—Irving H. Wheatcroft, proprietor of the St. James Stud Farm at St. James, D. C., and Lexington, will ship his horses to Melbourne or Sydney, Australia, to be sold at auction. In the stud here are sixty mares, forty foals, and ten stallions, including St. Savin, Caesarian, and Don Royal.

LANGFORD DEFEATS JEANNETTE IN FIGHT

Whirlwind Finish by Boston Negro Easily Earns Him Advantage in Bout at Garden.

In one of the greatest boxing bouts between heavyweights seen in New York in years Sam Langford of Boston defeated Joe Jeannette of Hoboken last night at Madison Square Garden. A whirlwind finish by the Boston Tar Baby in the final round dispelled all doubts as to where the honors belonged, as it put an effective end to a rally by Jeannette, started in the seventh round, which threatened to place him on even terms for his inferior work in the early rounds. But in the closing chapter Langford cut loose as if a championship depended on his efforts, chased the elusive Jeannette around the ring, and, finally cornering him, rained terrific wallops to the stomach and head with sufficient force to make the Hoboken negro stall and hold on. Langford put Jeannette down on one knee in this round, and Joe pulled himself up by grabbing Sam by the foot.

Twice before during the bout Jeannette had been sent to the canvas from the force of Langford's blows. In the first round Langford shot over a terrific right swing, which landed flush on the jaw of the Jersey negro and he went down. He jumped up before Referee Charley White began to count. Again, in the fourth round, Langford landed a right on Jeannette's jaw, and Joe went down hard. It looked as if Jeannette was doomed for a knockout at this period, and, following the advice of his seconds, he remained down for the count of eight. As soon as he regained his feet Jeannette made a rush for Langford, entwined his arms around Sam's body, and clung closely until he had fully regained his senses. Langford himself had a chance to rub against the canvas in the second round, but the slippery floor did as much to put him down as a right hook which Jeannette landed while Sam was slipping. The blow did not weaken him, and he was up in an instant.

Although defeated for the greater part of the way, Jeannette put up a great fight. The ability to absorb punishment, which has featured many of Jeannette's fights in the past, was much in evidence, and he took some hard punishment without flinching. Jeannette had the advantage in height and reach over his opponent, and when he devoted his entire attention to boxing he was able to hold off the Bostonian, and at the same time send over a few hard wallops. But he had neither the strength nor the terrific punch of his opponent, and these two factors really decided the battle.

In the seventh, eighth, and ninth rounds, after it appeared that he was wholly outclassed, Jeannette made Langford appear like a novice most of the time. Joe swung, jabbed, and ducked in such a way that Sam did nothing more than take punishment and miss swings. At the conclusion of each round the crowd, which did not appear especially strong for Jeannette at the start, gave the Hoboken negro an ovation for his come-back from what appeared to be certain defeat.

Langford took the lead in the first round, slowed up enough in the second so that Jeannette managed to hold him and followed by taking the next four rounds. In the fourth and fifth Sam showed to better advantage than in any other rounds of the fight. In the fourth he landed at will with both right and left to Jeannette's head and body and finally put Joe down for the count of eight. He was still pounding away and it looked bad for Joe when the bell rang.

In the seventh, eighth and ninth rounds Jeannette showed wonderful recuperative ability, and from an apparently sure loser began to set the pace. His punches were harder than during the early rounds, in spite of the punishment he had taken, and his judge of distance was superb. Langford followed him around the ring, trying to corner Jeannette, but Joe generally slipped out of the danger zone, and continued to jab and pound Sam. In the tenth Sam came back, showed the kind of fighting that had given him all the honors in the early round and soon had Jeannette in distress. Joe succeeded in slipping over one or two hard swings in this round but for the most part he was on the receiving end of Sam's punches.

It was announced by a club official that the men were fighting for a purse of $10,000, to be equally divided.

Twenty rounds of boxing by little fellows made up four preliminaries. In the semi-final, which went the full six rounds, Leo Johnson outpointed Tommy Leonard. Young Joe Gans had the call over Willie Adams in a six-round preliminary, and young Eichler outpointed Kid Lewis. In the opening bout George McGregor gave up in the fourth round against Benny Jones.

Langford was a favorite at odds of 2 to 1 to 3 to 1 in what little betting was done. Not much money was wagered on the result, as few close followers of the boxing game could figure Jeannette as a possible winner. He has shown gameness and staying power, but not the cleverness or hard punch which Langford was known to carry. In the Garden no betting was seen. Four large signs referring to the anti-betting law were displayed at the two ends of the hall and on the sides just opposite the ring. Two months ago such a bout would have occasioned considerable betting, but the work of the two men in recent bouts changed matters considerably. Jeannette's work against Tony Ross and Porky Flynn within the past two months did not come up to expectations, and seemed to indicate that the Hoboken negro was going back. During the same period Langford easily disposed of Jim Smith and Tony Ross, the latter lasting only six rounds.

A crowd of about 8,000 fistic followers witnessed the bout, and the seating arrangements were excellent, showing up to especial advantage after the disorderly scenes of last week. Extra chairs had been placed on the main floor directly behind the ringside boxes, and they proved ample to take care of the crowd. The upper galleries, which contained the lower price seats, were filled early, and before the first bout started there was not a vacant seat above the arena chairs which ran up from the main floor. No standees were allowed in any part of the building except on the main floor near the front entrance.

Outside the building extra policemen took care of the crowd, and there was no more confusion getting into the building than there was in getting chairs, once inside. The ringside boxes were entirely filled, but the arena chairs and boxes showed many vacancies. The management was prepared to accommodate a somewhat larger crowd, and easily took care of the gathering. Every one got his proper chair, there was no standing in the aisles, and not the least sign of disorder.

Langford entered the ring as soon as the semi-final bout ended, and Jeannette followed in less than a minute. Neither received any great ovation. Langford was looked after by John Davis, Joe Hicks, Artie McQueen, Dick Muller, and Dan Flynn. Jeannette's seconds were Dan McKettrick, Willie Lewis, Willie Murphy, Jack Denning, and Jimmy Johnson. It was announced that Langford said he weighed 168 pounds and Jeannette 180 pounds. Langford, looking much better than in his recent bouts, appeared to be above the figure which he named. While the men were getting ready Carl Morris, Al Kaufman, and Jim Flynn were introduced. It was announced that Langford and Jeannette had agreed to box straight Queensberry rules, protecting themselves at all times.

Cy Smith and Seiger Draw.

Cy Smith and Charlie Seiger, both lightweights, of New Jersey, fought ten slambang rounds last night at Brown's Gymnasium, but in the general summing-up neither man could be credited with an advantage. Both men started out from the bell to force matters and wipe out the long-standing grievance, and never let up in the showering of blows until the final gong. On several occasions after the gong had sounded for the ending of the round the men refused to break and had to be parted by the referee. The bulk of both men's work was directed to the body, and each showed the marks of hard punishment around the stomach and ribs.

The Test that Sold it

If you are interested in motor-trucks you can profit by reading of this experience:

The Pioneer Fireproof Storage Warehouses were one of the first companies of their sort to use motor-trucks. They bought four made by a very prominent company whose experience in automobile making was unusual. These were good trucks; they did good service.

When we discussed the Commer Truck with these seasoned motor-truck buyers, pretty theories would have been useless. They had learned that the actual work done is the real test of a motor-truck.

A Commer Truck demonstrated for them. They tried it severely. Finally they made this comparative test between one of their trucks and a Commer Truck of equally rated carrying capacity.

The Commer was loaded with 1,700 cubic feet of household furniture, weighing 4 tons, while 700 cubic feet—1,000 cubic feet less—of similar merchandise, weighing 2 tons, was put on the other truck. In the test the Commer therefore carried twice the load on the other truck. Both trucks then started for Glen Cove, Long Island—28 miles distant.

The Commer, with its much greater load, made the round trip in just 2½ hours less than its rival, and the Commer consumed but one-half as much gasoline.

In consequence of which, the fifth and sixth motor-trucks to enter the Pioneer Fireproof Storage Warehouses' service are Commer Trucks, despite their considerable increase in purchase price over the first trucks bought. These Commers are bought after practical motor-truck experience and comparative tests of real significance.

Then, too, while many Commer Trucks are seven years old, and while many Commer Trucks have done 200,000 miles of service, not one Commer has ever worn out. The useful life of a Commer thus seems practically indefinite, provided its maintenance is kept up in an efficient manner.

The Meaning to You

In buying motor-trucks, make the investment so there can be no regret. Buy only after you have tested the truck under your own trucking conditions. Accept no statement merely on faith. Demand evidence that would convince even the most careful of buyers.

It is such buying that has sold every Commer Truck in service in this country, and the satisfaction these Commers have given and the service they have done makes it commercially sound for us to include this clause in every selling agreement we make:

IF, IN THE OPINION OF THE PURCHASER, AFTER NINETY DAYS TRIAL ANY COMMER TRUCK SOLD BY US DOES NOT DELIVER THE SERVICE AS REQUESTED BY THE PURCHASER AND ACCEPTED BY OUR EXPERT, WE WILL AGREE TO TAKE BACK SAID COMMER TRUCK AND REFUND THE PURCHASE PRICE OF SAME MINUS A REASONABLE CHARGE PER MILE FOR SERVICE RENDERED.

We would not dare have this faith in the Commer if it had not been proved to us that the Commer is the world's best high-duty motor-truck.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Sept. 5.—New York made it a clean sweep over the Red Sox in the final game of the series to-day, winning by a score of 4 to 3. A sideshow wild man never had anything on Blaine Thomas, who started to pitch against Chase's men, only to last a fraction of an inning. During his stay on the mound Thomas hit Daniels, passed two men, and appeared to be ready for a fine killing when Donovan withdrew him. Hall supplanted Thomas and finished out the first inning in grand style.

Boston introduced seven men to the bat in their first inning, a grand total of two hits and numerous other things netting one large run. It's a question whether the Sox would have scored at that as Blair, in trying to catch Hooper off second, threw wild, which let him go to third.

Speaker put the Boston right fielder over the pan when he connected with a solid two-bagger. It was a great day for the outfielders on both teams to display their prowess. Speaker made two running catches that robbed New York men of hits. Blair drove a long one out to centre, and that looked good for all the bases, but Speaker pulled it down in a beautiful sprint.

Like Speaker, Daniels made a couple of plays that were out of the ordinary. Both were inside the third base foul line and after a long run in he snatched the balls out of the air. Neither one of the plays amounted to anything as far as Boston was concerned, for at the time Boston did not have a man on base for a chance to score. Unlike Speaker's plays, Daniels's catches were not so effective. Speaker stopped New York from scoring with his great plays. Boston's outfield support was gilt-edged. Yerkes and L. Gardner did not help matters a great deal with their errors. Yerkes's error was a hard one to lose as he was trying to make sure of a double play, and in attempting made a mess of it and threw wide to Lonergan at second.

Hal Chase was very much in the foreground with his stick work, a three-bagger and a double constituting his share of the swatting. For Boston Hooper and Speaker were the effective hitters. Speaker's playing altogether was of the kind that is not witnessed every day.

Lonergan had the chance to make a record for himself when he came to the plate in the opening inning. At that time there were three men on. There was no denying Lonergan tried hard enough to make a hit, and in fact waited and put Caldwell in the hole before he went out. A foul down in Hal Chase's territory closed the chapter.

Boston hit Caldwell for clean hits from the opening up to the fourth inning. After that there was nothing doing until the eighth inning, when two hits netted as many runs.

Boston couldn't connect with anything in its final turn and were easy outs. Lewis was sent in to hit for Lonergan and he helped to quicken the retiring of the side by whiffing out.

New York's run in the eighth inning ended its scoring. It appeared during the last three innings as if Boston was to wrest the game away from the New Yorkers, as they seemed bound to make one of their famous and victorious finishes. There was a flash in the eighth when two runs were made and there was ample opportunity for more.

TWO HITS OFF CURTIS.

Philadelphia Pitcher Shuts Out Brooklyn Without Much Effort.

Cliff Curtis, late of Boston and Chicago, but now wearing Philadelphia livery, came close to pushing himself in baseball's hall of fame yesterday. Working against the Superbas at Washington Park the Quaker slabman went as far as the seventh inning before a Brooklynite was able to reach first base, and visions of a no-hit game were growing stronger every minute. But with one out Zach Wheat pushed his bat against one of Cliff's benders and dropped the bulb into an unoccupied spot in right field for two bases. It was the only clean hit scored off Curtis during the afternoon, as the bingle credited to Davidson in the ninth inning was fielded cleanly by Walsh, but too late for a putout at first base. Philadelphia won the game, 6 to 0.

Capt. Mike Doolan of the Phillies began an enforced vacation of three days yesterday by special request of President Lynch for his run-in with Umpire Johnstone in the morning game on Monday. A fine of $25 is also tacked on the suspension. Doolan differed considerably with the umpire when Wheat was called safe on his steal, and was finally chased off the field. In the afternoon Dode Paskert tossed his bat and his cap high into the air to denote disgust at a called third strike, and the exhibition will cost him $25. He did not draw a suspension and took part in yesterday's game.

The Phillies were as strong with the willow as the Superbas were weak. Manager Dahlen trotted out Burk to make it three straight over the Quakers, but he failed to puzzle and lacked control, so he was derricked after two men had faced him in the third inning. Up to that time he had allowed six hits, given three passes, and hit one man. Ragon, who succeeded him, was also hit hard. The visitors hit safely in every inning, and every member of the team got at least one hit. Magee led with three singles, all of which helped in the scoring.

Brooklyn's first hit followed a pass in the seventh inning, and the other hit came just before two passes in the ninth, but on neither occasion could Curtis be reached for the hit which would chase in one or more runs. In the other seven innings the Superbas went out in one-two-three order.

Singles by Knabe and Magee, a hit batsman, a pass and a sacrifice fly by Luderus helped to score two Quaker runs in the first inning. Successive singles by Walsh, Madden, and Curtis added one in the second inning, and Lobert scored in the third inning on a pass, Magee's single, and a passed ball. The next run came in the eighth on Luderus's double and Walsh's single, and the final count arrived in the ninth on Lobert's double, Magee's single, and Tooley's poor throw. The score:

Tinker Wins Game for Cubs.

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—Tinker was easily the star in to-day's game with St. Louis, his fielding and hitting being responsible for Chicago's victory, 3 to 2. His triple in the fifth inning drove in two runs, which won the game. Score:

HARVARD GOLFERS BEST.

Williams College Defeated in Two Events at Baltusrol Club.

Collegians got their annual championship tournament under way at the Baltusrol Golf Club yesterday. They did not rush to the fray, so to speak, as it was found possible to settle only one team match, that between Harvard and Williams, which the first named won, 7 points to 1. As a result Harvard earned the right to play Columbia in the semi-final round to-day. In the other half Yale and Princeton will lock horns.

It had all been arranged the night before to have Harvard play Princeton and Yale tackle Williams, but after the draw had been made word was received from Columbia to the effect that the Blue and White would enter. This complicated matters, necessitating a preliminary round in which three of the five teams had to remain idle. Conditions called for four-ball matches in the morning, followed by singles, each match counting a point.

Although honors rested with Harvard in a majority of the contests throughout the day most of the matches were hard fought. The first foursome in which J. D. Standish and I. D. Fish of Williams were opposed to F. T. Clarke and B. W. Estabrook, had to be carried to the nineteenth green, where Fish won for his side with a 5. The other two matches went to Harvard. The summary:

FOUR-BALL MATCHES.

HARVARD.		WILLIAMS.
F. T. Clarke and B. W. Estabrook	0	J. D. Standish, Jr., and I. D. Fish	1
W. V. Booth and C. M. Armory	1	J. W. Gillette and F. L. Gill	0
F. Sargent and J. G. McNeil	1	P. H. Hyde and C. B. Uttley	0
Total	2	Total	1

Match-Play Summary: Standish and Fish beat Clarke and Estabrook, 1 up, (19 holes;) Booth and Amory beat Gillette and Gill, 1 up; Sargent and McNeil beat Hyde and Uttley, 4 up and 3 to play.

SINGLES

HARVARD.		WILLIAMS.
Estabrook	1	Standish	0
Clarke	0	Gill	0
Booth	1	Hyde	0
Armory	1	Fish	0
Sargent	1	Uttley	0
McNeil	1	Gillette	0
Total	5	Total	0

Match-Play Summary: Estabrook beat Standish, 6 up and 5 to play; Clarke and Gill, all square; Booth beat Hyde, 2 up and 1 to play; Armory beat Fish, 3 up and 2 to play; Sargent beat Uttley, 1 up; McNeil beat Gillette, 1 up.

HACK NEVER COMING BACK.

Defeated Russian Wrestler Will Sail from New York Saturday.

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—George Hackenschmidt left for New York to-day, after offering to post $5,000 for a private return match with Frank Gotch. He was accompanied by Americus and Koch, two of his wrestling partners. Hackenschmidt will sail from New York on Sept. 9.

Hackenschmidt's offer for a return match with Gotch was offset later by his contradictory statement that after leaving New York he would never return to America. In the meantime the offer had been carried to Gotch and accepted, with the provision that the match be held within two months. This was not accepted by Hackenschmidt on the ground that his injured knee would not permit his return to the ring in that time. Gotch will leave for Humboldt, Iowa, either Friday or Saturday. His plans are incomplete, but he stated to-day that he would not begin his round the world tour for several months. He wants to spend that much time in Iowa.

Heavyweights at the Fairmont.

Jim Smith and Porky Flynn, a pair of fighters of the old school, will come together to-night at the Fairmont A. C. The bout is scheduled for ten rounds, but few expect the limit to be reached. Smith, in tackling this job, is going out of his class. He says that he is a legitimate middleweight, but because all the "middles," including Bill Papke, have refused to get into the ring with him, he is compelled to box Flynn. He stood up and slugged five rounds with Sam Langford recently, and although beaten, he made a far better showing than many of those who regard themselves a bit ahead of Smith.

Flynn gave Jeanette a great fight two weeks ago.

Smith and Flynn at Fairmont.

Jim Smith, the Bronx farmer, and Porky Flynn of Boston, who will clash in the final bout of the all-star card at the Fairmont A. C. to-night, finished their training yesterday. Both men are said to be in fine shape for the contest, and Smith, who is continually showing advancement in his work, is out for another victory. The other ten-round encounters will complete the card, both for heavyweights. In the semi-final Jack Smith, a brother of Jim, will try his ability against the well-known New Jersey heavyweight, Kid Elle. This should also furnish some good boxing as Elle is strong and well possessed with science. The opening ten-round bout will be between Jack McFarland of Long Island City and Sailor White of New Jersey.

McAleer's All-Star Team.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., Sept. 5.—James McAleer, manager of the Washington American League team, has been commissioned to build up an All-Star combination to keep the Athletics in practice until the start of this year's world's championship battle with the winner of the National League championship. In the event of the Giants winning for the National League, the Washington chief said that the make-up of the team that would train the Athletics for world's series honors would be:

Outfielders—Milan, Washington; Speaker, Boston; Cobb, Detroit.

Infielders—Lord, Chicago; McBride, Washington; Chase, New York; Elberfeld, Washington.

Pitchers—Walsh, Chicago; Johnson, Washington; Ford, New York; White, Chicago.

Catchers—Street, Washington; Sullivan, Chicago.

Changes in National League Schedule.

NEW RECORD FOR DISBROW.

Drives Pope-Hartford Car 25 Miles in 15 Minutes and 25 Seconds.

OLD ORCHARD, Me., Sept. 5.—Louis Disbrow, who yesterday established a new world's automobile beach record for five miles, with a turn, at 3:03, repeated his performance in a tweny-five-mile event to-day. He drove a Pope-Hartford car and covered the distance on a two and a half mile course in 15:25. There were five starters in the event, J. W. Rutherford, in a National, finishing second; Harry Endicott, in an inter-State, third; Harry Cobe, in a Jackson, fourth, and G. C. Jessup, in a Buick, fifth.

In the fifty-mile event Rutherford with his National outclassed Disbrow and won handily in 30:43-5. Disbrow finished second.

The closest contest of the day was a five-mile race, which was won by Endicott with one-fifth of a second to spare over his nearest competitor, H. J. Habick, driving a Cole. The winner's time was 3:56 1-5.

L. P. H. Baldwin, who yesterday did a mile exhibition in his Stanley steamer in 0:42, lowered the mark by two seconds to-day.

Bidwell's Accounts $1,203 Short.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Sept. 5.—Following a meeting of the Kentucky Racing Commission here to-day, Chairman Milton Young made the announcement that W. E. Bidwell, former Secretary of the commission, is short $1,203 in his accounts. Bidwell came to Lexington from Hartford, Conn. He disappeared in June and no trace of him since has been found. His friends believe he is dead.

BUSINESS TROUBLES.

MOSES NEIMAN.—Judge Hough has appointed A. Falck receiver for Moses Neiman, manufacturer of furs at 45 University Place. Assets consist of stock, $1,200, and accounts, $300.

WILTCHIK & WILTCHIK.—Schedules in bankruptcy of Wiltchik & Wiltchik, manufacturers of paper boxes at 190 Greene Street and 67 Bowery, show liabilities of $2,694 and no assets.

JOSEPH BRISKMAN.—Cornelius W. Wickersham, receiver in bankruptcy for Joseph Briskman, wholesale dealer in silks and woolens of 194 Greene Street, has filed a list of creditors, sixty-five in number, whose claims aggregate $21,416.

NICHOLAS SPADARO.—Schedules in bankruptcy of Nicholas Spadaro, dealer in groceries and produce at 417 East Fifteenth Street, show liabilities of $2,204 and nominal assets of $7,933, consisting of stock, $250; fixtures, $175, and accounts, $7,508.

LORETZ & ENDERS.—Joseph L. Loretz and Frank H. Enders, of the firm of Loretz & Enders, dealers in paints and varnish at 163 West Twenty-ninth Street, have made an assignment to Bertram L. Kraus. They began business on Sept. 1, 1910. Henry B. Wesselman, attorney for the assignee, said that the liabilities were $6,000 and assets $3,500.

DUTCHESS CIDER AND VINEGAR COMPANY.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against the Dutchess Cider and Vinegar Company of Verbank, N. Y., by these creditors; Frank Scutt of Verbank, $15,882, money loaned and merchandise; Benjamin J. Pizie, Millbrook, $508, and Swift Bros., Millbrook, $599. The assets consist of a mill valued at $15,000 and mortgaged for $4,000, which has not been in operation for more than a year.

LOUIS DAVOT COMPANY.—Schedules in bankruptcy of the Louis Davot Company, caterers and pastry manufacturers at 1,001 Park Avenue, show liabilities of $12,409 and assets of $4,493, consisting of cash, $139; stock, $400; horses and wagons, $525, machinery and fixtures, $3,000, and accounts, $429. Among the creditors are L. Delemarre, $2,190, merchandise and salary; Beakes Dairy Company, $1,019; George A. Vroom, $875, F. H. Leggett, $818, and H. L. Mathey, $566.

AUDUBON IMPROVEMENT COMPANY.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against the Audubon Improvement Company, builders and real estate dealers of 31 Nassau Street, by these creditors: Lockwood Company, $731; Moritz Einstein, $201, and George F. Moore, Inc., $180. The creditors filed mechanics' liens two weeks ago against the company on the premises at the corner of 156th Street and Amsterdam Avenue, but it is stated the company's equity is of no value, as the mortgages and encumbrances amount to more than the value of the property. Assets are estimated at $5,000. The company was incorporated on June 2, 1910, with a capital stock of $1,000, with Harry Aronson as President and Treasurer, and filed plans to build a six-story flat at the corner of 156th Street and Amsterdam Avenue to cost $105,000 and three flats at the corner of 183d Street and Crotona Avenue to cost $105,000.

Diversify Your Investments

It is a good plan to distribute money among different types of investment, rather than to place it all in any one particular property. This method of investing makes a strong appeal to those investors who require good security and stability, combined with a liberal rate of income.

Write for our Circular No. 820, "Judicious Investment," which treats this subject in detail, and which is accompanied by a diversified list of offerings yielding a return averaging approximately 5½ per cent.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

More Cheerful Tone Reflected in General Advance, Although Trading Is Dull.

FOREIGN SALES AT OPENING

Initial Losses Easily Recovered and Prices Rose During Balance of the Session.

A more cheerful tone prevailed on the Stock Exchange yesterday despite the handicap of lower prices for American stocks sent over from London, which resulted in a lower opening here for several of the leading issues with a particularly noteworthy loss in Canadian Pacific, the initial transaction in which was over 3 points below last Friday's closing price. These early losses were quietly made up during the first hour of trading, and thereafter the market continued to improve and reached its highest level of the session very shortly before the close. Net gains of upward of 1 point were recorded in a number of the leading issues, and Canadian Pacific, which began the day with such a heavy decline, ended with a net loss of only ⅛. The trading was light, although it reached a somewhat larger total than the exceptionally small transactions of Friday. What the course of prices seemed principally to indicate was the absence of any such selling pressure as had been responsible for the late decline in prices. For the past ten days the market appears to have been practically free from the burden of liquidation, and recoveries have readily followed such declines as have taken place during this period. The improvement yesterday was somewhat out of proportion to the volume of buying, much of which was described as short covering, but whatever the origin of the day's purchases, the record reflected a more hopeful atmosphere than has lately prevailed in Stock Exchange circles.

The selling which had depressed American stocks in London over the holiday here and which gave the New York market yesterday an appearance of weakness in its early dealings, was attributed in large measure to Berlin, and was believed to be due to uneasiness over the Moroccan situation. It was noted that stocks largely held in Germany were the weakest in the initial trading yesterday, Canadian Pacific, Southern Pacific, and Baltimore & Ohio being among those which showed the largest initial losses. Advices received by international bankers during the day continued to put a more hopeful aspect on the Moroccan negotiations, and the European Bourses generally, including that at Berlin, closed with some improvement. The postponement until Friday of the final decision by the labor unions concerned in the negotiations with the Harriman lines in respect to their reply to the refusal of the management of those lines to deal with a federated body of shop employes temporarily removed that matter as an immediate market influence. Several signs have pointed to the likelihood that this labor controversy would not be carried to the length of a strike, and yesterday's postponement was accepted in some quarters as strengthening the probability that the refusal of their demands will not lead the men to abandon their work.

Some of the railroad reports coming to hand for the month of July show improvement in both gross and net, and still more recent earnings on a number of roads are reported to be bettering those for the corresponding week of last year. Yesterday several of the Southern roads in their July statements showed gains in gross and net, which helped to emphasize the fact that the South relatively has lately been more active than most other sections of the country. Still other indications of improvement were found in the day's advices regarding the reopening of textile mills in New England, while in another direction the expectation was entertained that the forthcoming statement of unfilled orders of the Steel Corporation would show a small increase compared with last month.

One of the features of the day was further improvement in the securities of the American Tobacco Company, and initial trading in the stock of the Standard Oil Company shorn of the thirty-three companies, whose stocks are to be distributed to the Standard Oil shareholders in compliance with the decree of the Supreme Court. No plan for the readjustment of the American Tobacco Company has as yet been submitted to the committees representing the security holders, but yesterday's movement in the bonds and preferred stock were accepted as indicating progress in the formulation of the plan. The purpose of the security holders' committees, as it was described yesterday by one of those concerned, is to obtain for the present holders securities as good if not better than those which they now have. If this purpose is successfully carried out the ground for the uneasiness which has prevailed among some of the holders of these securities will be removed. It was to the hope of some such outcome that yesterday's advances in these issues was attributed.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

When prices on the Consolidated Stock Exchange advanced in the afternoon the demand for stocks increased, with the volume of business enlarging decidedly. The market broadened out, with fifty-two different stocks represented on the list and the transactions for the day totaling 45,820 shares. It was only at the opening that there was any showing of weakness, with the tendency toward recovery thereafter. The early softness reflected the break in the markets abroad on a renewal of the Moroccan war scare, the selling particularly focusing upon Canadian Pacific and Baltimore & Ohio.

OUTSIDE SECURITIES

Trading in Small Volume, with Losses in Some of the Copper Shares on the Curb.

STANDARD OIL APPEARS

New Jersey Company Alone and Subsidiaries Sell for First Time Since Books Closed.

Curb trading was in small volume yesterday, and, although prices moved nominally, there were a number of recessions at the close. Standard Oil for the first time since the books closed on Aug. 31 made a sale, five shares of the New Jersey Company's stock "ex-subsidiaries," but with rights to any dividend up to Dec. 31, sold at 340 and five shares of the subsidiaries alone sold at 325, making a price for the full stock as it stood at the time of the closing of the books equal to 665, which is 35 points above the last sale made on Aug. 31 for cash at 630. Among the coppers British Columbia sold off from 3⅞ to 3⅝, Butte Coalition from 15 to 14⅞, Giroux from 4¼ to 4⅛, and Greene-Cananea from 6¼ to 6. The Cobalts were strong, Kerr Lake and La Rose gaining 1-16 on the day's trading, and Nipissing gaining ¼.

THE EUROPEAN MARKETS.

Prices Improve Owing to More Hopeful International Situation.

LONDON, Sept. 5.—Money and discount rates were firm to-day.

The stock market, after an early decline due to liquidation, developed a firmer tendency. A more optimistic feeling regarding Continental politics caused fair local and Continental repurchases and made the closing firm, especially in Canadian Pacific and Kaffir shares.

American securities opened steady and advanced during the first hour. Light selling and realizing followed, and most of the gains were lost. The New York opening proved colorless, and during the rest of the session prices scarcely moved, with the exception of Canadian Pacific, which advanced about a point. The closing was quiet and steady.

Money, 1½@1¾ per cent.

The rate of discount in the open market for short bills is 3 per cent.

The rate of discount in the open market for three months' bills is 3@3¼ per cent.

Gold premium at Madrid, 8.55; at Lisbon, 7.

PARIS, Sept. 5.—Prices opened somewhat irregular but closed steady on the Bourse to-day.

Three per cent. rentes, 94f. 40c. for the account.

Exchange on London, 25f. 24½c. for checks.

Private rate of discount, 2⅝ per cent.

BERLIN, Sept. 5.—Trading was quiet and prices improved slightly on the Boerse to-day.

Exchange on London, 20 marks 48 pfennigs for checks.

Money, 5¾ per cent.

Private rate of discount, 3¾ per cent.

FAILURES IN AUGUST.

Failures during August show an improvement over the same month last year in the amount of defaulted indebtedness reported. Dun's says:

> The record of commercial mortality during the month of August, as reported by R. G. Dun & Co., indicates a continuance of the progress toward better conditions which has been so marked a feature of these returns since the opening of the year, for while there is a slight increase in the number reported there is a very considerable contraction in the amount involved as compared with the same month a year ago. Moreover, the number of failures was notably smaller than in any preceding month of the current year, with the single exception of June, while the aggregate liabilities were lighter in every case. The number of suspensions during August was 926, with total defaulted indebtedness amounting to $11,116,631, a marked improvement over last year, when 919 failures were reported with liabilities of $12,442,063, but a somewhat indifferent showing in comparison with the 917 in August, 1909, for $9,020,576. Compared with the 1,119 for $23,782,378 in the same month of 1908 or the 850 for $15,197,749 in 1907, however, the exhibit is notably in favor of the past month.

Financing Cotton Shipments.

The recently established Central Bureau for the registration of cotton bills has not met with as cordial a reception as its promoters expected and has not been made use of so far. However, the season is not sufficiently advanced to make it possible to tell what success the new plan will have, as only a few cotton bills have come upon the market so far. Some of the leading bankers doing a foreign exchange business have refused to lend their approval to the registration plan and will continue to do business in the old way. Bankers in the South and Middle West have never admitted the inadequacy of the old method and have steadfastly refused to join in the operations of a central clearing station in New York. The majority against the innovation is said to be so large as to render the efforts of the Liverpool banks to safeguard the bills of exchange in this manner well-nigh fruitless. Most of the local bankers regard the old method as perfectly safe for buyer and seller, providing ordinary precautions as to the standing of the firms with whom business is being done are observed.

Wheeling & Lake Erie Needs.

In the annual report of the receiver of the Wheeling & Lake Erie there is a suggestion that the delay in the reorganization plans, which were to have provided new money for the rehabilitation of the property, will make it necessary to apply to the courts soon for permission to issue more receiver's certificates. "While the expenditures which have been made were deemed to be all that was imperative to preserve the safety of operation and enable the road to handle business during the receivership," says the report, "it was anticipated that the company would be reorganized before certain other expenditures became necessary. The time has arrived, however, when these additional requirements will have to be provided for, and much of the work should be started with as little delay as possible. The more important items are renewal of light and worn-out rails, reconstruction of bridges, and the replacement of antiquated and worn-out car and locomotive equipment."

⁂

State Crop Reports.

After the long-continued deluge of rain in the East, the report of the Iowa Crop Bureau for the week, complaining of the lack of moisture, make strange reading. Notwithstanding the lack of rain, Iowa has to be thankful for the holding off of frost, which last year came on Aug. 26, and the year before on Aug. 29. The bureau reports that the hot weather has dried out the corn remarkably fast, and that much of the early planting is now safe from frost. With another week of the prevailing weather more than 75 per cent. of the crop will be safe by Sept. 15. Silos are now being filled, and a large part of the crop will go into in shock. Because of the poor pasturage a large part of the crop will go into fodder. In Missouri the September State report says that the rains have greatly improved conditions, as is reflected in the condition of 71 given to corn as of Sept. 1, a gain of 9.8 points over the August report. Last year at this time the condition of corn was 82. Cotton in the State is placed at 88. The acreage of Winter wheat to be planted is put at 106.4, as compared with last year's planting of 1,881,000 acres.

Skepticism of Government Report.

Last week's sensationally poor report on the condition of the cotton crop, as figured by the Department of Agriculture, met with little response in the market, largely because of the tendency among traders to discount pessimism among the planters, who are strongly backed in the agitation for thirteen-cent cotton. This attitude toward the latest Government figures is conservatively voiced in the market letter of a large cotton house, which says: "If the cotton crop of 1911-12, after the unusually good season everywhere except in the Southwest, is only 1.1 per cent. better than last season, then the cotton traders who have been watching the progress of the crop with intense interest are sadly mistaken in their judgment as to the ultimate yield. This is the reason for the lack of enthusiastic buying, which in other seasons would have appeared immediately on the condition figures becoming known. Of course, it is possible that the Government may be right and the trade entirely wrong in their views, but from the volume of selling orders coming from the South since the report was published we are led to believe they felt that the opportunity had come to sell a portion of their crops."

Turning Capital Stocks.

Every year the stocks of most active Stock Exchange securities are bought and sold often enough to represent several times the capitalization of the company whose shares are favored with the greatest degree of activity on the Exchange. A calculation of the trading in Reading, Union Pacific, and United States Steel shows that since the opening of this year up to yesterday the entire common capital stock of the Reading Company was traded in ten times over, that of the Union Pacific 4.3 times, and that of the United States Steel Corporation 3 times. Assuming that all the stock traded in could have been bought, no matter what the purpose for which it was acquired, control of the Reading Company could have been acquired since the beginning of this year twenty times, that of the Union Pacific eight times, and control of the Steel Corporation six times. It is a matter of common knowledge, of course, that the great bulk of the trading which goes to pile up these huge totals in the three most active stocks represents nothing more than the backing and filling operations of traders who in active days may buy and sell a block of stock several times over. All of this goes to swell the record of transactions, although it in no way involves an actual purchase of stock except to the extent to which stock is bought on balance. Thus, a trader might deal in 10,000 shares in a day and at the close of the session be long or short of perhaps 1,000 shares, or perhaps of no stock at all. From the 1st of January, this year, to the opening of business yesterday Reading had been traded in to the extent of more than $700,170,000, although its outstanding common stock amounts to only $70,000,000, divided into 1,400,000 shares of $50 par value. In the same period Union Pacific, which has $216,645,200 common stock, had been traded in to the extent of $930,902,000, and United States Steel, whose outstanding common stock amounts to $508,495,200, to the extent of $1,534,315,900. The stock of either of these companies, which in the ordinary course would have actually changed ownership during a period of seven months would, of course, amount to only a fraction of the amount of the stock traded in.

STOCKS OUT OF TOWN

Firmer Tone Generally Shown in Yesterday's Market Transactions.

CHICAGO BANK STATEMENTS

Decrease of $7,179,384 in Cash Holdings on September 1 Reported.

While little increase in activity was shown in yesterday's transactions on out-of-town Exchanges, most stocks scored gains, under the influence of the improvement in sentiment.

Aside from the sale of a large block of Consolidated Power 4½s for investment the Baltimore market was lifeless yesterday.

There was a noticeably stronger undertone in the Boston market yesterday, and prices showed some advance all around. This was particularly true of the copper stocks, all of which were in good demand and from a fraction to 2 points higher. The general market closed strong and at about the best prices for the day.

Chicago stocks were rather quiet, but the majority of the issues reflected to a degree the course of the New York market in scoring moderate advances. In no case did the gain run into much more than a small fraction, however, the shares hardening in this manner including Can common and preferred, Commonwealth Edison, Sears-Roebuck, Chicago Railways 2s, and Swift. Declines in deposits and cash resources, while loans and discounts remain practically unchanged, mark the exhibitions made Tuesday by the city's National banks in response to the call from the Controller of the Currency for statements of condition as of the close of business Sept. 1. The aggregate of deposits, $452,342,295, shows a loss of $8,742,764 from the last statement. Loans and discounts change only $17,574, that being the gain over the last statement. Total cash of the city's National banks—$177,712,233—is a loss of about $7,179,384, the heaviest declines being in the First National Bank, the National Bank of the Republic, and the La Salle Street.

Reflecting the afternoon rise in New York, stocks in Philadelphia displayed an improving tendency, with the two General Asphalt issues the conspicuous leaders in point of strength. Both the common and preferred seemed to be distinctly scarce at going quotations. The former was particularly buoyant, being pushed up from 28¼ to 30, while the latter advanced to 70. Reading and Lehigh Valley also developed a decidedly better tone.

Yesterday's transactions on the various out-of-town Exchanges, as reported to THE NEW YORK TIMES, were as follows:

Summary of information contained in Letter of President of the Company:

This Company has acquired a large Oil Refining Plant and Works fully completed and equipped on the Bay of San Francisco with deep water facilities and upwards of 100 acres of valuable water front Real Estate.

WORKS—The works are exceptionally well built; the construction being of brick, stone and iron with slate roofs to all important buildings, while the situation and arrangement of the plant provide for operating in a large way at minimum cost.

BUSINESS—The business which has been done by the Works and is to be continued by this Company on a larger scale, is the Refining of Crude Oils for domestic and foreign trade, and this Company will direct its attention especially to the transaction of the Cargo Trade in refined oils to the Orient. The crude oil is to be purchased direct from producers and the refined products sold to the markets of Asia and of all countries advantageously reached by the Pacific Ocean, especially China, India and Australia.

CAPACITY AND EARNINGS—The works have a capacity of about 2,000 barrels crude oil per day. It is proposed to increase materially this capacity later on. At intervals during the construction period of the works some 60,000 barrels of crude oil have been refined, and the refined products have been sold to the foreign and domestic trade of the Pacific Ocean at a satisfactory profit. This profit should amount to approximately $2.00 per barrel when the works are put into full operation. With the present capacity of 2,000 barrels per day, the net profits on this output at $2.00 per barrel would amount to $1,200,000 per annum, a sum sufficient to pay the full 7% annual dividend on the preferred stock, and leave a balance available for dividends amounting to about 25% on both preferred and common stock.

SAFE AND PROFITABLE BUSINESS—The Company does not produce crude oil but transacts a manufacturing and export business, purchasing crude material from producers and selling the manufactured products to the foreign and domestic trade. The very profitable nature of the oil refining business is generally well known. On both the American and Asiatic sides of the Pacific Ocean the demand for refined oils is constantly increasing.

NO BONDS—No Mortgage can be put upon the property, or bonds issued by the Company in priority to the Preferred stock without the consent of every holder of the Preferred stock. This condition is endorsed on each Preferred Share Certificate.

American Oriental Company.

RIO GRANDE EARNINGS DOWN.

Central of Georgia and Cuba Roads Gain—Soo Line Off.

The annual report of the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad, which was issued yesterday, showed net income earned in 1910-11 of $2,483,043, as compared with $3,008,167 in the preceding year. By omitting the preferred dividend for the second half of the year, the Directors were able to show a balance of $1,118,548, as against $399,177 left after the payment of the full year's dividends in 1910. Had the company paid the recent semi-annual dividend, over which there was so much discussion, it would have finished the year with a deficit of $125,000.

The Denver & Rio Grande is responsible for a payment of $1,248,125 semi-annual interest on the $50,000,000 bonds of the Western Pacific, which fell due Sept. 1, and it was to provide funds for this payment that the board passed the preferred dividend.

The Central of Georgia Railway reported gross earnings of $12,907,788, an increase of $855,031 over the preceding year. An increase in the operating expenses consumed $545,182 of this gain, but the company ended the year with a balance of $575,433 remaining after its fixed charges, a gain of $574,216. The company was required to reserve $608,320 for interest payable Oct. 1 on its income bonds, leaving a deficit of $32,471.

The Cuba Railroad had gross earnings last year of $3,059,649, an increase of $500,814, and net earnings of $1,874,071, a gain of $266,771.

The annual report of the Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie, which will be issued shortly, will show a shrinkage of 14 per cent. in freight revenues and of 10 per cent. for all revenues. Gross earnings for the year were about $21,658,640, compared with $23,922,068 for last year. Increased cost of labor and material is blamed for the higher operating expenses, while the short grain crop resulted in the loss in revenue.

COMMODITY MARKETS.

Wheat, after a morning of excitement, turned weak and closed at the low of the day. The early strength was due to the foreign news. The European markets were excited and higher, and there was continuation of good demand reported from the continent. The world's shipments were lighter than expected; there was a large decrease afloat to Europe, mainly in the amount to the United Kingdom, and Russian reports continued distinctly unsatisfactory at the best, with arrivals at the ports small. the world's exports were 10,064,000 bushels, against 10,688,000 bushels the previous week and 13,876,000 bushels last year. The decrease in and afloat for Europe was given at 8,456,000 bushels. Weather conditions were less favorable in the Canadian Northwest, with some rumors of frost. The official estimate, however, is 178,000,000 bushels for the three provinces, or about 50,000,000 bushels more than the official figures last year, and 73,000,000 bushels more than the estimate made by the Grain Dealers' Association. Snow estimated the Spring wheat condition in the United States at 59.7, against 61.5 last month; crop, 185,000,000 bushels; Winter wheat crop, 455,000,000 bushels, a total of 640,000,000 bushels. The home consumption the past two years has averaged 5.70 bushels per capita, besides 80,000,000 bushels for seed, which would take a total of about 620,000,000 bushels this year, leaving apparently only 20,000,000 bushels export surplus. The visible supply decreased 190,000 bushels in the United States and all America decreased 304,000 bushels. Late in the day there were reports of heavy ocean freight engagements, about 3,000,000 bushels the last week, largely of wheat to the Continent; export sales were 56,000 bushels No. 2 red, ¼c under New York September, free on board, and 400,000 bushels Manitoba Saturday and Tuesday. The Missouri State report made the wheat crop 35,000,000 bushels. Argentine official area this year, 16,215,000 acres, which may be increased later, against 15,452,000 acres last year. No. 2 red quoted 98¼c. free on board; No. 1 Northern, 115¼; No. 2 hard Winter, 100; No. 1 Manitoba, 109¼.

Corn—Trading was active early, with prices strong, influenced by wheat and strong European markets, due to scarcity of offerings abroad. The world's exports were only 2,189,000 bushels, against 2,917,000 bushels the previous week; the amount afloat for Europe decreased 1,564,000 bushels, with the total 6,095,000 bushels, against 20,876,000 bushels last year. The Missouri State report made the condition of corn 71 against 61 last month; Kentucky 75 against 79. Snow reported general condition 70.5 against 70.8 on Aug. 1; indicated crop, 2,600,000,000 bushels. Selling was generally late, and the market closed at the lowest of the day. Exporters reported 250,000 bushels at outports. A good volume of ocean freight room has recently been closed for corn. No. 2 corn was quoted at 74¼c, elevator, domestic; 73¾c, free on board. The visible increased 679,000 bushels.

Oats—Prices were higher at the opening with other grain, and there was active buying, but later general liquidation developed, and prices closed at the low of the day at nearly a cent a bushel net decline. Snow estimates the American crop at only 797,000,000 bushels. The visible supply increased 1,903,000 bushels in the United States and decreased 403,000 bushels in Canada. Standard oats were quoted at 47½c; No. 2 white, 48c; No. 3 white, 47c.

Provisions—The market was higher at the opening with grain, and on the small live-hog receipts, influenced also by the good decrease in Chicago provision stocks for the month, but later reacted and closed quiet.

COTTONSEED OIL.

Demand was more aggressive than at any time since the downward movement culminated. Sharp advances were scored over the holiday, and even at the higher levels the disposition to oppose the advance was not great. It is claimed that European inquiry, speculative and otherwise, has again assumed fair proportions, with the buying by foreigners not only confined to oils, but also fats, as is partly confirmed by the recent buying in the Chicago lard market. Crude oil offerings were slightly more liberal, but still comparatively light and easily absorbed. The recent cotton Government report probably had some influence in the gain of the day, but generally it was not regarded as a salient factor.

COTTON.

Reflection over the Government report during the holidays failed to change the aspect of the cotton situation materially, and the trade in general was in a state of incredulity at the opening of yesterday's session. A firm undertone, however, prevailed during the early trading, mainly the result of good Liverpool advices, suggesting possibly some nervousness on the part of foreigners relative to crop conditions. The strength abroad was accompanied with private advices stating that the Continent was a free buyer, but developments later in the day led to a belief that the demand from that source was not inspired altogether by the American crop report, and probably represented the periodical purchases to be expected. At the moment it appears that neither the American nor foreign spinner will be stampeded into buying because of the low Government condition, although it is undeniable that prospects have been marred sufficiently so as to regard deterioration accounts more seriously than heretofore.

At levels approximately ten points higher than Friday's finals, offerings of cotton increased materially, with persistent pressure that did not subside until near the close. It was the gossip that a prominent operator identified on the bull side of the August delivery was liquidating. Southern offerings of spots were liberal, and, although a slightly better foreign demand was reported, it did not stir bull enthusiasm. New Orleans interests were good buyers in the local market, thought to represent hedges against foreign sales, but aside from this short covering seemed to furnish the principal support.

Sentiment remains bearish, and insect complaints from Alabama and Mississippi failed to stimulate new buying. Wet weather was reported in the Central West, where moisture has been excessive, but apprehension on this account was also limited. A report issued by the New Orleans Cotton Exchange was below expectations of the bulls, placing the amount consumed the past season at 12,134,000 bales. The crop was given at 12,120,000 bales.

Reverting to the recent Government report, forty-one members of the Oklahoma State Cotton Exchange estimated the crop at 1,043,000 bales, with the opinion among shippers that the condition should be 75 instead of 62. A letter said to have been written in advance of the Government report by the Secretary of the Alabama State Board of Agriculture to farmers attracted attention. The percentage of deterioration was requested, it being claimed that misleading reports had been circulated, to the effect that farmers had the prospects of the largest cotton crop ever grown, and in consequence thereof prices had been reduced.

COFFEE.

Coffee—Bulls supported the September position, and at the opening this month was 2 points higher, while the later positions were 4 to 9 points lower. After an early selling movement the market hardened a little and closed steady at 3 points decline to 3 points advance. Total sales were 50,500 bags, and operations were mostly in the way of evening-up old contracts. Havre came ¼ to ½f net lower than Saturday, while Hamburg declined ¼ pfennig. Both Rio and Santos were unchanged. The total movement this season now aggregates 3,011,000 bags, against 3,370,000 last year, and 4,708,000 two years ago. The world's visible supply increased 578,682 bags during August, bringing the total to 11,463,544 bags, compared with 14,250,584 last year, when stocks decreased 3,033 bags.

Total warehouse deliveries in the United States for the week were 93,731 bags, against 114,848 last week, and 165,538 last year. Of the former amount New York had 83,178 bags.

FOREIGN TRADE OPPORTUNITIES.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—The Consular and Trades Report will note the following foreign trade opportunities. Further information regarding these may be obtained by addressing the Bureau of Manufactures, care of the Department of Commerce and Labor, Washington, D. C., giving the number of item referred to:

7,287. HEATING APPARATUS.—An American Consul in Oceania reports that a leading banker in his district is desirous of obtaining information regarding American methods of heating houses by furnaces and radiators, which are unknown in that region.

7,288. CAPITAL FOR HARBOR WORKS.—An American Consular officer in a country of Western Europe reports that a local business man is seeking capital to develop a harbor of the country in question. He has furnished the officer with a descriptive chart showing the projected works; also a letter giving fuller details as to the methods of accomplishing the results desired and the prospects of successful completion.

7,289. TENDERS FOR BRIDGE CONSTRUCTION.—Consul General Peter A. Jay of Cairo has forwarded a series of documents relative to the construction of a new Ghezirah Bridge at Cairo, for which the adjudication has been fixed for Nov. 1, 1911. The series contains information and specifications, an annotation of documentary calculation, and eighteen designs and blue prints.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—The barometric pressure is relatively low and falling in the West Indies, and there were some indications Tuesday afternoon of a disturbance in the Caribbean Sea, a considerable distance north of Haiti.

In the United States the barometric pressure continues low over an extensive area embracing the Middle Mississippi Valley and the Southwest, and it is abnormally high in the Northwest. This pressure distribution has resulted in showers in the South Atlantic States, the Mississippi, and Ohio Valleys.

The temperature is much below the seasonal average over the North Rocky Mountain region, and has risen to above normal in the Middle Mississippi Valley.

The Western area of low barometric pressure will continue to move east and will cause a continuation of unsettled weather and rains over the greater part of the country east of the Rocky Mountains during the thirty-six to forty-eight hours.

A change to considerably cooler weather will overspread the Ohio and Mississippi Valleys Thursday.

Winds along the New England Coast will be moderate to brisk south, probably shifting to northwest Wednesday night; Middle Atlantic Coast, moderate south and southwest; South Atlantic Coast, light to moderate variable.

Steamships departing Wednesday for European ports will have moderate to brisk south and southwest winds and showery weather to the Grand Banks.

FORECAST FOR TO-DAY AND THURSDAY.

Eastern New York and New England—Showers Wednesday; Thursday probably fair and cooler; moderate to brisk south and southwest winds, probably shifting to northwest Wednesday night.

New Jersey and Eastern Pennsylvania—Showers Wednesday; Thursday unsettled and cooler; moderate south to southwest winds.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at midnight, taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

	1910.	1911.		1910.	1911.
8 A. M.	72	70	4 P. M.	86	72
6 A. M.	70	70	6 P. M.	84	70
9 A. M.	75	71	9 P. M.	80	69
12 M.	80	75	12 M.	76	68

This thermometer is 414 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 76; for the corresponding date last year it was 78; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 70.

The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 69; at 8 P. M. it was 69. Maximum temperature, 75 degrees at 1:40 P. M.; minimum, 63 degrees at 3:40 A. M. Humidity, 76 per cent. at 8 A. M.; 85 per cent. at 8 P. M.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Two Big Parcels of West Harlem Property Figure in $425,000 Trade—Investor Buys Park Avenue Apartments—Bronx and Suburban Deals.

A $425,000 trade in the West Harlem apartment house section was the principal item of interest in yesterday's realty market, which was productive of numerous rumors regarding big deals, but few actual sales.

In the West Harlem transaction the Charter Construction Company, composed of L. S. & A. M. Bing, sold to the Jumel Construction Company, of which Dr. Philip Meirowitz is President, the entire block front on the west side of Manhattan Avenue, between 122d and 123d Streets, comprising about nine lots.

The 122d Street corner measures 100 by 100, and the 123d Street plot is 100 by 125 feet, extending easterly to St. Nicholas Avenue.

Bing & Bing accept in exchange from the buyer the new six-story elevator apartment house known as Rosmond Court, at 424 to 430 West 119th Street, on plot 100 by 125, located 50 feet east of Amsterdam Avenue.

With the sale of the Manhattan Avenue property, the Messrs. Bing have now disposed of all of the three places acquired by them last Spring from the Pinkney estate, with the exception of a gore at the northwest corner of St. Nicholas Avenue and 122d Street. Dr. Meirowitz will improve the Manhattan Avenue front with two six-story elevator apartment houses. Moses Crystal negotiated the deal.

Investor Buys Park Avenue Flats.

Edward McVickar, Inc., has sold for the Dexter Realty Company to a Mr. Abrahams, for investment purposes, 1,054 and 1,056 Park Avenue, two five-story flats, on a plot 50.8 by 81. The property is located on the southwest corner of Eighty-seventh Street.

Bronx.

O. Olesen has sold, through J. J. Barry, the houses 2,710 and 2,712 Heath Avenue. The same broker has also sold, for Mrs. E. Kirk, the dwelling at 2,788 Creston Avenue.

The Henry Morgenthau Company has sold to an investor a two-family house on Manida Street.

W. J. Huston & Son have sold for a client the plot 50 by 96 on the east side of Plimpton Avenue, 125 feet north of 172d Street; also the lot, 25 by 96, on the east side of Plimpton Avenue, 75 feet north of 172d Street.

Brooklyn.

William Buermann has sold 90 to 100 Broadway and 381 to 389½ Berry Street, a six-story apartment house on the southeast corner of these thoroughfares; also 232 and 234 South First Street, old buildings, on plot 50 by 100; also 947 Blake Avenue, a two-story house, on lot 20 by 90; also 286 Keap Street, a three-story dwelling, on lot 20 by 125, and 372 Hooper Street, a four-story flat, on lot 25 by 100.

New Jersey.

The Duross Company has sold a block of forty-seven lots on Oakgrove Avenue, between Walter and Division Avenues, Hasbrouck Heights, N. J., for the Colling & Smith Company to a builder, who will erect several dwellings at once.

Recent Buyers.

Lawrence B. Elliman is the buyer of 122 East Fifty-sixth Street, a four-story high-stoop dwelling, on lot 20 by 100. The buyer will occupy after alterations.

Duveen Brothers' New Building.

Duveen Brothers, art dealers, have filed plans for a five-story and basement building to be constructed on the northwest corner of Fifth Avenue and Fifty-sixth Street.

The building will cover a plot 50.5 by 100, and will have a façade of light brick, with limestone trimmings. Horace Trumbauer, the architect, estimates the cost at $200,000. Duveen Brothers last year leased the site from the estate of George Kemp for a term of twenty-one years. The building will be used for the exclusive occupancy of the lessees.

Leases.

The Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown Company has leased for Joseph Du Vivier the property 137 East Seventy-fourth Street to a client, who will occupy; for the Rev. H. E. Adriance the property 122 East Thirty-sixth Street, furnished; for N. A. Metzger the ground-floor store at 17 East Forty-fifth Street to Alice M. Barclay; for Miss A. C. McNay the parlor store at 51 West Forty-fifth Street to John Sorrell; for the Narada Realty Company the ground-floor store at 27 West Thirty-eighth Street to "Annette," ladies' tailor; for J. Stewart Barney the ground-floor store at 40 West Thirty-eighth Street to Keeber, Ltd.; for the Advocate Realty Company the property 9 West Thirty-eighth Street to John W. Brett; for N. A. Metzger the fourth floor in 17 West Forty-fifth Street to L. J. Tiffany; for the Advocate Realty Company the property 11 West Thirty-eighth Street to a Mr. Proudman; also sublease of the parlor floor at 11 West Thirty-eighth Street to Mrs. Hulda Thomas.

Pierre M. Clear & Co. have leased to Joseph Schultz two of the stores in the new building to be erected at the northeast corner of Grand and Eldridge Streets for a term of years.

The Moisant International Aviators have leased from Stuart Hirschman the factory building at Thompson and Fiske Avenues, just outside of Long Island City, and have removed their plant from Manhattan to that place.

The Ruland & Whiting Company has leased the second loft in 34 Spruce Street to the Marburg Leather Company, the third loft in 225 Pearl Street to Norring & Fisher, the fourth loft in 99 Gold Street to Loeb Brothers' Leather Belting Company, and the top loft in 143 Bleecker Street to the A. Wolff Company.

WESTCHESTER—SALE OR TO LET.

PHILIPSE MANOR

A PLACE with a mile front along the Hudson; a mile from Tarrytown Station, but also with its own station right on the property.

A PLACE where you would be proud to live, and proud to show your friends.

A PLACE where EVERY improvement is installed NOW—not promised.

A PLACE where wholesome restrictions are made, and precautions are taken to do away with uncongenial social life—a point overlooked in many other well advertised developments.

A PLACE where lasting houses have been built (every PHILIPSE MANOR home built by day's labor,) where the conveniences that are a particular delight to the ladies, and that make housekeeping easy, have all been provided for.

A PLACE where you can select your building plot either in a beautifully wooded spot, or almost at the river's edge, to build the kind of home you like the best, with money supplied at 5%.

A PLACE of historic interest, and having unusual advantages from nearby surroundings. The famous Sleepy Hollow Country Club within the mile—Ye Olden Philipse Manor Inn (built in 1683)—Washington Irving's Old Mill—the Headless Horseman Bridge, right on the property. The country driving roads and scenery are unsurpassed—near New York City.

A PLACE where in fact from the start the object has been to create a residence section of the very highest class, confined, as far as the very best efforts of the Company could do so, to such people as would mutually be desirable neighbors to one another.

A PLACE YOU SHOULD CERTAINLY investigate and visit before locating elsewhere near New York City.

The BELNORD

BROADWAY TO AMSTERDAM AVENUE

Eighty-sixth to Eighty-seventh Street

¶ An apartment in the Belnord means more than merely a suite of rooms.

¶ Besides the advantages of location, of peace and quiet, and of highly efficient service, each apartment includes every modern device for extra comfort and convenience.

¶ For instance: Self-cooling refrigerators, vacuum cleaning systems, wall safes, and fireproof storage rooms go with each suite.

¶ Every room in the Belnord is an outside room. Those on the inner sides of the building look on to Belnord Court, a miniature park with walks, grass plots, shrubs and fountains. The building covers an entire city block, and is 12 stories high. It is the largest apartment house in existence.

¶ Suites contain from 7 to 11 rooms and yearly rentals are from $2,400 up. Reservations can now be made for October 1st.

THE IDEAL TOUR IN AUTUMN

Take the Ideal Tour in Autumn if you enjoy the rush of cold air upon your face, the tonic effect of the rushing winds from the snow-clad peak of Mount Washington—a fitting finale to a Summer's touring. Amid the scenic wonderland of New England in her raiment of Autumn color, the brilliant scarlet blending with the browns and toned with greens of every shade, sapphire skies overhead, and the great inter-State highway of New England under wheel—at every turn a magnificent vista of ever-changing scenery.

Cool nights hold no discomfort for the motorist if you elect to take the Ideal Tour, for the splendid hotels are provided with steam heat, and the roaring office fireplace is the centre of attraction as you abide the night and long for the glorious next day's run.

Duty on Hatpins, Combs, Dress, Hair, and Millinery Articles Reduced.

The H. B. Claflin Company and Bloomingdale Brothers won a tariff victory yesterday when the Board of United States General Appraisers upheld their claims for lower duty on hatpins, combs, and other dress, hair, and millinery articles. Collector Loeb exacted a duty of 60 per cent. on the articles under the terms of the Dingley act of 1897 providing for fancy manufactures of glass. The importers maintained that the merchandise should be allowed to enter at 45 per cent. ad valorem as "manufactures of paste." This claim is allowed by Judge Sharretts, the Collector's classification being reversed.

Another decision was handed down by Judge Sharretts, reversing the Collector's decision on so-called reconstructed rubies imported by the American Express Company. The articles were returned for duty under the provision in the Dingley law for imitation precious stones. Under this interpretation of the law the merchandise was made to pay a tax of 20 per cent. ad valorem. The board holds that the rubies in question are not dutiable as assessed, but are entitled to enter at 10 per cent. as gems not set.

Controversies between the customs authorities and importers of glassware under the tariff of 1909 continued to be adjudicated yesterday by the board. Claims by the following regarding a variety of goods were overruled: Bloomingdale Brothers, A. C. Bosselman & Co., Hamburger & Co., Felix Hamburger, D. S. Hesse & Brother, and Eimer & Amend. A protest by Morimura Brothers regarding the classification of beads was overruled, as the importers failed to present evidence at the time set for the hearing.

VACATION HOST FILLS STATIONS AND PIERS

Horde Out to Welcome Returning Army Gives Most Trouble to Traffic Men.

MOUNTAINS OF TROPHIES

The Boy Who'd Caught Turtles and the Man with Seashells Alike Had to be Pleased—Baggage Well Handled.

The vacation army, which has been marching into town for the last two days, swamped the railroad and steamboat terminals from midnight on Monday until noon yesterday. The vacationists arrived by the hundreds of thousands, and from one to four hours late.

No figures for yesterday's traffic were given out officially, but station masters, train callers, and porters, bent with overwork, admitted as cheerfully as possible that they had never seen such a rush in their lives, and that they were glad it was nearly over. Yesterday's early morning traffic, aside from the sleepy Pullman riders who had come from a distance, included the regular commuters, of course, and these could be picked out at a glance, for there was no one at the gates to meet them.

From Sept. 1 to noon of Sept. 5 a conservative estimate of all arrivals by rail and boat is 1,000,000. Pennsylvania officials put their traffic at 438,000, of which 320,000 had passed out of the new terminal in Seventh Avenue and the others through the old Jersey City terminal. The pieces of baggage handled was 25,000. On the Long Island Railroad it was said that 280,000 persons had been cared for since Sept. 1. Seventy-five extra trains with more than 500 cars were run over these roads in four days, accommodating 30,000 persons above the normal number. On the Central Railroad of New Jersey, including the Sandy Hook steamboat service, 40,000 persons were brought into the city since Monday night. All the regular trains ran in sections, and four and five car baggage specials were run from shore resorts in New Jersey. Two extra steamboats were provided for the rush traffic to and from Atlantic Highlands.

Supt. A. R. Whaley of the Grand Central Station would make no estimate of the traffic over the New York Central and New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroads beyond saying that it seemed to him to be the biggest in the history of these roads. Trains arrived at the Grand Central about every three minutes, and the train caller, with the aid of all of his family of megaphoned barkers, could hardly keep abreast with the tide of humanity that begged him to tell just when mother, sisters, and the rest of the family would arrive, and on what track, please.

The Twentieth Century Limited on the New York Central, due at 9:25 A. M., arrived at 2:30 P. M. The delay cost the railroad quite some in penalties. The Wolverine Limited, due at 9 A. M., was 50 minutes late. The Chicago Express, due at 1:48 P. M., arrived three hours late, and the New York & New England Express, due at 3:45 P. M., was nearly two hours late. All the trains from the Adirondacks and the West came in sections of ten to twelve coaches.

"This is worse than waiting for an ocean liner," said one impatient father of a Summer-colony family, "because when a liner comes in its in, but when a train comes in it isn't the one you were looking for at all. How late did you say it was, mister?"

There were four or five at the Grand Central Station to meet every arrival, and most of the congestion there was due to these pestering multitudes. There was one man with a uniform on the improvised waiting platform, however, who never lost control of his better temperament for a moment. That was the station master, W. A. Cramer, who answered the most foolish questions without a whimper. And when four or five rushed at one dear one whom they had not seen for three months, raining kisses on her, him, or it—for sometimes it was a dog—the genial station master smiled as if he were actually amused.

A man who seemed old enough to know better trudged laboriously through a gateway with an apparently heavy box in his arms. A porter trudged behind him with a small bag.

"Guess you'll have to carry it after all," panted the man to the porter. "Those are seashells and valuable stones I found in Maine, and I beg of you to hold them tight."

The porter took up the burden and the crowd laughed.

Most of the vacationists had overcoats. Many carried crude sticks, obviously cut from trees in the northern woods and treasured beyond visible reason. Strings of children, each with a sand pail and a small fishing pole and led through the corridors of roped spectators by nurse maids, were not unusual sights. Behind trudged mamma or papa, more disgusted with the speed of the train than delighted with the changes about the Grand Central. An occasional dynamite blasting in the work yard immediately below added to the realism and lent to the certainty that this was truly New York.

One little boy held tenaciously to a box containing turtles, bullfrogs, and crabs. He was bundled into a taxicab and the turtles, bullfrogs, and crabs went with him. In his wake came little sun-burned sister, who refused to get into the taxicab unless brother threw the animals out. On a compromise the boy and his box were put on the front seat with the chauffeur.

Ten new electric trucks had been pressed into service to haul trunks to the baggage room. One of these was in charge of a green man, who until yesterday had been chauffeur for a taxicab company. The green man must have thought that he was still in the taxicab business, for he raced around his course with such speed that the station master had to give him instructions for safeguarding the lives of spectators.

One proud mother took her five-year-old boy to the nearest barber's shop as soon as the train reached the terminal. There he got a haircut and a shoe shine.

"He's been twelve miles from the nearest town all Summer and he hasn't had his hair cut once," the mother explained to the barber. "You had a nice time, didn't you, Charlie?" added the mother, affectionately arranging the locks.

"Yes-am," replied Charlie, "are we going to a moving picture show now, mamma?"

With all the rush, in which more than 10,000 persons were handled every hour, the baggage room at the new terminal was nevertheless surprisingly neat and orderly, Supt. Whaley took a TIMES reporter on a tour of inspection through this room and explained the system. Trunks arrive hourly by the thousands and an army of trained taggers grab the trunks as they come and distribute them in stacks, the third last number on the baggage check indicating in each case the number of the stack to which the trunk must be taken. There are ten stacks of trunks therefore in the four acres of space allotted to them, and in each stack there are several thousand trunks. Experts take the express companies' duplicate tags and in a glance locate the trunk that is wanted for delivery. The actual time of a trunk inside the baggage room, if immediately called for, is less than an hour.

"Most of the people ask us to take care of their trunks for several days," said Supt. Whaley. "That is why congestion sometimes occurs. We must consign these trunks to a special space and in a rush time like this space is scarce. But everything is satisfactory this year, and we anticipate no trouble.

"It does the railroads good to have a rush like this once in a while. It keys the men up to their best abilities, and the organization is perfected thereby. I like it."

SEIZED AS DYNAMITERS

Two Intoxicated Men Near Mount Vernon Viaduct—Deny the Charge.

Lieut. Atwell and Detective Clancey of the Mount Vernon poilce and Detective Stein of Manhattan arrested two men last night on a charge of intoxication near the viaduct of the New York, Westchester & Boston Railway Company in Mount Vernon, where one of the piers was destroyed on Sunday night with a charge of nitro-glycerine.

Lieut. Atwell said that the men were lying in the grass, talking about the blowing up of the structure. One of them was heard to say, "Why didn't they blow her up nearer the New Haven tracks?" The viaduct spans the New Haven four-track system about 1,000 feet from the scene of the explosion.

The prisoners described themselves as James Johnson, 39 years old, of Highland, N. Y., and Frank Walker, 47 years old, a brakeman of 237 West 189th Street, Manhattan.

Both emphatically denied that they knew anything about the explosion.

"Why, I only got in town this morning," said Johnson. "I don't know anything about any dynamiting of a bridge. I came to Mount Vernon to get a job on the bridge. The first thing I knew I took two glasses of beer and I was dopey. I am sure that one of those detective guys followed me and gave me the dope."

Johnson said he didn't know the name of his companion, who declared to the police: "Every town that we have landed in it seems there has been a bridge blown up."

The men are held on a technical charge of intoxication while the detectives look up their records.

There was great excitement around the viaduct late last night when several revolver shots were heard, and a posse of police and citizens rushed to the scene of the explosion. High up on the trestle a number of men were heard shouting: "Don't shoot. We are going to work up here." The watchmen had taken a gang of riveters for another gang of dynamiters. The workmen were so frightened by the shooting in the air that they gave up working for the night.

The National Erectors' Association, one of whose members is the American Bridge Company, which has the contract for the steelwork of the viaduct, is making an investigation of the outrage independent of the police. Walter Drew, Commissioner of the association, said last evening that he had examined the dynamited part of the steelwork, and was of the opinion that it was done not so much to blow the viaduct up, which would be a very large undertaking, but rather as a notice to the employers that the enemies of the open shop were still active.

"The actual damage at the viaduct," he said, "would not be more than $200, but it will delay the other work. It may be a coincidence that this dynamiting outrage occurred on the eve of Labor Day and shortly before the annual convention of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Ironworkers, which is to be held this month."

The open shop was declared by the associated employers in this city a number of years ago on account of violations of agreements by the union through strikes, and shortly afterward the open shop was declared nationally in the trade.

WEST NOW WANTS PENNIES.

Housewives Think They Could Save with the Smaller Coins.

Special to The New York Times.

SALT LAKE, Utah, Sept. 5.—After years of turning up noses at cheap people of the East who would need such a small coin as a penny in doing their daily business, there has been developed a real call in the West for these same coins. It is largely due to the feeling of the housewives that much money could be saved in their buying at the shops and in other ways if they had the small pieces of money. A movement has been put under way for the banks to import the coins, and some of the shops are already advertising wares for sums that change into pennies, and are handing out those coins.

When an inquiry was recently made into this subject by persons interested it was found that less than 20,000 pennies were in the city. Many of them were held by the banks, which said they had difficulty in disposing of them. As in other cities in the West, the nickel had been the small coin, and the easy spenders had treated even that somewhat contemptuously. The newspapers sell for five cents a copy. Children have been brought up to the idea of asking for a nickel for candy and spending it.

Now the cost of living is coming home even to the free-spending West, and housewives have found that it is not only well to look after the nickels, but the pennies, too. It is pointed out that under the present system if a purchase comes to an odd amount the total is put up to make the even nickel for the shopkeeper. For instance, eggs, now 23 and 33 cents a dozen in other places are 35 here. It is also said that the satisfaction of childish wants with small coins would bring a good saving.

W. W. Armstrong, President of the National Copper Bank, is one of those who has looked into the situation. Speaking of it, he said that the bankers of the city had never been called upon to handle coppers in large amounts, and would not bother with them unless customers asked for them.

"Salt Lake has few pennies in circulation," he explained. "It costs so much to ship them here that we are not in a hurry to get them into circulation. Yet dealers, bankers and retailers admit that if about 2,000,000 pennies could be scattered through the cash registers in the small stores, there would be an appreciable decline in the cost of living, for the poorer families, at any rate."

WANTS TO BE MAYOR AGAIN.

Wittpenn Asks for a Renomiantion and Says He Has Made Good.

Mayor Wittpenn of Jersey City filed with the City Clerk yesterday his petition for the Democratic renomination. He is now serving his second term. In filing his petition he says he will not permit his office or any of its departments to be used for the purpose of building up a corrupt political organization, as he says is suggested by an opponent.

Wittpenn says he has kept all of the campaign pledges made each time he ran for Mayor, and also claims the credit for increasing the public school facilities and accomplishing many needed improvements.

He will have four opponents at the primaries on Sept. 15. They will be ex-Judge Mark M. Sullivan, James A. Omelia, a bill poster; Anthony Hauck, a saloonkeeper, and Robert Ambry, a clerk in the City Tax Office.

WHITMAN FINDS PART OF GUN LAW INVALID

Declares Section Which Forbids Keeping a Pistol at Home Is Unconstitutional.

WHOLE ACT TO BE TESTED

No Doubt, However, That One Obtaining a Revolver After Sept. 1 Without a Permit May Be Punished.

In a statement given out yesterday District Attorney Whitman expressed the belief that the section of the Sullivan pistol law which relates to keeping a revolver in the house and makes it a felony for having it there without a permit is unconstitutional. He also announced that every section of the law would be tested out by the courts as each came up. Here is his statement:

> There seems to be some misunderstanding in regard to the attitude of this office on the so-called pistol law. It seems to us likely that the courts will eventually decide that firearms, lawfully obtained and kept by a citizen on his premises prior to Sept. 1 cannot be confiscated, and the citizen cannot properly be charged with a crime because that pistol remained on the premises and was found there subsequent to Sept. 1.
> It has always been a crime to carry a revolver concealed on the person and the act properly makes it a felony. Pistols cannot lawfully be obtained or carried in this State without a permit since Sept. 1, and, of course, any one who has any such weapon obtained since that date without a permit, whether it be on his person or not, is guilty of a violation of the act.

The first case of the kind came up yesterday when William Ruhl of East Orange, N. J., was arrested at 60 Wall Street after he had accidentally shot Louis Merz of 203 East 174th Street, a clerk employed by Goldman, Sachs & Co. Ruhl, who is employed in the same office as Merz and uses the same desk, was showing Merz his revolver which had been kept in the desk for a long time and was occassionally used by messengers who carry large sums of money to the banks. The gun fell to the floor and one cartridge exploded, the bullet striking Merz in the muscles of the left arm. Ruhl will be arraigned in the Tombs Court to-day.

Police officers at the East Sixty-seventh Street Station were not entirely clear last night over the meaning of the new gun law. Two juvenile prisoners who had been arrested by order of Lieut. Daniel Daly were released by Lieut. Scanlon, who was on duty at the desk when the prisoners were brought in. The prisoners were Joseph Todari, 11 years old, of 1,411 Avenue A, and Frederick Deutsch, 12 years old, of 431 East Seventy-sixth Street. The boys had carried air rifles through the street, and they declared they found the air guns in a rubbish pile at Eighth Street and East River. While Lieut. Scanlon sent the boys home he confiscated the air rifles and will sen dthem where they belong when he finds out where that is.

Lawyer Michael J. Sweeney of 206 Broadway, who represents the Pawnbrokers' Association, called upon the District Attorney and then went to see Assistant District Attorney Wasservogel. They arranged to make tests in the cases of Ivan Prince of 311 Seventh Avenue and Morris Rosenthal of 504 Sixth Avenue, who were arrested last Friday for displaying revolvers in their pawnshops.

That section of the Sullivan law making it a felony punishable by seven years in Sing Sing for any foreigner to have in his possession any kind of gun, including shotguns, will be tested when the case of James Palermo, a laborer of Huntington, L. I., who was arrested Friday for having a shotgun with him, as he intended to go shooting, comes up in General Sessions.

District Attorney Whitman considers this law very important, as it makes an alien liable to arrest for a felony if he passes through the city with a gun. This law will make it hard for persons of foreign birth who come to this country to go hunting in the West.

TORE DOWN WRONG HOUSE.

Therefore It Can Be Rebuilt, Despite the Fire Ordinances.

The rebuilding of part of a dwelling which had been torn down by housewreckers by mistake was put up to William P. O'Rourke, Superintendent of Building of Newark, yesterday. Under the city ordinance an old frame structure within the city fire limits could not be rebuilt, but Mr. O'Rourke ruled that, as it was all a mistake, he would permit reconstruction.

Van Kuren & Sons of Harrison, N. J., have a contract with the Newark Technical School Trustees to wreck the old Hedges home, which stands in the rear of the school building property, at Summit Street and Summit Place. On Saturday the building wreckers set to work tearing down a vacant building at 121 Summit Street. After the roof and part of the side of the structure was dismantled the foreman discovered that it was the wrong building.

The owner of the house is the Rev. Peter Freda, rector of St. Lucy's Roman Catholic Church of 20 Lemon Street. He was not in town and did not know of the damage to the building.

SUBWAY STATION SMOKED.

Scorched Car Drives Out Passengers at Fourteenth Street—Traffic Tied Up.

Defective insulation under the floor of a southbound local Subway train at Fourteenth Street about noon yesterday caused a fire scare in the station and held up traffic for half an hour. The break in the insulation caused a short circuit and a small fire which was fanned into activity until a distressing oily smudge called attention to it. The train was halted and passengers were hurried out of the cars.

Although the fire did not get through the floor of the car it made enough headway to fill the station with smoke and drive passengers from both north and south bound platforms. The sight of the smoke issuing through the kiosks to the street caused an alarm to be sent in and several companies entered the station and put out the fire in quick order. The scorched car was shunted onto a side track.

DISLER DIES IN TRANCE.

Medium Striken at Seance Gage Attended a Victim of Paralysis.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Sept. 5.—Death to-night ended the trance of J. H. Disler, the Los Angeles spiritualist medium, who was stricken more than a week ago while holding a seance at the Ballou home, Coronado. Former Secretary of the Treasury Lyman J. Gage and his wife, who was Miss Ballou, were among the spectators when the medium toppled over, a victim, say the physicians, of paralysis, but according to his followers a victim of angry spirits who objected to having their secrets bared to Mr. Gage, and other mortals.

"I am obsessed with an evil spirit," gasped Disler to-night in the only moment of sanity he had after he was stricken. "I know what is the matter with me. If I could only get my head together I could get out of this and be all right."

Immediately after this declaration he lost consciousness again and died within a few hours.

Mr. Gage declared that Disler was a sick man before he undertook the seance.

"He was plainly weak," said Mr. Gage to-night, "and members of his family tell me that he had been failing for two weeks or more preparatory to giving the demonstration which was so wierdly interrupted. I think there is no doubt that he was a victim of paralysis."

Mrs. Disler wanted her spiritualistic friends to try to recall her husband's mind "from the spirit land," but they dared not attempt it, they said.

HER WASHINGTON BLOOD UP.

Little Miss Morisini Thrashed Boy Accused of Tripping Her.

There was an unusual scene yesterday when the eight-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Morisini, little Mary Washington Bond Morisini, of Chester Hill, a collateral descendant of the Washington family, was brought before Acting City Judge George C. Appell in the Children's Court at Mount Vernon, on a summons charging her with assault in the third degree.

In her arms the child carried a doll almost as large as herself. The charge was made by Albert Kansmann, six years old, the son of a neighbor of the Morisinis, and the Morisinis made a counter charge of assault in the third degree against the boy.

The girl was accompanied to court by her mother, who before her marriage to the son of the late banker, Giovanni Morisini, was Mary Washington Bond, a noted beauty, and her grandmother, Mrs. Bond.

During the hearing Mrs. Bond stood in the centre of the room and told Judge Appell that her ancestors founded this country. Then she added: "Are we not in a court of liberty?"

Judge Appell replied that ancestry would not be considered in the case.

Mary, in telling her story, said that she was roller-skating, on Rich Avenue, in front of her home, on Saturday, when the Kansmann boy ran across the street and placed a large stick on the sidewalk directly in front of her, causing her to fall.

Mrs. Morisini said her child's injuries were serious and she told her daughter to thrash the boy for having caused her fall. Albert denied the stick episode, and said that Mary approached him and beat him about the shoulders and head with a leather lash.

Judge Appell dismissed the case, telling the little boy to keep away from the little girl. He also advised Mary not to take the law into her own hands again, even though she were told to do so by her mother or grandmother.

LETTERS UPSET HOME.

Mrs. John P. Carter Closes House to Escape Anonymous Assailant.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., Sept. 5.—Several threatening letters sent to Mrs. John Pim Carter, whose husband is a member of the firm of Carter & Scattergood, chemists, of this city, have so distressed the woman that she has been compelled to close her home and go to Atlantic City to escape annoyance. The communications, it is said, were sent by a young man who is a member of a prominent family living in the vicinity of Wa-wa.

Mrs. Carter feared, many believe, that the anonymous writer would attempt to injure her two-year-old son. Mr. Carter said to-day that he knows the writer of the letters. The postal Inspectors are working on the case. When questioned regarding the matter at the Hotel Morton, Atlantic City, Mr. Carter said:

"If we were inclined to prosecute in accordance with our first intention, developments of an exceedingly dramatic order would have stirred the neighborhood as nothing else has done in years. We know who wrote the letters and have advised them of the fact. We are willing to forgive and forget and give these people who have annoyed us exceedingly an opportunity to work out their own salvation."

SMOOT FIGHTS FOR TAFT.

Believes That the Democratic Action in Congress Helped Him.

Special to The New York Times.

SALT LAKE, Utah, Sept. 5.—Whatever may be done by other Republican Senators in the West, Senators Smoot and Sutherland of this State will be found working hard for President Taft, and will probably deliver the Utah delegation to him in the next convention. Senator Smoot has just returned from Washington, and is already at work to prevent any insurgent Republican uprising in the State. He professes to be far from gloomy over the outlook for the President.

"President Taft was something of a mystery, an enigma, when he entered upon the duties laid down by President Roosevelt," he declares. "It is the Democratic Party that we now have to thank for discovering in Mr. Taft the strongest, most evenly balanced President, the Nation has ever had, excepting none. It was the session of Congress just closed that brought about this revelation."

Meet me to-morrow, Mr. Goodresser, at any one of my ten Greater New York stores and I'll show you the hat styles that you and the other Mr. Goodressers will wear this Fall.

No need for me to argue here what I have to show you. There are a quarter of a million Goodressers from last season who will testify as to the quality of my hats. The new styles will speak for themselves. Don't forget, Mr. Goodresser, you have a date with your hatter—Truly Warner!

The "Bannockburns"—those smart imported soft hats—are just one of my 167 styles—

ADOLPH KLAUBER, "TIMES"—"Miss Templeton's 'Little Buttercup' is delightful. 'Pinafore' at the Casino is a thing to hear and see and talk about."
ALAN DALE, "AMERICAN"—"I doubt whether in the 'palmy days,' of which we hear so much, 'Pinafore' ever had a more delicious rendering. It was a positive treat all the way through. . . . I'd listen to 'Pinafore' till I was blue in the gills whenever it is sung as delightfully as it was at the Casino yesterday. In fact, this performance cannot be overboomed."

A stout woman stopped the bus in Piccadilly and tried to get in, but without success. The driver leaned down helpfully. "Try her sidewise, marm," he said. "Lor! I ain't got no sidewise," she replied.

Reaching the farmer is a fair and square proposition. There isn't any sidewise to it. You cannot reach the farmer by accident, incidentally, or in any group of general mediums. The only publication that reaches the farmer front-wise, is the publication that helps him most in his work. Half a million farmers read, believe and follow
